"QUIDQU D SUB TERRA EST IN APRICUM PROFERET ÆTAS''

All and Jane

THE ORIGIN PERSECUTIONS AND DOCTRINES OF THE

 $\mathbf{WALDENSES}.$

"Nothing is covered that shall not be revealed; nor hid that shall not be known," - St. Matthew x. 26,

Frence

As bettern error war cagned or war former from the cagned of the control of the cagned of the cagned

Open comeign Lancoln Legger Ingue contract and another ingue contract and another legger ingue contract and another contract for another contract and another contract another contract and another contract anoth ala fre apprae bende mil Coce, anjoydie terome, ques strale ca an son al server tep payie dantema cubita C. son alcomante Lo port une la sonissamente applinit. A greet colonis sonissamente de brise. Sucolo liperish alchieva de colonis sonissamente de brise. Sucolo liperish alchieva de colonissamente de brise. Sucolo per de colonissamente de brise and alconissamente de brise and alconissamente de brise and alconissamente de la posicio de la colonissamente de la companya de la colonissamente de la companya de la colonissamente del colonissamente de la colonissamente de la colonissamente de la colonissamente del c

e

Gmon de birtien inen merengana O' store thronoric and let mal et do fen marchine a trappia Claim non tangel fuent alrey bleck have no fin laternom of fin dayna cenfers là fe finer ambi bun cufu ibame Aprillition agent letelete anne herramet evenie To hard a ligger is all issues a relation of Juren lavernal gla egnir ablacon Ornana sen aqually a fen dupfert Can fe copte tomober observere more is elected at the elected of the clation of a figure orgita mie bintern erior un primento guntain Wir comen Laneth tenon France enternic una nebla lescon Sovent Suen uclion enter eneren C-nor nermade mor ef prer Sietund Sur 104 Sources of Separat street ferr not usen odly mentalialist agregati en la mil-c" cem an algé conciamen due to Kom Lea & Arm atomer top per donan culturar & firm abremements and > alatin appear bent a mil c ecc. mi copie richmie, quefe fete le na ana fen af berner't tre perioc America Cubiti. C. fen alremmer. for wen nen Lis enfegn. nemr noplimit . Jore plante à ma camema liperalli gleichung di In march orcoortm clat pant atref. C. neum boc quina mo no laber lafin. Des

THE ORIGIN

PERSECUTIONS AND DOCTRINES OF

THE WALDENSES

FROM DOCUMENTS,

MANY NOW THE FIRST TIME COLLECTED AND EDITED,

RY

PIUS MELIA, D.D.

LONDON:

JAMES TOOVEY, 177, PICCADILLY.

1870.

CHISWICK PRESS: -- PRINTED BY WHITTINGHAM AND WILKING.
TORES COURT, CHANCERT LANE.

TO HIS HIGHNESS

PRINCE LOUIS LUCIEN BONAPARTE,

AS A TRIBUTE

TO HIS UNRIVALLED PHILOLOGICAL LEARNING,

THIS VOLUME IS,

WITH PERMISSION, DEDICATED

BY HIS

OBLIGED AND OBEDIENT SERVANT,

THE AUTHOR.

PREFACE.

T was on the 30th April of last year, that in a leading article of a London newspaper (the "Daily Telegraph," 30th April, 1868), I read the following expressions relating to the Waldenses of Piemont. "For sixteen hundred years, at least, the Waldenses have guarded the pure and primitive Christianity of the Apostles. . . No one knows when or how the faith was first delivered to these mountaineers. . . Irenzus, Bishop of Lyons, in the second century found them a church. . . . These gallant hill-men have kept the tradition of the Gospel committed to them as pure and inviolate as the snow upon their own Alps. . . . They have maintained an Evangelical form of Christianity from the very first, rejecting image worship, invocation of saints, auricular eonfession, celibacy, papal supremacy or infallibility, and the dogma of purgatory; taking the Scripture as the rule of life, and admitting no sacraments but Baptism and the Lord's Supper . . . No bloodier eruelty disgraces the records of the Papacy than the persecutions endured by the ancestors of the twenty thousand Waldenses now surviving. . . . Never did men

The quoted expressions not being in accordance with suffer more for their belief. . . ."

my former knowledge of the Waldensian history, I imposed upon myself the task of collecting as many books bearing on the subject as I could find, in order to ascertain whether my old impressions were wrong, or the greatest part of the above assertions unfounded.

The following are the principal books I have read through relating to this object: Jean Paul Perrin, "Histoire des Vaudois," Geneve, 1619; Alexander Ross, "ΠΑΝΣΕΒΕΙΑ," London, 1653; Samuel Morland, "The History of the Evangelieal Churches of the Valleys of Piemont," London, 1658; Jean Leger, Pasteur, &c., "Histoire Generale des Eglises Evangeliques de Piemont," Amsterdam, 1680; P. Allix, D.D., "History of the ancient Churches of Piedmont," London, 1690; William Jones, "History of the Waldenses," London, 1812; Jean Rodolphe Peyran, Pastor, with appendices by Rev. Thomas Sims, M.A., "An Historical Defence of the Waldenses or Vaudois," London, 1826; Rev. J. L. Jackson, M.A., "Remarks on the Vaudois of Piemont," London, 1826; William Stephen Gilly, M.A., "Narrative of an Excursion to the Mountains of Piemont," London, 1827; "Recherches Historiques sur la veritable Origine des Vaudois. par Monseigneur Charvaz," Paris et Lyon, 1836; Robert Baird, D.D., "Sketches of Protestantism in Italy," New York-British edition, London, 1847; Antoine Monastier, "A History of the Vaudois, translated from the French," London, 1848; Alberto Bert, Ministro, "J. Valdesi, ovvero i Cristiani Cattolici secondo la Chiesa Primitiva," Torino, 1849; Alexis Muston, D.D., Pastor, "The Israelof the Alps." the Vaudois of Piemont," translated by Montgomery, A.M., Glasgow, 1857; E. Enderson, D.D., "The Vaudois, &c., Observations," London, 1858; F. M. "The Israel of the Alps: a History of the Waldenses," London, 1863.

Beside these works, I have consulted some of the known dictionaries and encyclopedias, viz., "Le grand Dictionnaire Historique ou Melange curieux de l'Histoire, sacre et profane," par M. Louis Moreri, tom. viii. p. 47-8, à Amsterdam, 1780; "Encyclopedie methodique, par une Societé de gens de lettres, de savans, d'artistes, &c., Histoire," tome cinquieme, Paris, 1791; "The Cabinet Cyclopedia," History, by the Rev. Henry Stebbing, A.M., vol. ii., London, 1834; "The Encyclopædia Metropolitana, or Universal Dictionary of Knowledge," vol. xi.; "History and Biography," vol. iii., London, 1845; "The English Cyclopedia," conducted by Charles Knight, Biography, vol. v., London, 1857; "Dizionario di Erudizione Ecclesiastica," del Cav" Gaetano Moroni, vol. lxxxvii., Venezia, 1858, p. 212; and "The Popular Encyclopedia, or Conversation Lexicon," new and revised edition, vol. vi., London, Glasgow, and Edinburgh, 1862; and other dictionaries and biographies. I have also read on the subject many writers on Ecclesiastical history, both Catholic and Protestant.

However, before assenting to the statements of the above writers, I undertook another and much more troublesome labour; namely, that of consulting the principal authors quoted by them, and of reading their original works. And, as I could not obtain all of them in England, I went to Isaly, and was fortunate enough to find them partly in the Roman libraries, but principally in the King's library of Turin; where I was allowed, by that Isarned and courteous librarian, Commendatore Proni, to make extracts from some authentic, but not yet published, manuscripts bearing upon the Waldensian history.

But what induced me more than anything else to publish, not all, but the most clear and undoubtedly genuine-documents so collected, was the precious little work of Professor James Henthorn Todd, senior Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, entitled "The Book of the Vaudois: the Waldesian Manuscripts," London and Cambridge, 1865; and the notice given there of the long lost Morland manuscripts, lately discovered by Mr. Henry Bradshaw, M.A., Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, and librarian of that University.

PREFACE.

Upon my return from Italy, towards the end of last year, I was introduced by a friend to Mr. Bradshaw, who kindly showed me the Waldensian manuscripts, which, by the same acute and fortunate discoverer, are truly called "the oldest extant relies of the Vaudois literature," and I must add, "the most important documents relating to their history."

I have thought it necessary to say all these things, to show to the learned reader the full reliance which is to be placed on the Documents, which I have with some labour extracted from the originals, and which I now present faithfully to the public in relation to the Origin, the Persicutions, and the Doctrines of the Waldeuses in the Valleys of Pienoux.

If, from the evidence of the Documents, there should follow a conclusion contrary to the assertions of writers till now considered of authority, I beg the reader to bear in mind, with the old Christian philosopher and martyr, Justin, that "Beason commands those, who are truly good and lovers of wisdom, to cultivate and love truth alone, casting aside the opinions of their ancestors, if they are wrong;" and that "We are not allowed to honour men more that truth."

Prascribit ratio ut qui vere pii et philosophi sunt, verom unice colust et diligant, recusantes majorum opiniones sequi, si prave sint (Apologia I, ad Antoninum Pium, § VII.)

Plus honoris non est hubendum homini quam revitati (Apologia II. pro Christianis, from Soenites).

I conclude by saying with another glorious martyr, Ireneus, Bishop of Lyons, "That from ne, while writing in a tongue very different from my native language, nobody must expect graces of style which I have not acquired, or force of expressions which I cannot pretend to, nor a choice of words and cloquence which I do not possess; I only wish that the Documents which, with a simple translation and some not unnecessary remarks and comments, I publish for love of truth, be read and accepted in the same spirit." *

P. MELIA.

14, Gray's Ina Square, November 1st, 1869,

 Non unten requires a nobis qui quod Celtus commormus ... certicias nertra quam non didicinum, nopue cim concerptionis quom non affectamus, neque nerutum verborum alque mudelou quom neximus, sed simplicites et vere el inistee, qua tili cum diletimue scripta unat, cum dilectima percipius. (In Prefutione, Adversus Hercess.)

CONTENTS.

									Page
DEDICATION									*
PREPACE					٠	٠			vii
	PAR
THE O	RIGIN	oF	THE	. W.	ALDE	NSE	5.
			ton l						1
Authority of Richard, Mo	uk of Cl	uny		•				٠	1 on I
The Venerable F. Moneta	's Evide	nce						•	4
•		SECTI	on II	L
F. Stevan Borbone De Bo	Havilla's	Test	imon	4				٠	9
		SECTI	on I	Y.
Abbot Bernard's Evidence	0					٠		٠	14
		SECT	ion '	۲.
Reinerius Sacco's Statem	ent							٠	16
		SECTI	ox 1	L
Peter de Pilichdorff's Au	thority								20
		SECTI	ox V	п.
Archbishop Seyssell's Evi	dence								25
			N V	ш.
Eneas Sylvius Piccolomit	i's State	ment							30
			108	x.
Samuel Casini's Evidence									31

							PAGE
Revd. Edmund Champion's As	Section	-X.					32
sera. Danish Champing 8 70							1,2
	Section	XI.
Prior Rorengo's Testimony		100					33
	SECTION	XIL
Rev. Theodorus Belvedere's E	vidence .	100					37
	SECTION	XIII.
Extracts from some Manuscrip	ots in the K	ing's Lit	rary	of Turi	in		40
	SECTION	XIV.
Other Authorities not liable t	o suspicion	, princip	ally t	hat of	the V	Val-
densian Manuscripts .				100		٠.	45
	SECTION	XV.
The Dates which Leger and			ed to	the W	alden	nais
Manuscripts are counterf			-			_	52
		0
P	RT THE	SECON	D.				•
ON THE PERSEC	UTIONS	OF T	IE 1	VALI	ENS	ES.
	Section	. 1
Character of John Leger .		Τ.					59
	Section
The Conduct of the Waldense							63
	Section
Sketch of Events connected v		-111
1655		noned W
	rith the sup	•		nan M		e of	68
						e of	68
	Section year 1655	IV.					68
The Particular Murders of the with the Legal Statemen	Section year 1655	IV.					68 71

PART THE THIRD.

THE RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES OF THE WALDENSES.

SECTION 1.		PAGE
Sketch of the Changes in the Waldensian Doctrines from the car	liest period to the time of the New Reformers		87
SECTION 11.
The Religious Doctrines of the Old Waldenses which agreed with the of the Catholic Church, and differed from the Tenets of the 92
Reformers		92
Section 111.
he Religious Tenets of the Old Waldenses agreeing with those of the	New
Reformers, and at variance with the Catholic Doctrines		100
§ 1. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Church of God		101
Catholic Doctrine on this Point		102
§ 2. Waldensian Tenet.—On Prayers		103
Catholic Doctrine		103
§ 3. Waldensian Tenet—Ou the Holy Scriptures		104
Catholic Doctrine on this Subject		105
§ 4. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Blessings and Conscerntions of	the Church		106
Catholic Dectrine		107
§ 5. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Authority of the Catholic Pri	csts and of the Pope		108
Catholic Doctrine		109
§ 6. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Right of Preaching		110
Catholic Doctrine		110
§ 7. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Right of Henring Confessions		111
Catholie Doetrine		111
§ 8. Waldensian Tenet.—On Oaths		112
Catholic Doctrine		112
§ 9. Waldensian Tenet.—On Lies		113
Catholic Doctrine		113
§ 10. Waldensian Tenet.—On Purgatory		114
Catholic Doctrine		115

	PAGE
§ 11. Waldensian Tenet.—On Indulgences	116
Catholic Doctrine	116
§ 12. Waldensian Tenet.—On Fasting and Holy Days	117
Catholic Doctrine	117
§ 13. Waldensian Tenet.—On the Invocation of Saints	118
Catholic Doctrine	119
§ 14. Waldensian Tenet.—On Holy Images, Paintings, and Relies .	120
Catholic Doctrine	121
§ 15. Waldensian TenetOn Two Tenets relating to Lay Magistrates and to the Precept-Not to Kill	122
Catholic Doctrine	123
Section IV.
Religious Tenets adopted at a later period by the Boltomian Waldenses before the time of Luther and Calvin	124
§ 1. The Tenet of the Bohemian Waldenses on Auricular Confession.	125
Catholic Doctrine	125
§ 2. Definition of the Church of God given by the Bohemian Waldenses.	126
Catholic Definition of the Church of God on Earth	127
§ 3. The Tenet of the Bohemian Waldenses on the Holy Communion.	128
Catholic Doctrine	128
§ 4. The Tenet of the Bohemian Waldenses on Transubstantiation .	129
Catholic Statement on the same	129
onclusion .	130

PART THE FIRST.

THE ORIGIN OF THE WALDENSES.

SECTION I.

AUTHORITY OF RICHARD MONK OF CLUNY.

ET us begin with a document from the Chronicle of Richard, Monk of Cluny, published by Muratori ("Rerum Italicarum Scriptores," tom. iii. p. 447, et seq. Mediolani, 1723) from the manuscripts of the learned Bernard Guidoni, who lived from the year 1260 to the year 1331. Richard flourished about 1156, according to Martinus Polonus, Valaterranus, and Vossius: and Muratori (ibid.), on the ground of his having written, not only the life of Alexander III. who died 1181, but also that of Innocent III., who died 1216, argues that Richard must have lived writing at least to the last mentioned year. That the lives of the two Popes were written, not by Guidoni, but by the monk Richard, is evident from the following statement, written in large red letters immediately after the two lives: Hue usque Chronica Richardi Monachi Cluniacensis protenditur et terminatur. Now, in the life of Alexander, exalted to the Pontifical Chair in 1159, there is the following clear account of the origin of the Waldenses, written, as we have said, by Richard, a respectable contemporary, and prescryed for us by Guidoni, a Bishop, compared to the first Fathers of the Church for his prudence, learning, and virtues: (Assimilatus. Patribus primitivis) (see Muratori, ibid. p. 274).

<sup>16</sup> About the year of Our Lord 1170' arose the sect and heresy of those who are called Waldenses, or Poor of Lyons. The author and founder of them was a citizen of Lyons called Waldensis, 'from whom his followers received the like name. He being a man possessing riches, abandoning everything, resolved to live a life of poverty, and Evangelical perfection, as the Apostles did. And having caused the Gosspis, and some other books of the Bible, and several authorities of Saints, which he called Summas, to be written for his own use in the vernacular tongue; he reading them often by himself, and little understanding them; proud in his own conceit, and possessing a little learning; assumed to himself and usurped the office of the Apostles; preaching the Gospel and usurped the office of the Apostles; preaching the Gospel godliness; and by Pope Gregory IX. in 1236, in Constitution (Derect. L. v. Tit. vr. de Herret), with these words: Exconsunication of another motition to universe harretices, Catherroe, Patrinton, Pempers de Lugdons, etc. Dammetique ever por Ecclesion Seculari judicio reliaguanter, animadversione debita puniesdi.

&quot;Often answar Dominis SCLLs, theought seefen at here is illnerme qui d'ecunher.

Validantes, ner Faugrere de Logdone, qu'en under et inventré pui quidom ciriz Logdoneauts comine Validantis, a que neclatives qu'ur ferrent laitlete commissit; qui dieux robus artitlet et rollicte semulus, proposit servare pasquerateur et prefetcionem Biosophiem n'end appositi arrasserunt. Et em pasquerateur et prefetcionem Biosophiem n'end appositi arrasserunt. Et em pasquerateur et prefetcionem Biosophiem n'end appositi arrasserunt. Et em pasquerateur et propositi et et along alber par librie et vangitur et donnellas mêma taux infalliques, evans un vinfalos cum aust modicum literatus, appachouvem sibi affection un surprisa d'appa premapit, per cois et plates Etrosphie

A Arha suther associates the year 1170 as instead, point set 1160, and some hist other years between the range and some other 1160 are government of the control of the transport of the Variancian set in the year 1160 speak for the Variancian set in the year 1160 speak for the Variancian set in the year 1160 speak for me these to proving, and the athres, the smart they up 1170, abole to the public Waldness were relatived or constanced many times, principally by Artenader III. Addison the Control of Control of Waldness were relatived or constanced and the Control of the Control of the Variance III. In the Control in Versey, it 1164 by Imasers III. In the trailly Greater June 1161, and Control in Versey, it 1164 by Imasers III. In the trailly Greater 1151, where (is the Devere III.). Historically the Waldness or where confered a present have none debta posicosi,

*Peter Wideniu, er Waldelius, or do Vaudis, or Valde, or Vandeis, different unared ripelling the same same by different writers), was a citizen of Lyons in fact, writers), was a citizen of Lyons in fact, or de the control of the same same by different writers), was a citizen of Lyons in fact, or de the control of the control of the control
ment of the control of the control
ment of the control of the control
ment of th

in the streets and in the squares. He caused many men and women to become his accomplices in a like presumption: whom he sent to preach as his disciples. They being simple and illiterate people, traversing the villages and entering into the houses, spread everywhere many errors. Called to account by the Archbishop of Lyons, John Beles-Mayus, they were prohibited by him. But they would not obey, offering as a pretext for their folly, that they ought to obey not men but God, who commanded the Apostles to preach the Gospel to every creature: arrogating to themselves what had been said to the Apostles, of whom, by a feigned appearance of poverty and sanctity, they professed to be followers and successors, despising the Clergy and Priests. Thus, from the presumptuous usurpation of the office of preaching, they became first disobedient, afterwards contumacious, and therefore being excommunicated, were exiled from that country. At last, cited to a Council which was held in Rome before that of Lateran, they were adjudged contumacious and schismatics. And being dispersed through the provinces, and mingling on the borders of Lombardy with other heretics. and also imbibing and following their errors, were adjudged heretics.

prodicatoly; multisopue homisus et multieres ad simileres presemptionem complience sité jetil, pous al prentinculum tamupum discipules emittedes, Qui com assent iliciate et illiteratis, per villus discurrentes et donne penetrantes, multisorrense circumpusque difficientes; et escoti do Arteliquicopa Ligadamani Dentino Edutumo Bilero-Miques, prohibiti enst de nolma; soi debirer multisorrense accumpante difficiente, qui prençal Aportalis enst alteritore. Benagiliona prentinente, proposate aità que d'aportale erat dictems; quorum initatores et necessore, falsa a pampertala prefassione et festa cancitàtis imagina, se case profitolombre; apprenature Ciercion et Predigieros. Sici tisque ag praesampusa sumprisone officii predicionali, docilentate, deinde contenuacion et criside aeromanusicati, di illa patria erat capula. Demum persent pervinoces et chimatori; judicati. Siopus dispreni per presincia, et in confindu Lombardie com aliti heretici en micentes et aerom errore bibentes et extenta, format brevite judicati."

SECTION II.

THE VENERABLE F. MONETA'S EVIDENCE. HE second document relating to the Origin of the Waldenses is given by Father Moneta, whose manuscripts, in the libraries of the Vatican, of Bologna, and of Naples, have been published by Thomas Augustin Ricchini in Rome, 1743, under the title, "Venerabilis Patris Moneta Cremonensis Ordinis Pradicatorum adversus Catharos et Waldenses, Libri quinque." Father Moneta was a professor of philosophy in Bologna in 1218, when, at the preaching of the blessed Reginaldus Aurclianensis, he was induced to abandon his secular pursuits, and two years afterwards gave his name to the Dominican Order. St. Dominic appointed him to be his vicar in Milan, and through Insubria; and it is said that the holy founder died in Bologna in the very bed of F. Moneta. F. Moneta's learning, zeal and virtues, and chiefly his patience when he became blind, are praised by many writers of his time. The year in which he wrote his work is clearly stated by him, when (Lib. 111. cap. iii. § ii.), after quoting the saying of our Lord: "I saw Satan falling from heaven like a flash of lightning," the author continues: "But He (our Lord) did not see the fall of Sathan with his human eyes, because it is not more than twelve hundred and forty-four years that he was incarnate." (In the Vat. MS.). Sed non videbat eum cadentem secundum homo, non enim sunt plusquam 1244 anni quod Ipse factus est homo: from which F. Moneta derives a proof of the eternal divinity of our Lord. Now this epoch of 1244 is to be marked, both because it gives us the date in which F. Moneta wrote his book, and it helps us to understand an important part of the following passage (Lib. v. cap. i. § iv. pp. 402, 403):

"Having proved that the community of the Catharites is not the Church of God, let us prove that the community of the Poor Lyonists is not the Church of God. This appears from what is said in the second letter of St. Peter the Apostle (chapter ii. 1 and 10): 'Who shall bring in sects of perdition, and despise authority.' Secondly, the same thing is proved if their Origin is attended to; because it is clear that they had their beginning from Waldesius, a citizen of Lyons, who entered on this path not more than eighty years ago; or, if they are more or less, the difference of more or less is little.2 Consequently, they are not the successors of the primitive Church, and of course they are not the Church of God. And if they should say that their manner of proceeding was before Waldesius, lct them prove it with some testimony, which they cannot do. Thirdly, it may be demonstrated that their congregation is not the Church of God through the remission of sins. . . . You come from Waldesius, tell us, from whence did he come?4 . . . If they say that they came forth from God and from the Apostles and from the Gospel, the fact is against them, because God forgives sins through his minister (John xx. 23): 'To whom you shall forgive their sins, are forgiven to them.' Therefore, if God forgave the sins of Waldesius. He forgave them through about the year of our Lard 1170,

&quot;Ottense qued univernitas Catharvam non est Ecclosia Dei, ostendanse qued univernita Paraprera Leunitamen non est Ecclosia Dei, El producto per illad (2 Petri il. 1, 10): Qui introducest acetta pedilicinia ... donimizato per illad (2 Petri il. 1, 10): Qui introducest acetta pedilicinia ... donimizato acetta con la constanta del controlicio del constanta del controlicio del constanta del controlicio del contr

&lt;sup>3</sup> Taking 80 from 1244 we have the year 1184, more or less. Now this perfectly agrees with the document first quoted, in which the Origin of the Waldenges is put about the year of our Lord 1170.

Here the author repeats the lable forged.

by the Waldesson, that one of their chiefs, Peter, went to the Pope, and promised to him that they would hold to the four Doctors. Ambrove, Augustin, Gregory, and Jerome; and that the Pope gave bim the office of presching.

His minister. But tell me through whom of His ministers did God forgive him his sins? Fourthly, the same is proved from the Ecclesiastical Orders, of which they confess that there are three at least-Episcopacy, Priesthood, and Deaeonship. Without these three Orders the Church of God cannot and ought not to exist, as they admit. Let us, then, say to them: If the Church of God is not without these Orders, and you are without them, it follows that your congregation is not the Church of God. If they should say that their congregation has Orders, I ask, From whom did they receive them? Who, then, is your Bishop? If they should name a particular man, I ask again, Who gave him the Ordination? If they name some other, I equally ask, Who ordained this other? And, so going on, they will be obliged to ascend to Waldesius. Next, it is to be asked, From whence had he his Orders? If they answer that he had them by himself, it is clear that it is against the Apostle, who says (Heb. v. 4): 'And no one assumes the honour, except him who is called by the Lord, like Aaron.' . . . If, then, Waldesius had the Orders from himself, he glorified himself to be a Bishop; in consequence, he was an antichrist, namely, against Christ and his Church. And if they should say that Waldesius had his Orders from God directly, their assertion cannot be confirmed by any testi-

Ipse van parcit mir per ministrum; umbe: "Querean remierities pecciale cremitature de' (John X. 23). Erge or remietiture merienture de remieriture de remier mony of Scripture. . . . Some said that Waldesius received his Orders from the community of his brethren. The first who said so was one chief of the poor Lombards, called Thomas, a perverted doctor, and he endeavoured to prove it thus: Every member of his congregation could give Waldesius the right of a ruler over himself, and so all the congregation could give, and really gave to Waldesius, the rights of a ruler over them all; and thus he was made their pontiff and prelate. But if that heresiarch had understood how foolish that reason was, he would not have allowed himself to utter those words; because every Bishop has the right of being a ruler, but not every ruler has the right of being a Bishop. From the assertion that they could give him the office of a ruler, it does not follow that they could make him a Bishop. . . . One thing is to confer Orders and another to give domination. Orders are given by a Bishop only. . . . It appears, then, that it is a falsehood to say that Waldesius received Orders, and that he could give them to others. He had no Orders, and, consequently, you have no Orders, and you cannot be the Church of God. in which there are three Orders at least. Perhaps (ibid. § v. p. 407) they might say that their congregation and the congregation of the Church of Rome are one, holy and contrarius. Si dicunt quoniam a Deo Ordinem habuit immediate; illud nullo testimonio Scriptura ostendere possunt. Sciendum autem quod quidam dizerunt ouod Valdesius ordinem habuit ab universitate fratrum suorum. Borum autem qui hoc dizerunt auctor fuit quidam havesiarcha Pauperum Lombardorum, doctor perversus Thomas nomine. Hoc autem probare taliter nieus est : Quilibet de illa congregatione potuit dare Valderio jus suum, scilicet regere seipeum; et sic tota congregatio illa potuit conferre et contulit Valdesio regimen omnium, et sie creaverunt illum omnium pontificem et prælatum. Si autem heresiarcha ille intellezieset quam fatuum istud esset, nequaquam ex ore me istud procedere permisisset. Omnis enim pontificatus est regimen, sed non omne regimen est pontificatus. Quomodo ergo sequitur; potuerunt ei dare regimen sui, ergo pontificatum. . . . Aliud est conferre Ordinem, et aliud conferre regimen; primum enim tantum Episcoporum est . . . Undo palam est quia fabulorum est dicere quod Valdesius Ordinem habuit, et quod alise conferre potuerit. Sic ergo ordine caruit: ergo et ves, ergo non estis Ecclesia Dei, qua in tribus Ordinibus ad minus consistit, (Ihid. § v. p. 407.) Forte dicerent quod corum congregatio et congregatio Romana Ecclesia est

Catholic, though they are divided into two parts: one part malignant, which now is called the Roman Church; one part benignant, which is the Waldensian congregation. But against this assertion there is the fact that the latter (namely, the Waldensian congregation) had no existence from the time of Silvester to the time of Waldesius, which you cannot disprove. Therefore the Church failed with Silvester, and it is shown to be false in the third chapter. . . These hereties (chap. iii. § i. p. 412) say that the Church of God failed at the time of blessed Silvester . . . and that it has been restored in these times by themselves, the first of whom Waldesius was. Let us then ask from whence they know that the Church failed. And, as they have no testimony to confirm it, they will be reduced to silence. Let us show (ibid. § ii. p. 413) that the Church of the New Testament, from the time of her beginning, did not fail to exist: 'The Lord God (Luke i. 32, 33) shall give Him (to Jesus Christ) the seat of David His father, . . . and of His kingdom there shall be no end.' And Daniel (chap. ii. 44): 'In the days of those kingdoms God will raise the kingdom of heaven, which shall never be destroyed, and His kingdom shall not be delivered up to another people, . . . and itself shall stand for ever.' (Ibid. § iii.) 'A bad life does not take away the power attached to the ministry.' Hence, was, meate et calibalios, licel due intel rius parter: um est spara maligna puer deletten mode Boman Ecclosis, alle benjaga west compressible Valencium. Sel contra. Illa pras a tempera Silveriri van futi unpu ad tempa Valencium. Sel contra. Illa pras a tempera Silveriri van futi unpu ad tempa Valencium. Sel contra. Illa pras a tempera Silveriri van futi unpu ad tempa Valencium. Illa praside van de la contra del contra though we should admit that Silvester sinned and became whicked (which is false), yet the Church did not fail with Silvester. The minister does not lose his Orders for his sin. 'Many (Matt. vii. 22) will say to me in that day: Lord, Lord, have not we prophesied in Thy name, and east out devils in Thy name, and done many miracles in Thy name?' They did so, not in virtue of their lives, but in virtue of their ministry.'

SECTION III.

F. STEVAN BORBONE DE BELLAVILLA'S TESTIMONY. LE take the third document from the writings of 🕏 F. Stevan de Borbone, called also De Bellavilla, from the name of a castle in Burgundy, where he was born, towards the end of the twelfth century. After finishing his studies in Paris he entered into the Order of St. Dominic, and about 1228 he was already preaching in Lyons, and in many other places; and also on the Alps-Famous for his virtuous life, his zeal and learning, he, during the fourth of a century, discharged the office of a defender of the faith in Clairmont and in Lyons. He wrote a great volume on the Gifts of the Holy Ghost, and ended his life in Lyons in the year 1261. (See Quetif and Echard, "Scriptores Ordinum Prædicatorum," vol. i. Lutetiæ Parisiorum, 1719, sæc. xiii, p. 184 et seg.) Before giving Bellavilla's document on the Origin of the Waldenses, it will not be useless to state a few particulars related by him in the above-mentioned work bearing on our argument. He says that he heard (Sorb. MS. fol. 391) from a man, who is denied by the author afteneousle), et malus factus fueril, non tamen defecit Ecclosis in Silvatri. Ergo son amilitare (ordo) per pocostum. Multi dicent mihi in illa dic: Domine, Domine: nome in nomine two prophetoriums, et in nomine two deruosia ejecimus et in nomine two virtules multas fecimus (Matth. vii. 22.)? Non per vilams sed per ministerium.

assured him that he was present on the occasion, that in a town of Lombardy there were seven chicfs of different sects. opposed to each other, who, at a meeting held by them, tried each one to establish his own doctrine, and to show the falsehood of the others; and that everyone concluded his speech by excommunicating everybody else, if they should propose or accept anything contrary to his belief. He also relates that in the town called Joinville (super Sagonam in Diacesi Bisuntinensi (Bisanzon) appeared a man in disguise, who, being summoned before a magistrate and obliged to give an account of himself, admitted that for eighteen years he had been absent from the place in order to study in Milan the tenets of the Waldensian sect; that there were seventeen sects, everyone contrary to the others, which sects were also condemned by those of his sect (and he gave the names of them all); and that he was of the sect of those called the Poor of Luons, who also call themselves Poor of Spirit, who, from the name of their chief, are called Waldenses, who, amongst other errors, condcmn every person possessing earthly goods. Prima, de qua ipse erat, dicebantur Pauperes de Lugduno, qui se etiam vocant Pauperes Spiritu, qui dicuntur Valdenses a suo hæresiarcha, qui cum aliis erroribus suis damnant omnes terrena possidentes (L. C.). But let us hear on the subject F. Steven Borbone de Bellavilla in the thirtyfirst chapter of his work already quoted.

"Fourthly, we ought to speak of the hereties of our time, namely of the Waldenses, whence they had their beginning, and from whom and why and how they are so called. From the author of this heresy named Waldensis, they are called Waldenses. They are also called Poor of Lyons, because they began to profess poverty there. They call themselves

&quot;Quarto dicendum est de hercelicie motri femporie sciliote Waldenshus ... undo ortum habarevust, et undo et quare et quomodo appelleutus. Waldensea autem dicti sunt a primo hapus herceis auctore qui nomisatus fuit Waldenses, Dicunter etions. Pemperes de Lungduno, quia ibi incoperent in professione paupertalis. Vocant autems » e Pamperes Sprints," proplet quod. Domisus Poor of Spirit, because our Lord said (Matt. v.) 'Blessed are the poor of spirit.' Truly poor in their spirit, without any spiritual good and without the Holy Ghost. That sect took its origin in the following way, as I have been told by many who knew their elders, and by that Priest who was much respected and rich in the town of Lyons, and was a friend of our brethren. Bernard Ydros by name, who, when he was young and a transcriber,5 wrote for money for the said Waldensis the first books possessed by the Waldenses in the old Provençal language. The translator, under whose dictation the books were written, was Steven de Ansa (or de Emsa, MS. Rotom.), whom I have often seen. He after--wards obtained an Ecclesiastical benefice in the Cathedral of Lyons, and falling from the roof of a house, which he was building, he was suddenly killed. A rich man in the said town, called Waldensis, hearing the Gospels, and having a little learning, desirous to know their contents, made a bargain with these Priests, that the one should translate the Gospels into the vernacular language, and the other should write under the dictation of the first. They did so; and with the Gospels they also translated many other books of the Bible, and many authorities of Saints united under titles which they dicii (Matt. v.) * Beati pampera apirita*. El vera pampera in spirita a apristatulia bosa de a Spirita (Sanco, Insegral andre till secta per hue moban, seemdom quod op a plaribus qui privera norma videnan, et a motan, seemdom quod op a plaribus qui privera norma videnan, et monica plaribum autorem, qui dichar plat Bernardus Vitar qui, com ente piessa et criptor, scriptit dicto Waldrasi priores libros pro poemia in Romano quas ipie hobervant, transferent et dictatut el Stephano de Auso (Cod. Robonop, de Binas), qui postos beneficiata in Ecolosia majore quam adificade correnas, morte radiata vista pistul per se qui sun so Quidam dicta rebus in dicta wire dictas Waldrasi audiren Benapolia, com no nose multum literatu, accinosa tatilipres qui dictorent, port pastente cam dicta secrebablos, alteri si transferet si valgari, alteri si serberet non dicta secrebablos, alteri si transferet si valgari, alteri si serberet tata Stanterno multa per titulta conceptuata, quara senantia appellostura.

&lt;sup>a</sup> In that age, in which the art of printing was unknown, it was a respected and useful profession to be a good transcriber.

called Sentences. Now the same citizen, often reading those writings and learning them by heart, resolved to keep Evangelical perfection as the Apostles did. He sold every thing he had, and through contempt of this world threw his money into the streets to the poor: and preaching the Gospels and what he had learned by heart, presumptuously assumed the office of the Apostles. So he succeeded in gathering together men and women: and teaching them the Gospels, induced them to do the same; and though they were of a very low state and profession, he sent them to preach through the surrounding villages. They, men and women, silly and illiterate, going here and there through the country, entering into the houses, and preaching in the squares andalso in the Churches, induced others to do the same. But as by their temerity and ignorance, they spread many errors and scandals all around, they were called to account by the Bishop of Lyons, named John, who commanded them not to dare to explain the Scriptures nor to preach any more. They defended themselves with the answer of the Apostles (Act. v.); and their master assuming to himself the ministry of St. Peter, answered, as St. Peter did to the chief Priests: It is necessary to obey God rather than men: God commanded the Apostles to preach the Gospel to every creature. As if our Qua cum dictus civis sape legeret et corde tenus firmaret, proposuit servare perfectionem Evangelicam, ut Apostoli servaverant. Qui rebus suis omnibus venditis, in contemptum mundi, per lutum pauperibus pecuniam suam projiciebat; et officium Apostolorum usurpavit et prasumpsit; Evangelia et ea que corde retinuerat per vicos et plateas prædicando, multos homines et mulieres ad idem faciendum ad se convocando, firmans eis Evangelia. Quos etiam per villas circumjacentes mittebat ad prædicandum vilissimorum quorumeumque officiorum. Qui etiam tam komines quam mulieres idiotæ et illiterati per villas discurrentes et domos penetrantes et in plateis pradicantes et etiam in Ecclesiis, ad idem alios provocabant. Cum autem es temeritate sua et ignorantia multos errores et scandala circumquaque diffunderent vocati ab episcopo Lugdunensi, qui Joannes vocabatur, prohibuit eis ne intromitterent se de Scripturis exponendis vel predicandis. Ipsi autem recurrentes et responsionem Apostolorum (Act. v.) et magister corum usurpaus Petri officium; sicut ipse respondit principibus sacerdotum; ait; Obedire oportet magis Deo quam hominibus qui preceperat Apostolis, prædicare Evangelium omni creature (Marci in fine). Quasi hor dizisset Dominus eis quod dizerat

Lord had said to them what he said to the Apostles; who notwithstanding did not dare to preach till they received virtue from on High, till they were gifted with perfect wisdom, and had the gift of speaking every language. They then, namely Waldensis and his followers, through presumption and the assumption of the office of the Apostles, became at first disobedient, afterwards obstinate, and finally were excommunicated. Exiled from that place they were then eited to appear at the Council, which was held in Rome before the Lateran. As they were obstinate, they were adjudged schismatic. Afterwards mixing with other hereties, and imbibing and spreading their errors in the land of Provence and in Lombardy, they were pronounced heretics. They are hostile and noxious to the Church in the highest degree, they spread everywhere, appearing to have holiness and faith without professing its truth; so much more dangerous because they are conecaled, because they cunningly disguise themselves in different ways and disguises. It happened sometimes that one of their chiefs was imprisoned. who had in his possession many means of fictious disguises, with which he assumed different forms like Protheus. If he was persecuted as wearing a particular form of dress, and it was reported to him, he appeared transformed. Now he had a dress and the usual attire of a pilgrim, now he had

Apostolis; qui tamen prodicean non protemparant, augunopo industi virtue en cale fuerant, suspenso perfectionem et plessimien estimità pertentati fuerant, et denum linguatum emoirum sucapranta. Il engo, Waldensis demois in contraction demoirum entre demoirum entre demoirum entre demoirum entre demoirum entre demoirum entre communicationis estentation. Pout espuisi do illa terra, ad concilium quod fuit Rouse anda Laternause concili i peritudes, fuerant achimatelic pouto spilicitus. Postas as Provinciae terra at Lombarrige com nitis hereticia se admissionito, relativa entre demoirum entre entre demoirum entre que peritude entre que un terra demoirum entre entre entre entre entre entre entre consistente, se de diversit la minum habilitum et artificita transigiumnum entre entr the stick and the iron of a penitent man; now he had the fictitious habit of a shoemaker, now of a barber, now of a mower, &c. The others are doing the same. This sect began in the year of our Lord 1170, or (as it is in MS. Rotom.) 1180° under John Bolesmanis or Belesmanis, Archbishop of Lyons."

SECTION IV.

ABBOT BERNARD'S EVIDENCE.

URTHER evidence relating to the time in which we walkenses made their first appearance, is given to us by an old Abbot who had his title from the Abbey called Chaud Fountain (Fontis Calidi). His manuscripts were published by Jacob Gretzer, S. J. and are printed in the Great Library of the Fathers ("Bibliotheca Veterum Patrum," &c. vol. xvv. p. 1858, et sep. Lugduni, 1677). It is supposed that he wrote his book towards the end of the twelfth entury. His work bears this title, "Bernardu Abbas Fontis Calidi adversus Valdensium sectam." In twelve chapters he relates and confutes the errors for which the Waldenses were condemned by Bernard Archbishop of Narbonne after a discussion which took place under the presidency of Raymundus do Deventria a Priest of high ferebat habitum et signacula peregrini, aliquando baculam pemitentiarii et ferramente, aliquando es fingobat natorem, aliquando barbitoneorem, aliquando messorem ac alii similiter idem faciunt." "Incapit autem hac secta ab incarnatione Domini MCIXX volo Joanne dicto Bolemanie Archiepiacopo Lugdemenii (in Ocal Motom, MCIXX volo Joanne dicto Bolemanie), fec.

John, in 1195, renounced apontaneously his seat, and retired to the monastery of Clair Valle, Ulb supue at mortes cum marine pictate et doctrien perserventi. (See "Gallis Christiana," vol. ir., p. 130, et sag. Paria, 1728). From this notice it appears that Bellemannia could not pernounce, in Lyons, his sentence against the Waldenses before the year 1182 or 1182.

&lt;sup>a</sup> John Belemanis, ev De Bellimanibus, bising Bishop of Positiers in the year 11st, was elected Archisides of Narbones. However, when he west to Bones to detain the sanction of the Pope, the elegy of Lyons those him to be their Archibidops of Primate. Pope Lucius 111., newly raised to the Popedom, confirmed thin second election in the year 11st2, and made him Legate of the Apostolical Claim in the brigdom of France.

respectability. He, after having heard the allegations of the two parties, gave his final sentence in writing and pronounced the Waldenses to be heretics, under the heads of which they were accused. Auditis igitur partium allegationibus, præfatus judez per scriptum definitivam dedit sententiam, et hareticos esse, in capitulis de quibus accusati fuerant, pronunciavit (ibid.). In reading his statement it will be observed that he, having called the Waldenses by the name by which they were called by all contemporaries who wrote in Latin, he assumes the liberty of deriving its signification from a dense valley a valle densa, in order to have an opportunity of making a moral allusion to their errors. The same observation is applicable to Eberardus Flandrensis of Betunia (another author of the same century) who in the xxvth chapter of his book, entitled "Antihæreseos," says that they called themselves Vallenses eo quod in valle lacrymarum maneant (see Bibl. PP. L. C. p. 1525). And as we have here related the mystical etymology given to the name Waldensis by these writers, let us bear in mind what is stated by the best historians about the surname of Peter the wealthy merchant of Lyons (see "Helyot, Histoire Complete des Ordres Monastiques," vol. ii. p. 283, et seq. Guingamp. 1839). He was a native of a village called Vaud or Vaux in Dauphiny, on the river Rhône near Lyons. Thence in his language he was called Peter de Vaud or Vaudois, and his followers are equally called Vaudois in the vernacular language from the name of their founder; and from thence most of the Latin writers gave to Peter the name of Valdensis from the Latin name of his native place, Valdum, and to his partisans that of Valdenses, changing the original "u" of Vaud into "I," and giving to the word the Latin termination "ensis." It is not surprising then that the two above-mentioned writers, dividing the name Valdensis into two parts Val and densis, and adding two letters to the first part, and changing is into a at the end of the second, in order to moralize on the supposed etymology of the name, took the liberty of deriving it from Valle densa. Yet it must be confessed that this derivation is only a fantastical one. Let us see now and mark well the expressions of the Abbot on our subject. They are short and conclusive.

"Pope Lucius," of happy memory, was the president of the Holy Roman Church, when new heretics suddenly raised their heads. As if it were a presage of future events, they were called Waldenses, namely, from a dense valley, because they are enveloped in the deep and dense darkness of errors. Though condemned by the said Pontiff," with their rash daring, they spread throughout the earth the poison of their perfidiousness.'

SECTION V.

REINERIUS SACCO'S STATEMENT.

HE fifth document is from Reinerius Sacco, of whom Ouetif and Echard, in their able work on the Dominican writers ("Scriptores Ordinis Prædicatorum." Lutetise Parisior. 1719), say, according to Leander (fol. 148) and Antony Senensis (in Bibl. Dom.), that he was born in that part of upper Italy called Gallia Togata, in the town of Piacenza; that he was at first, for seventeen years, a chief and bishop of heretics, and caused Catharites and the Patherines, and those who, with a wrong name, call themselves, with deception, the Humbled or the Poor of Lyons." Отпет harenin quoeнтque ко-mine censeatur per hujus Constitutionis seriem Auctoritate Apostolica condemnamus. In primis ergo Catharos et Patherinos, et eos qui se Humiliates cel Pauperes de Lugduna falso nomine mentiontur. (Sucr. Concil. Nova, et A. Collectio, tom. xxii. Venetiis, 1775.)

&quot; Sancta Romana Ecclesia pravidente Domino Lucio inclita recordationis, rubito extulerunt caput noci hæretici, qui quodam præsagio futurorum dicti sunt Valdenses, nimirum a valle densa, eo quod profundis et densis errorum tenebris involvantur. Hi quamvis a profato Pontifice condemnati, virus sur perfidia longe lateque per orben temerario aum evonuerunt" (Id ib, in Praf.).

<sup>7</sup> Pope Lucius III. sat on the Pontifical Chair from 28 August, 1181, to 23 Norember, 1185.

The Waldenses were condemned, in fact, by Pope Lucius III., at a Council held in Verona, in the presence of many Bishops and of the Emperor Frederick, in the year 1184, with these words: "By Apostolical Authority, and by means of this Consti-tation, we do condemn every heresy, whatever name it bears, and principally the a great many evils to the Catholic faith in the province of Emilia; but that, after his conversion, having entered the Dominican Order, he defended, during the remainder of his life, the revealed doctrine against the false principles of the hereties with all his might, and wrote a book to the same purpose. According to the same Dominican writers, besides the manuscript published by Jacob Gretzer ("Ingolstadii," 1614, in 4to.), and reprinted in the "Library of the Fathers" ("Bibliotheca Patrum," tom. xxv. p. 262 et seq. Lugduni, 1677), there are two other manuscripts of the same work of Reinerius. One of them existed in their Convent at Rouen, and was afterwards brought to Paris; the other in the library of Trinity College, Dublin (t. 11. p. ii. 273, 133), both on parchment. These last two manuscripts are nearly identical; but Gretzer's differs from them both in the order of the chapters and in the disposition and expressions of some sentences, though it is admitted that this also is a genuine work of the same author, excepting the German words interpolated here and there in the text by the German publisher; and, we may add, excepting the mistakes generally unavoidable when the manuscripts are very badly written and incorrect, as Gretzer confesses is the case with his text. Hear him in his preface (L. C.): "Reinerii Commentarium ex papyraceo quodam codice admodum vitiose exarato exscribendum curavimus. . . . Utinam codez emendatior et emaculatior obtigisset! And, in fact, the title of the book in Gretzer's publication, "Reinerii Ordinis Prædicatorum contra Valdenses Hæreticos Liber," does not comprehend the argument of the author, as the greater part of the work

Lemista sice Pusperes de Lugduno, quorum apinismo prazenti pagina annotanter. In the same two namourispis in the fifth chapter, De Folsa Provincisia Catherwown, the sutter states what he was: Ego auten F. Reinerius olin harriarcha, nune Dei gratia Sacredos licei tindipusa, etc., deios induluitanter, quod in annia XVII. quilous conversatus som curo ii, etc.

&lt;sup>9</sup> The title of the work there is: Summa Fr. Reineri & Ordine Fattern Froddon-torum, De Catharia et Leonatia, sice Pampribus de Luglano. The perface is: In nouine D. N. J. C., cwn weeth serviceven elim fueriat multa que comino fere destrecte sent per gratians J. C. tanest dos principales modo incenientes, quema altera oceanre Catharia éte Patricia, ét allera is against the Catharites. So it is with the title of the fourth chapter, "De Sectis Antiquorum Hæreticorum," which does not agree with all the names subjoined there, as there is a mixture of old and new heresies. The same Gretzer, in a long catalogue of various readings (Bibl Patr., ibid. p. 264), makes this addition to chapter iv.: "Præter sectas Manicharorum et Patherinorum quæ occupant Lombardiam, et præter sectas Ortlibariorum, Runcariorum," &c.; and, line 61 of the said page, chapter v., at the words "Eorum et rancor," is said instead, " Eorum et Runcarii." So, again, in chapter vi. (ibid. p. 269), amongst the Catharites a certain Joannes de Lugduno is named; yet, in the two other MSS. abovementioned, this John is more than once called de Lugio: "De propriis opinionibus Joannis de Lugio; dictus Joannes de Lugio hæresiarcha," &c. I mention this in order to show the learned reader that, since the Gretzerian text is so corrupt, although under the title "De Sectis Antiquorum Hæreticorum" there may be found some mention of the Poor of Lyons, that is no proof of their being of a greater antiquity than appears from the evidence of all other documents; and also from the following Chapter V. of the same text of Gretzer. Perhaps the adjective antiquorum is also a mistake.

Before reading the document, observe that in the fourth chapter of Gretzer's MS. there are the following expressions: "Amongst all these sects which now are, or have been, there is none more dangerous to the Church than that of the Loconists, and this for three reasons. First, because it has lasted longer; some people say that it has endured from the time of Silvester, and some say from the time of the Apostles." "Inter omnes has sectas quaw adhue sunt velfuerant, non est permiceisoir Ecclesive quam Loconistarum, et hoc tribus de causis. Prima est quia diuturnio; aliquir aim dicunt quod duravevit a tempore Silvestri; aliqui a tempore Apostodorum," I am fully persuaded that nobody will agree with those writers, who, on the strength of the pasasge quoted, endeavour to establish the pretended antiquity of the Waldenses. First, because the author simply relates here what some people say, aliqui dicunt, without giving any approval to that assertion. Secondly, because in the next chapter, in which Reinerius speaks for himself, he gives a downright denial to that opinion, as we shall presently see. The time at which the document was written is given at the end of the manuscripts mentioned by Echard (L. C.): "The above work was faithfully completed by the said brother Reinerius, the year of our Lord twelve hundred and fifty." "A.D. NCCL. compilatum at fideliter per dictum Reinerium opus superius annotatum."

"Chapter V. 'Of the Sects of Modern Heretics' (Bibl. Patr. L. C., p. 264). Observe that the sect of the Poor of Lyons, who also are called Leonists, had its origin after this manner: The principal citizens in Lyons being assembled, it happened that one of their number died sud-denly" in their presence. By this event one of them was so much frightened that he immediately gave a great amount of money to the poor; in consequence of which a great multitude of poor gathered around him, and he taught them to observe voluntary poverty, and to be followers of Christ and of the Apostles. And, as he was to some extent learned, he made them acquanted with the New Testament

Cleps, V.—De necis underwersa herritierens. Nota qued neche Pengerun de Lagdane, qui dem Louiste dienturi, tuli modo este el. Cua cieva supere poritre essert in Loujalum, ondigit quidena es ais uneri nobbo corun eis. Unde quidam intere autantu fuit terribu qual dietim surpum disearrum pengeribus eroquiri; et e les meritam militade propuratura et can confucir, qua tipu dieval confucir este disearrum de la confuciente de la confuciente de la confuciente de confuciente disearrum de la confuciente de la confuciente de la confuciente de confuciente del disearrum de la confuciente de la confuciente de la confuciente de confuciente del disearrum de la confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente del confuciente del confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente del confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente del confuciente del confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente de la confuciente de la confuciente del confuciente del confuciente del confuciente de la confuciente del confu

* Morland, **The History of the Erangelical Church of the Valleys of Priment," London, 1635, page 28; Join Leger, **Histoire des Egiises Erangeliques de Primont, **Amsterlann, 1639, pages 15, 125, 198 and a score of their imitators, copyists, and followers.

&lt;sup>11</sup> Robys, in his "Histoire de Lyon," confirms this statement, anying (page 268) that Peter Valko homme grand riche, lo qual extent use noir sur an porte arce see voisins per pender le fruit . . . no de la trouppe tumbs soloian made most ser la place. As in their vermacular language." (Supply here what we know from other contemporaries, that Peter had the Gospels translated by the two Priests Bernard Ydros and Steven de Anss, and that he and his followers went about preaching and spreading errors.) "Being reproved for this act of temerity, he treated the admonition with contempt, and obstinately continued teaching, saying to his disciples that the Clergy, living a wicked life, envied their holy life and doctrine. The Pope then pronounced a sentence of excommunication against them, but they stubbornly disregarded it. And thus, to the present time, in every way they go on with their doctrine and with their rancour."

SECTION VI.

PETER DE PILICHDORFF'S AUTHORITY.

ETER DE PILICHDORFF, S.T.P., wrote his book against the Waldenses at the end of the four-tier the third of the third of the third of the treatise, where he says, that it was then the year of our Lord thirteen hundred and ninerly-fice: "Jam's seize seri-bitur anno Domini SUCCEXU." There are three manuscripts bitur anno Domini SUCCEXU." There are three manuscripts of his work. The first" is cruitled, "Oblationes Contra Here-ticos Valdensium." The second," "Obviationes Sacres Serijeus Valdensium." The second, "Obviationes Sacres Serijeus Valdensium." The third" has the full title, "Petri de Pillehdorf Sacres Theologie Professoris contra Herresin Valdensium Tructatus." (See Bibl. Patr. tom. xxv. p. 277, et seys.) John Leger, in his "Histoire Number of the Series Valdensium Tructatus."

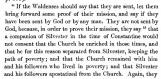

Pro qua temeristate cum piaset reprobenua, contempais et orgis insistere doctrine une, dicene discipilis suis, quod Clerus, quando unda vida esset, incideret sanetavida ipsorum et doctrina. Cum antem Papa excommunicationis sententam tulisset in cos, pertinocier contemperunt. Et sic usque hoche in omnibus terminis illis profici doctrina ipsorum et ruscou.

<sup>16</sup> Daysondie MS.

<sup>12</sup> Nicolainus MS,

<sup>4</sup> Tegersonsia MS.

Generale des Eglises Evangeliques de Piemont," at pages 20 and 175, and many other writers on the Waldenses, quote a passage from a fragment of Pilichdorff detached from its context, in order to confirm by it the fabulous antiquity of the Waldenses; as the same Leger and some of his followers are in the habit of doing with the authorities of several old writers on the same subject. The time at which the Waldensian sect began is already undoubtedly proved by the contemporaries in the first five articles, and in the fourteenth article of this part will be established by an unanswerable evidence from the ancient Waldensian manuscripts. I shall, however, state here and in the next sections some of the principal passages unfaithfully quoted by Morland, Leger and their followers, to show that the historical truth is actually confirmed by the authority of these very writers, who, either through ignorance or malice, have been too often quoted against it. Let us first read the whole text of the Pilichdorff fragment as it is printed. ("Bibl. Patr." L. C. p. 300).

S. Valdanus dionat se uiusos, dicent me minimin tertimonium, et en niat mini ai 20 ne el do homas. Non a Doz e qui por me minimini into el disti indicio dicent quod seciu Silvetri, trupper Constantini, nobil consentire quad Eccleria Constantini interporbia diferetter: et et ne el Silvetro rescuir, ivan propretata tenendo; aqual quem stirm, unis anthereuthus in prospertat departibus, Eccleria perannut; il est Silvetro renessi di dalberentino a Electrio dicti ecclisios. Hen quad pot say that three" (say eight)" "hundred years after Constantine some one came out from the country of Waldis," called Peter, who equally taught the path of poverty, from whence the Waldensian sect sprung up. But what kind of wonderful sigms are there to give testimony to these assertions? While on the contrary, the most famous actions and wonders of Silvester are known throughout the world." (Bibl. Patr. L. C., p. 278.)

<sup>18</sup> Mark this well, "they say."

Chapter the First. "The birth and Origin of the Waldensian heretics is this. Notwithstanding that the sons of iniquity are spreading false-hoods among simple people, saying that their seet lasted from the time of Pope Silvester, namely, when the Church began to have possessions of her own. The heretics think that this is not lawful, as the Apostles of Christ were commanded to live without any possession of their own. 'Do not possess gold or silver,'&c. The Church answers, that the same Lord Jesus Christ who whilst in his mortal body said so to his Diseiples, yet at the time of his going out and parting from them, he said (Luke xxii.), 'Bur how the that has a pure, let him take it, and likewise a scrip.' What he forbade at first, hedid allow them afterwards. It is therefore allowed to the Prelates of the Church, &c.

annos<sup>16</sup> trecento a Constantino nerrezi quidan e regione Waldis Petrus sonionata, qui similiter viam pampertatis docais, a quibus seeta Waldenis est orta. Seed que signa virtutum perallectu perhibent lectimosium? com tomen facta celeberriane et nivrocula Siterotri totus sunadeus non luturenst. Caput 1,—Ortus et origo herritororus Waldenisom tolis est. Licci iniquitati

Opps 1.—Ortes et origo herricorum Weldenium talis est. Lict implitate fifsi coma implicate mestimate deces, seetus cerum dames a temporium Sistenti Pape, quando ridicito Exclusi copil ludere propria passentene. Hoc herricorcios repatate an Euro, cua depata Carini in sep propria piani dati viero, mentrario della pata della coma della coma della propria piani dati viero, qual della Diminus Jesu Clerkine, pri genedie manti in coprer merità dividi addicipala reviena prantisma; pia tempera reconsa el seperation dei di dicti addicipala reviena prantisma; pia tempera reconsa el seperation dei di dicti (Laces xiii); Sed mos qui holet succiona talla inidite el perusa. Qual prins probibili, puote concessi. Ido lice Propriata Colestatica haber progrima di

&lt;sup>48</sup> This three is a mistake of the transcriber. It must be eight handred years, as the mme author save, in the next passage, and we shall see it also stated in the Wal-

Then they (the Waldenses) state a falsehood when they say that their seet lasted from the time of Pope Silvester. Wherefore, it is to be marked, that about eight hundred years after Pope Silvester, at the time of Innocent II.,18 in the town of Walden, which is situated on the frontier of France, there was a certain rich citizen, who either read himself, or heard that the Lord said to a youth (Matth. xix.), 'If thou wilt be perfect, go sell what thou hast, and give it to the poor.' And as he went away sad, because he was rich and possessing much property, the Lord said, that 'A rich man shall hardly enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.' And again, 'It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven.' And after a few words, Peter said to the Lord, 'Behold, we have left all things and have followed thee,' Hearing or reading this passage of Scripture, that Peter Waldensis taught that the Apostolic life was no more on earth, and resolved to renew it; and selling everything he had and giving it to the poor, began to lead a life of poverty. Some other persons seeing this, were touched in their hearts, and did the same. . . . . Having been a length of time in poverty, they began to consider that the Apostles were not ulpratudem Ecclaium fer. . . . Mastinate erro, qual ce traques Stortet Pape socia arma direcci. Unde statulate melt qual fer cottiquesti units para Papun Steeterum, tempor Iucocciii Pape III, in civitate Walden, que in fainte Promoci nies est, plic quidoni ceis delen, qui el que leg les dunder Daminos dicisa cuidan uddiceccii (Matth. xix.): Si via profesta son, vude, vuole omisi qua labot et dia properlata. Etc mil terito ilinitate, quod diese frant authori El iterna: Mallo faciliti est combata per forumen cue trander quem diciton interve in reguna colerna. Et para laprone dicit Petrus Waldensie, cum hano autifera dia legera colerna. Et para laprodoci pum nea esta i terro. Under confident comisco et securi numa te. Padadot ille Petrus Waldensie, cum hano autifera alle legera coriperarum, quod via Apartoloci jum non centa i terror. Under copidade com insociore; el envolva readir el properbita delis, copi citum poscultar el consecura delis i properbita felix, copi citum poslette . . . Onna antona dia in properbita felix, copi como colore que deline delir . . . Onna antona dia in properbita felix, copi como colore que deline only poor, but preachers also. And they too began to preach the Word of God. Their manner of acting being reported to the Apostolic See, the Apostolic Lord commanded them to desist, because the preaching of the Word of God was not becoming for ignorant and unlearned people. They refused to obey, under the pretext that the Roman Court issued that prohibition moved by envy. As soon as it was known, the Church excommunicated them. And as they resisted with stubbornness, they were condemned by the Church; and as they did not venture to preach publiely, they preached privately. Then in hatred of the Clergy and of the true Priesthood, assuming the errors of old heretics, and adding new and dangerous articles, they began to destroy everything, except the Sacraments only; and to condemn and blame those practices by which the Clergy, as a pious mother, unite their children, as the hen gathers her little ones under her wings. . . . . And having so preached secretly for a long time, and under the appearance of fictitious godliness having detached many from the communion of the faithful, and brought them to their seet; they thought their preaching ineffectual, unless they also scrutinized the eonsciences of their followers, through hearing their Confessions. And after a time, they began at last to hear Confessions, to enjoin penances, and absolve from Apostoli Christi non solum erant pauperes, imo etiam prardicatores; carperunt et ipri predicare Verbum Dei. Quod postquam ad Sedem Apostolicam percenisset, mandat Dominus Apostolicus quod cessurent, cum praedientio verbi Dei rudibus et illiteratis non conveniat. Ipsi noluerunt obedire, quasi hoc Romana Curia ex invidia prohiberet. Quo comperto Ecclesia excommunicavit eos. Et ipri resistentes contumaciter, ab Ecclesia condemnati sunt. Et quia jam in palam prædicare non prasumebant, occulte saltem pradicabant. Unde, in odium Clericorum et veri Sacerdotii, ex antiquis erroribus veteranorum harreticorum et superaeditis novis et dannosis articulis, incorperant, solis exceptis Socramentis, omnia destruere et condemnare et reprobare, per que Clerus, velut pia mater, filirs congregat, sient gallina congregat pullos suos sub alis. . . Cum autem longo tempore furtive pradicarent taliter, et multos, sub prortensa sanctitatis opparenti simulatione, a fidelium communione ad suam sectam adducerent; cogitabant inutiles esse ipsorum prodicationes, nici etiam scrutarentur conscientius credentium suorum per Confessiones. Tandem post successum temporis, incaperunt Confessiones audire, paniten'ias injungere, et a peccatis absolvere. Et quia credentes ipsorum viderunt et quotidie vident con sins." And because their followers saw and daily see them endowed with an exterior godliness, and a good many Priests of the Church (O shame!) entangled with vices, chiefly of lust, they believe that they are better absolved from sins through them than through the Priests of the Church. And if the Mercy of God be not pleased to inspire the Prelates of the Church to be more vigilant, there is fear that they may usurp for themselves still greater power."

&lt;sup>10</sup> As Innocent II. was Pope from the year 1130 till 1143, we must say either that the nature speaks here of the time in which high

SECTION VII.

ARCHBISHOP SEYSSELL'S EVIDENCE.

COHN LEGER, in his history of the Evangelical Churches, quotes (at pages 15 and 171) amongst others a passage of the Rev. Claudius Seyssell, Archbishop of Turin, endeavouring to prove the fabulous Origin of the Waldensian seet by the authority of so good a witness; and making him say, that it arose in the time of the Great Constantine, from a very holy man called Leo. I shall give here the full text of Seyssell alluded to, from which it will appear, that if Leger be not a deceiver, certainly he was grossly deceived. Archbishop Seyssell had the people of the valleys of Piemont under his pastoral jurisdietion, and visited them earefully in their villages and houses. It cannot be imagined then that he knew less of the Waldenses of his time and their history than Perrin, Morland, Leger, and others, who spoke of them at a later age. Seyssell wrote his foreible and elegant disputations "Adexteriori sunctitute pollere, Sucerdotes vero Exclain quanaparinos viitis, prob dobor l et nazime cornulibus institere, credust se undius per vos a peccatis abolei posse, quana per Sucretotes Ecclaire. Et nii Disino Clencaria disputa fueri Pervitute Ecclairi majoren inspirare vigilantiam, timendum est ne forte mojoren sibi adhue surepart potestatum.

&lt;sup>10</sup> Though this last part of the document. I have inserted it here to show the reader how does not hear directly on the present subject, far so fair a writer is to be trusted.

versus errores et sectam Valdensium," at the beginning of the sixteenth century. I shall produce a few passages from the edition of Paris, MDXX, hoping that the reader will not be tired with seeing the same facts repeated many times, and in so many documents. The Origin of the Waldenses has been for more than two centuries so much darkened with clouds of artificial misstatements by a great many writers, that, in order to establish the truth, it is necessary to bring forward many more witnesses than would be the case with regard to an ordinary historical face.

"(Sheet I.) The weed of which we have resolved to speak, is the heresy of the Waldenses, who by the Roman Church are commonly called The Poor of Lyons. (Sheet II.) There is confided to me the country in which the infection of this plague either began or has obstinately endured from the beginning of the set to this time. It is more than running of the set with the control of the more than the hundred years' since this hereay has been propagated in our diocese of Turin, principally in its extreme parts and amongst the gorges of those Alps, which divide France from Italy, both in the royal dominions of Dauphiny and hosses of Savey; and the same seet has also in our age been not then be exact; the author ought to have mid, in this case, it is now about there isnamed for for goars. It is the tan allow, for the sake of argument, that the time meant by the said expression for three handers (syes in force the death of Express). Now, desircting 300 from 11th, we have 12th as the factors appearance of the said of the

(Pol. 1) Hee autem, de quo loqui decrecimus sizmin, hereus act Vuldavimus, quo Fungera de Loquilous Écciria Romant rulyo regulata . . . (Fol. 11.) Est es mili regio crediti in qua posta hujus hea est imitum fecil, est di pua sente origine ad hee my que tempera obstituistus persecuritis. Guippe in hos Tuntin-end Diseccii motra, in activatia persecuriti paraellos est inter justa diffician que dificient disease, appraamos cheesis hee herritais postalos est inter justa diffician (disease, appraamos cheesis heer herritais fraction), galantique nonamenquant

&lt;sup>38</sup> Mark the words. It is more than two handred years since this herey pake here propagated is over decree of Terria, amongst the groups of them Alpa which divide France from Rolp. This statement bullen the asactive of the immerserial existence of the Vandria in Piemont. Archbishop Seywell when the dispersion of the control of the time they note 15th, when beded, Let us pairs, may mean any abilitional perial of years less than one headerd, because the carprossion, more than two headerd george, could not unfrequently defended by the inhabitants, both by arms and by public disputations and preaching. (Sheet V.) Now in order to come to the point, it is proper to mention the Origin of this sect, in order that everybody may know that it did not proceed from a man in any way famous; because its author, whosoever he was, had so low an extraction, and so little learning and reputation, that his very disciples do not dare to mention his name publicly: and as regards either holiness of life, or literary pursuits and virtues and miracles, he had no renown at all. He was celebrated on this account only, that he gave his name to a very dangerous and impious sect. It is said that he was called Waldensis, and that he had the freedom of the town of Lyons, from whence the infection of this plague spread. Neverthcless,31 some patrons of this heresy, in order to obtain favour with common persons ignorant of history, tell the story, that this sect had its beginning at the time of Constantine the Great, from a certain Leo, a man of very great sanctity. who holding in abhorrence the covetousness of Silvester, then the Pontiff of the city of Rome, and the boundless prodigality of the same Constantine, preferred following poverty in the simplicity of his faith to being defiled with où iondi et ermis et publició discopratacidare concionalesque, notre clam state, deplaca plac. («Est.»). Primum signe et un leva para mocanismo Originem (deplaca plac.) e (Est.»). Primum signe et un leva para mocanismo Originem municipal esta para la compania de la compania del la compania d

&quot; Here, at the margin, is printed, " The fable of the forged author is refuted."

the rich and earthly Priesthood of Silvester; (Sheet VI.) and that all those who were rightly affected to the Christian Religion, having united with Leo, and living according to the rule of the Apostles, transmitted this rule of true Religion to posterity. What can be more fabulous than this falsehood? Amongst so many approved Greek and Latin writers, who lived at that time or afterwards, who is there that has mentioned this man (Leo)? while there is left an everlasting memory of Antony, of Hilary and other anchorites, who, besides abandoning all worldly goods, passed their lives in the vast wilderness. From this single argument it is made clear that this heresy had its Origin not from that Leo, or from any other man famous for doctrine and holiness, but from that very citizen of Lyons, called Waldensis, He with perverted texts of the Holy Scriptures, and with sanctity simulated under the garb of poverty, having persuaded simple and unlearned men and women to adopt his own opinions; spread in that town and the neighbourhood errors not a few, under the pretext of teaching a new religion. Afterwards (as the inconstancy of men is eager for novelties) the number of his followers being greatly increased, and the heresy of their opinions having become evident, he with his disciples was sent into exile from Lyons. The greatest number of them took refuge in the neighbouring mountains, hoping, not without reason as the bont, atteriaent, nob Apostodorum regula rientus (Pol. VI.) have per munu and patteres cere reliquius menum transmirrent. Quo mes counten qui plante ang fabilishula 'Qui evia nei ider let probatus auchtere Green et Leitos, qui tante and pattere cere reliquie in comme transmirrent. Que me transmirrent anteriarum, qui prote rerusa una tante Atabuii. Hillimi, etterresurque auchterium, qui pertre rerusa unaima humanarum contrasphum, eretriatum in cutute abbitului vitum depreut, monoria relictus at sempiera. Que una compusento fil perspiceum, au Leone illo nitive taltas soniais decrime mortelaturique circ; est de lipa Logharcai circ Valident vitis taut etima militare, que una compusento fil perspicum, au a Leone illo nitive vitis taut etima militarelli, anditeriai seres Servigarum eticaria et simulate and purportates specie suncitint, in anna senturians personais, curvera sanualitas and sono religiosis pretentis, in anteria situativa best disconsiner cerit. Hinde for et de humana con especial protectiva. In curi evitativa best disconsinere cerit. Hinde for et de humana con especial protectiva. Los compositos in moltra mortela-mortela con protectiva de consistente de participato para con mortela con personais, curvente, qualificata la real Logia de protectiva qualitar de la consistente de participato para con la consistente de participato de consistente de participato para consistente de participato de consistente de consistente de consistente de consistente de la consistente de consistente de consistente de la consisten event showed, that amongst country people labouring under the want of worldly goods, and still more of learning and Religion, it would be easy to persuade them to adopt principles, which, besides being pleasant in themselves, could without trouble be accepted by ignorant persons, when confirmed by some kind of reasons and some authority of the Holy Seripture. . . . The poison began to spread gently. . . and by-and-by some persons of some learning, but already badly disposed against our Religion, or for some cause enemies to the Priests, through opposition and envy, began to be united to the sect. . . . (Sheet LXXXIX.) At last, to put an end to our volume, I pray you, O simple and unlearned men, whosoever have been deceived by these barbas and hereties, I pray you by the power of Almighty God . . . and for the salvation of your souls, I exhort and eonjure you to be on your guard against these false prophets, who approach you in the dress of sheep, but inwardly are ravening wolves. . . . Who forged some genealogies of that holy Leo, who never existed, from whom as we have said, they falsely state that in the age of the Great Constantine their seet had its origin, and that in subsequent times others succeeded him."

SECTION VIII.

ENEAS SYLVIUS PICCOLOMINI'S STATEMENT.

because their authority is necessary to confirm what is already proved by the testimony of so many contemporaries, but because they are brought forward by John Leger, as holding the fabulous antiquity of the Waldenses, whilst it evidently appears that they are all against it. Eneas Sylvius Piccolomini, afterwards Pius II. (1458) is the first in order of time. His authority quoted by Leger (L. C. page 172) does not prove anything for him. Piceolimini, speaking of the Waldenses, says that they were a pestilent faction long ago condemned. Une faction pestilente et de long tems condemnée. Considering the date at which the Waldenses were first condemned, namely about sixteen years before the end of the twelfth century; and the time in which Eneas Sylvius wrote his Bohemian History, namely about the middle of the fifteenth century, every body will perceive that the expression "long ago" cannot be used to prove for the Waldensian seet any greater antiquity than the real one of about two centuries and a half before the time in which Piccolomini wrote his history. The passage (Æneæ Sylvii "Opera quæ extant omnia."

"Historia Bohemica," eap. 35, p. 103, Basileæ, 1571) is this: "They (the followers of Wickliff) broke forth into blasphemies, and began to clamour against all Priests; and retiring from the Catholie Church, gave their names to the impious and foolish Waldensian seet. The doctrines of this pestilent faction long ago condemned are these," &c.

&quot; Proruperunt in blambenias et . . . in omnes latrare Sacerdotes corperunt, et ab Ecclesia Catholica recedentes, impiem Valdensium sectam atque insemiem amplexi nunt. Hujus pestiferæ ac jam pridem damnata factionis doguata sunt, etc.

&quot; By Pope Lucius III., the year 1184. (See our note 8.)

SECTION IX.

SAMUEL CASINI'S EVIDENCE.

HE second in order of time is Samuel Casini or de Casinis, who by the same J. Leger (L. C. p. 15) is made to say that the Waldenses are as old as the Christian Church: and the same Leger (L. C. 172) assures us that Casini says that he for his part cannot deny that the Waldenses always had been and still were members of the Christian Church. I could not find in the principal libraries of England or Italy Casini's Vittoria Trionfale quoted by Leger (L. C.). But I have found in the King's Library of Turin, a little Latin volume of the same author. printed in the same year 1550, and at the same place (Cuneo) as mentioned by Leger, in which the same argument is treated; but the expressions are quite contrary to those stated by Leger. The book begins thus: De statu Ecclesia. De Purgatorio, De Suffragiis Defunctorum, De Corpore Christi. Libellus feliciter incipit contra Valdenses qui hac omnia negant. At the end of the volume there is printed: Perfectus est iste tractatulus per me Fratrem Samuelem de Casinis die 26 Octobris 1510 die Sabbati in mane. Impressum autem per me Simonem Bevilaqua Papiensem in egregio oppido Cunei anno nostræ salutis 1510. Let us hear what he says on the point.

"These (pp. 2, 3) are the arguments of the Waldenses, in their substance extracted by myself from their sayings, from which it clearly appears, that they conclude, that they are the Church of God, and that the real Pope is amongst them. 'The truth is manifestly the reverse; because what they say cannot be proved by any direct or indirect authority of the

Ista sunt argumenta: Valdensium virtualiter ez suis dicis a me excerpta, ez quibus clare patet ipas inferre quod ipsi sunt Ecclesia Dei, et quod in ipsis est verus Papa, In contrarium patet veritus, eo quod ez milla auctoritate Scriptura, neque directe neque

Holy Scripture, and besides it is repugnant to all reason.
.. From what (five pages before the end) has been said, after a sufficient division, it follows that the barbarians and the Jews, who evidently are infidels, or the Valdenses who do not know the Church of God, and who deny the practices of the Church of God, which she now holds, and has received from the primitive Church, are not the Church of God."

SECTION X.

REV. EDMUND CHAMPION'S ASSERTION.

HE third, in order of time, is the famous Edmund Champion, S. I., who towards the end of his life in London, gave in his little pamphlet an eloquent and forcible account of his own Catholic persuasion to the English "Academicians." A passage of his also is grossly misrepresented by John Leger, who says (L. C. p. 15), that Champion calls the Waldenses Majores nostros, and from this appellation argues that Champion means to say that the Waldenses are more ancient than the Church of Rome. And the same Leger repeating again (L. C. p. 171) the Majores nostros as said by Edmond Champion, adds satirically: "Yes your Majors, from whom you have much degenerated," Dont vous avez bien degeneré. Now let us read the only passage in the Address of Champion 29 to which Leger can possibly have alluded, and mark either the ignorance or the impudence of this undeservedly celebrated historian of the Waldenses.

indirecte potest hoc elici, imo repugnat omni rationi. . . Ex dictis ergo (probatur) a sufficienti divisione, non esse Ecclesian Dei barbaros et Judovo qui expresse sunt infideles, nec Valdenses qui ignorant Ecclesian Dei, et qui negant modum Ecclesia. Dei, quem nunc tenet et habet a primitica Ecclesia."

&quot; Prascriptiones adversus harcticos: Ed-micis Anglia-Secunda ratio," pagra 670, mundi Campiani Rationes reddita Acade071, Megaptin, 2000 MECH.

"If the hereites should wish to have a Church, they are obliged to establish one in the darkness, and call by the name of their fathers those whom they had not known, and no mortal man had ever seen. If perchance they would not glory to acknowledge for their ancestors those who were evidently heretics, as Aerius, Jovinianus, Vigitantius, Helvidius, the Iconoclasta, Berengarius, the Waldenses, Lochardus, Wickleff, Huss, from whom they have begged some fragments of doctrine."

SECTION XI.

PRIOR BORENGO'S TESTIMONY.

HERE are two other Catholie writers of the middle of the seventeenth century, quoted by Morland, Leger, and a great number of their abettors, in order to confirm by some detached passages stolen from them the immemorial antiquity of the Waldensian sect. The first is the Reverend Mark Aurelius Rorengo, or Roreneo, of the Counts of Lucerna, one of the Waldensian valleys. Sir James Morland ("History of the Evangelical Churches of the Valleys of Piemont." London, 1658, pp. 13 to 28,) and principally John Leger ("Histoire Generale." Amsterdam, 1680, pp. 14, 163, 173,) quoting Rorengo with praise, makes him say generally that "There is no certainty of the time in which the Waldenses first appeared, that in the ninth and tenth century they were not a new sect," &c. We only observe that Rorengo speaking of the different sects of the eighth, ninth, tenth and eleventh centuries, makes no mention of the Waldenses, or the Poor of Lyons. When he mentions the twelfth century, he points out that the Waldenses were condemned in that century. But let us hear the Reverend Prior speaking for himself, and destroying the castle built in the sir.<sup>34</sup>

&quot;III (Heretin') osyustur Ecclosium, is queun volent, in latheiu renditure, et cos perentes auserere, queu nec ipsi noceriut, neque mortalium quisquam aspecerit. Nin forte guadest un oribas illis quos hereticos fuisse liquet, ut Aerio, Jensiamo, Vigitatio, Helevilio, Iconomuchis, Beresquerio, Woldenshou, Lothardo, Wieldo, Hanto, o quibas perifere querkan frequentes disquatem encedierrant."

"They of the valleys, in order to show that they are of an ancient source, put forward and bosst to be the descendants of Waldus. . . Now, Boterus relates, that from the year 1159, Waldus began to form a new doctrine in Lyons, and that he retired with his disciples into the valleys and Alps of the Dauphiny and Provence, and that some others went to Picardy. Gualterins says, that this fact happened in the year 1160, and that Waldus was condemned at the Council of the Lateran under Pope Alexander." . . Now there are persons who say that out of those who were exited from Lyons, there were some who from that very time retired to the valley of Angrogna. But I believe that they only stopped within the mountains of Dauphiny, because there is no proof either that they

Quois delle colli si raglimo e si omerano di cuerce delli idecandenti di Valdo.

— Oru il Berto repirece che del 1300 omicalo Vidulo a formarzi una successi dell'ini in Lime, e che in poco trappo si atoto coccioto da Lime, e rivintuti cro i mas incle vatile chipi del Defigina de Precessa, afri in Processa. Giuri in Processa di Romandro — Con e ni chi vivule ce di questi eseccio il a Lime, chimina Romandro — Con vi chi vivule ce di questi eseccio il la Lime, chimina per controli in processa di controli processa di controli processa di controli processa di controli co

&lt;sup>34</sup> " Bress narrations dell' introduziono degli en très nelle Valli del Permonte," Torino 1832, pages 57, 59, 60. And " Memeria interielle dell' introduzione dell'erosio nelle Valli di Locerna &c." Torino, 1649. And also " Esseme interna alla mora Confessionadi fede delle Chiene riformante di Piemente," Torino, 1568.

&quot;This is Alexander the Third, who, exalted to the Popedom in 1150, held the third Council of Laterua, which was the eleventa gracent, in the year 1179, and died in 1171. The assertion of Ginsterius, that the Waldenses were condensed at the said Council, is not confirmed, to my knowledge, by ney olocument. That some delegates of their document. That some delegates of their holy was then to Rome in order to be anthorized in their precedings, and that they went back with a refunal, is the nally fact accretation by the English Prancisons Walter Mapes or Mapeus, who saw, and had some their control of the Control of the Control in his work, "De Nuje Coristium," keep in his work, "De Nuje Coristium," keep among the MSS of the Bolletin Library, Oxford. The part of the MS, in which is related his convenzation with two of the ans-bassy has been published by Archtishop Ushar, in his work "De Christianar, Ecclesiar, . . . Continua successione," &c. Londini, 1687, f. 112.

came here, or that they suffered any punishment; but that many years afterwards, having much increased in numbers, they spread into different parts of the world. . . . So we cannot state with ecrtainty the time in which they first came here. It is not very easy ("Mem. Istor." pp. 6 and 7) to find out precisely the time at which the Waldensian sect was introduced here, and what their belief was. Some persons thought that they were Albigenses already confuted in the time of Saint Dominie. . . . Others were of opinion that they were followers of John Huss and of Jerom of Praga. . . . But the common opinion is that they are disciples of Waldus, called Waldenses, or Poor of Lyons, who exiled from France, retired part into the corners of Provence, part into those Alps which stand between France and Piemont. They had this peculiarity, namely, to live in common, and to be very secret in their doctrines. . . . Besides, in order that their errors might not be there known, each one of them was ordered to attend publicly the Divine Services of the Catholics, . . . Now, without going from the proofs (Esame, p. 9), from the very assertions of your own writers, it is manifest that the opinion, of your ancestors having professed the Thirty-three Articles from the Apostles to our own time, is a false one. . . . Because though from that time to the present hour, there have been many sects, or, as you say, churches, adverse and rebellious to the Catholie che molti anni dopo, avendo assoi popolato, si sieno sparsi in molte parti del mondo

. . . e così non si puo avere contexta del principio del suo ingresso.

... è con sain à pus asoré entattes des princips en les ui seprinc.

Il rapper précisement il tampe de fin introdutin la setta del Valderi in quoti

Il rapper précisement il tampe de fin introdutin la setta del Valderi in quoti finera Albejat confident fin al tampo di Sim Danciero. . . . Abri il timera seporie di Greconsa Hue e de Gredensa di Payas . . . Prob le comes regionis e che invosi de sapaca di Valde, chiannti Valderio i Parri di Lione, quali recerciari da Prancier, is ritirerano perte in alconi sunghi dilla Precenza, ed ultri ri quarte del pir se Prancie.

e Pirannet. Eldero questi in paricolari il vierre in comane, e soprelionisi nelle debitria. Ana per son palmera ellori i lor errori, ciencon en centula di uniore publicamente alli Desia (Bjelia Confedi. . . . One, man partire dalle praner, con vori propria retitta conta che falsa in feginame, cià orare i cueri estima di provi provi protito conta che falsa in feginame, cià orare i cueri estima di provi programe del dalla chiance chilatti, con propositi conteri man si revera provante dalla chiance chialtti, coltari ma si revera presumente dei date. Gleco Calderio, cotteri ma si de revera presumente del date (Calderio, cotteri ma si rivera orapprosante dalla Chiance Calderio, cotteri ma si revera approsante dei della Chiance Calderio, cotteri ma si revera approsante dei con serva proprosante dei con la contacta della chiance Calderio, cotteri ma si revera approsante dei con con control della contacta della chiance Calderio, cotteri ma si revera approsante dei con con control della control.

Church; yet there is nowhere distinctly to be found in them the confession of the Thirty-three Articles published by you. . . . (L. C. pp. 14 and 15.) I have represented all these facts in order to prove clearly that it is untrue that your confession of faith has been professed from the Apostles to this present age; because, there would have been found different practices, different orders, different articles, without making these new ones in the year 1564, . . . To endeavour to send a date a thousand years and eenturies back, is a malice deserving to be severely corrected. . . . According (L. C. p. 47) to Saint Augustin, the true Church is that which communicates with the Roman Pontiff, whose succession to Alexander VII, we are prepared to hear you say is not as well proved, as the succession of your Barba Martini from the Apostles is proved by the ehronicles and the synods of the valleys: the catalogues of which we are always expecting with great desire that you should show to us: because to the present time we could not obtain from you even one authentic proof of your continued succession in your beautiful Waldensian nobleness."

six status in ourse la confesione di 33 artivoli che intra carte alla lace. . . Tutti quatti accessi ha representata per for recele evidentamento no more cree che la contra confesione di fede succes asi stata professita dagli Apsolità sino di notire scool, parela si arriborno gli riterconi delle diceligione, dire collumnate, altri erichico confesione di producti arriborno gli riterconi delle diceligione, dire collumnate, altri erichico continggi di uniti. . . I multito da sure corretta con serveiti. Pero I la Chlesa che continggi di uniti. . . . I multito da sure corretta con serveiti. Pero I la Chlesa che consistenti di uniti. . . . I multito da sure corretta con serveiti. Pero I la Chlesa che consistenti di uniti. . . . . I multito da sure corretta con serveiti. Pero I la Chlesa che consistenti di uniti di uniti di uniti di uniti di uniti di unita di un

SECTION XII.

REV. THEODORUS BELVEDERE'S EVIDENCE.

HE Reverend Theodorus Belvedere is the other author alluded to in Sect. xi. Morland (l. c. pp. 28, 37), Leger (l. c. pp. 14, 169), and others, quote the following passage from Belvedere's "Relazione all' Ema Congregazione di Propaganda Fede" (Torino, 1636): "The valley of Angrogna always and in every time had heretics." And the reader is directed by them hence to conclude, that this "famous missionary" (as Leger calls him) confirms the supposed immemorial autiquity of the Waldensian scct. Now, let us read the full text of Theodorus, and it will be evident that his assertion does not extend the antiquity of the sect further than the time of Peter Waldensis. Besides the passages from the "Relazione," I shall give some other extracts from the same author out of his "Turris contra Damascum," also printed at Turin in the same year, 1636, which will confirm the same point.

Più verso il settestrione al medeinno aspetto occidentale è la valle di Augroyna, la quale sesspre la un tempo o in un altro ha arculo cretici o Albigni o Valdesti, cosmolo che in recoglie delle consolice del Pauli Domocioni, memorando esservi stato a preficere il Sonto Vincenzo Ferreri. . Le sfortunte valti di Lucenza, Augrogna, San Mertino e Person . . sengre sono nette soggitte a curri fiquelli o dell'arculo e l'arculo e l'arculo e l'arculo e l'arculo con tento soggitte a curri fiquelli o propiente della socializzazione della consistenza della consistenza locusts, or of unfaithful eaterpillars, mildew and grasshoppers. Wherefore the most illustrious and most reverend Prior of Lucerna says, in his Narrative of the introduction of the hereties into the valleys of Piemont, that it was the opinion of some persons that the first hereties introduced into the valleys had been the Albigenses, who came out from the mouth of Cerberus about the year 1160." . . . . (Ibid. p. 249, et sea.) "And since the same Prior concludes, that he thinks it probable that the heretics now living in the said valleys are the descendants of Waldus, I may be allowed to explain in a few words the time at which they arose, who was their founder, and how they came into the valleys, and how they changed their seet, adopting the reformation of Calvin. According to Guido, they arose about the year of our Lord 1170, from Waldus merehant of Lyons, who, excited by the heresy of the Catharites, which was spreading at that time, rose up and caused a sehism against the Roman Church." . . .

 $<sup>^{56}</sup>$  Saint Dominic, the founder of the Dominican Order, died in the year 1322, and St. Vincent Ferreri much later, in the year 1419.

It would be useless to quote everything Belvedere says about the Waldenses in his Narrative, as the present point is to show that this writer, by the expression that "those valleys always had heretics," does not mean a time prior, but posterior, to the existence of Peter Waldensis. This clearly appears, not only from the reported passages, but is further shown from his quoting an order, dated the 28th November, 1474, "against the hereties of the valley of Lucerna, called Poor of Lyons," bearing the signature of John Campesio, Bishop of Turin, and of Father Andrew di criticia licente, e d'infai brechi, ribiquie a emadette. Oute narra il subo illustre cualta Revente Signer Priere di Leorena sella sua survisciae della intraducione degli cretici selle veili di Pensuate, carece etate purere di alcui cle i preprie critcia i quate vedi intradedi sino atti dilipoje, i quali serino della funci di Cerbero l'assa 1100 in circa. . . F. perchi il succiona Signar Priere conclute, proprere a las crisciale de gli ericici cie eve i indete celli dismono sistono diconduci da Foldo, su concerne celle veili, e considerate il tempe che quate principarano, a Calciniuma. Quello, consoli della considerate il tempe che quate principarano con l'acciniuma. Quello, consoli della della principali ciera l'associa del Signere 1170 dei Valdo surcente di Lione, il quate consocio a sollevari e fore ciera contre la Civina Rimano, calcitto della erissi dei Culturi, che a quel tempo i prossulgare.

John of Acquapendente, Under-delegate of the Holy Office, as well as from a proclamsation of the Most Serene Duchess Jane of Savoy, dated Rivoli, 28rd January, 1416, "against the heretics, poor of Lyons or Waldenses," in order to prove that the Waldenses were then in the valleys. But let us hear Belvedere again in his "Turris contra Damaseum" (pp. 26, 27, 30), where, besides repeating the fact of their being founded by Peter Waldensis, he reproaches the sectarians for having abandoned their mother the Catholic Church:

"The Waldenses are those who, being the followers of Peter Waldone of Lyons, in France, were called at first the Poor of Lyons. . . Since that Waldus of Lyons, their father and founder, being a cunning and rich merchant, desiring to found and assemble a new sect through the persuasion of Satan, in order to comply with his licentiousness, resolved to renew the old Church of the Apostles, in which everything was in common, principally the wealth. And so he gave his riches in common, and a great many poor, who were starving, gathered around him. From thence the sect of the Poor of Lyons began. . . That the Waldenses afterwards had corroded the bosom of their mother, when, like the dog Cerberus, they bark so badly against the Roman Church, endeavouring to pluck out of her her soul and bowels, as Nero with Agrippina his mother, I think that it cannot be reasonably disputed. And that the Roman Church was to them a very kind mother, it is not only true in some measure, but in the very highest degree. Beeause Waldus was her son, and he and his first followers were fed and nourished with the milk of her Evangelieal Doctrine, and he in the year of our Lord 1170 drew his impious sword against his own nurse."

&quot;Cetterus Fuldesses und spir a Pitro Foldose in Gulfa Lughani carei, prisum Paupere Le Josphus and applitti. . . Quosine Valdos ili Lugha, nazia, esema persus et outer, com Gulfade sent besployen merodre, intendess (cana dimanda) persus nectus, et un dishida indipieren, indiciner et condumer, constituent et condumera, applituenter, receccudem conseluit. Seque applea aris in commun empeti, pumpertum pengere qui incide modificature, configerant en en . . . . liceno sectos Pauperus de Lugheno indoneit. . . . Quod dienespa Fuldense correceiva trivera matrie, due male contra Resementa Ecclosian interio ante Geberi obliterato ciden cierre siand et unisma. Nevului lainde proy mans matres Agrippium, ciden cierre siand et unisma. Nevului lainde proy mans untres Agrippium, etteritor in terra, due nota delle correce que para per correctionary, ma est carteritoria chi manistration persus, der obse evera quan port crisiman; mas est ca-

SECTION XIII.

EXTRACTS FROM SOME MANUSCRIPTS IN THE KING'S LIBRARY OF TURIN.

In the library of King Victor Emanuel in Turin, there is an unpublished manuscript in folio, numbered 169; which appears to have been written a little after the time at which John Leger published his "Illstoire Centrale." The tiltle of the manuscript is: "Histoire veritable des Vaudois," without the name of the writer. That part of the MS. which relates the facts which happened in the second half of the seventeenth century, is very interesting, and we shall make use of it in our second part. Here we shall only give a faithful summary of what the diligent and truthful writer says about the Origin of the Waldenses in Piemont. And in order that every body be able to compare our abridgment with the original, the numbers of the pages of the said MS. shall be quoted.

(Pp. 4, 5.) "Peter Waldensis from being a rich merebant, changed his manners of living, and followed poverty at the sudden death of one of his companions in the year 1160 under Lonis VII. king of France, and Pope Alexander III." That Peter Waldensis was the founder of the sect of the ortus est Valdus, ejusque lacte Evangelica Doctrina nutritus una cum primis suis sectariis et alitus, anno Domini 1170, gladium iniquum contra propriam nutricem arripuit."

&lt;sup>87</sup> He sat in the Pontifical Chair from 1159 to 1181, as we have before remarked (note 25).

Vaudois is stated also by John Dubravius, Bishop of Olmutz in his fourteenth book of the Bohenian history (! Prestanae ex Officina Gualterii an. 1552'), where he says: The author of the sect is Peter Waldensis, a Gaulois by nation, of the town of Lyons, a silly, ignorant and unlearned man, who is not worthy to be numbered amongst the serious heretics. "Autore pine Petrus cognomine Waldensis, nation Gallus, civitate Lunghamus, vividios, indoctus illiteratus, nee dignus interescins hareties numerari." (P. 9). At the time of the said Alexander III. a Gallican Council was held in the year 1176, under the presidency of Guilbert, Bishop of Lyons, who with the approbation of a great number of Bishops and Trelates condenned Peter Waldensis as a false prophet, hypocrite and enemy of God."

Here I would call attention to what is reported by some other contemporaries of Peter Waldensis, and is also asserted by the Rev. G. B. Semeria ("Storia della Chiesa Metropolitana di Torino," 1840), namely that another Archbishop of Lyons, called Bolismanis or Belismanus, condemned Peter Waldensis, and even exiled him with his followers from his diocese. Belismanis ruled the diocese of Lyons from the year 1182 to the year 1192-5.

(Pp. 32, 33.) "It seems that the first coming of the Waldenses into Piemont was at the time of Philip Augustus King of France. They, after retiring to the mountains of Douphiny, multiplied to such an extent that in order to procure for themselves the necessaries of life, by degrees they crossed the mountains of Piemont and descended into the valleys of St. Martin and Lucerna in the commons of Angrogna, Villar, and Bobbio. This happened when Thomas I. Count of Savoy and Prince of Piemont was yet a minor, under the guardianship of the Marquis of Monferrato; and the Savoyards adhered to Pope Alexander III. and were against the Emperor Frederick surranaed Redbear. Thomas having attained his majority was obliged to take part in the wars of his time, and could not attend to what was taking place in the mountains and valleys of Piemont, where the Counts of Lucerna still exercised a great power. It then so happened that the Waldenses had time to settle there and to multiply with their families; and they were not molested at that time by the Catholic inhabitants of the places. The fact is that at the beginning the Waldenses; keeping their religious opinions to themselves alone, and holding their secret meetings now on the very tops of the mountains, now in the grottoes, now in their low and dark huts; gave no outward sign of their disagreeing in any way from the Catholic Doctrines. Besides, they appeared of a good moral and temperate life, and lovers of hard work; and at the same time they frequented the Catholic Churches and occasionally approached to the Sacraments with the Catholics. And in order not to give rise to any suspicion that they were under the spiritual guidance of their own religious chicfs, they gave them the not suspicious name of Barba; which in Piemontese tongue means uncle, and is given to the elders also as a mark of respect; and they thus disguised the honour shown to them under the pretext of relationship or of old age." (P. 42.) "But at last, James, Bishop of Turin, perceiving that the bad Waldensian and heretical grass had grown in the middle of his Catholic field, wrote to, and also called on the Emperor Otto, in order to obtain his imperial aid in exterminating the Waldenses from his diocese, as the Bishop of Lyons had done.28 This happened in the year 1209 or 1210. James obtained his petition and was fully authorized to employ for the purpose even the imperial assistance. But, as immediately afterwards disagreements arose between the Emperor and Pope Innocent III., it seems that the Bishop of heretics going astroy with errors, and inflexible with obstinacy had recently error into his diocese. Mark the word recently.

* See our note 6.

&lt;sup>10</sup> John Semeria, in his "Storia della Chiesa Metropolitana di Torino," 1840, adds, from old documents, that the Bishop, in his application to the Emperor, said: That

Turin was unable to employ the means promised to him, and in consequence the Waldenses remained unmolested" (Pp. 48, 50.) "Under the same Innocent III. the Waldenses, with other heretics were condemned in the Council of Lateran."

Here we shall subjoin some other particulars relating to the first Waldensian existence in Piemont, abridged from another manuscript, also existing in the King's Library of Turin, amongst Miscellanea Patris, Volume CXXII. The author of the MS. is Monsieur Vegezzi, a very exact and careful writer.

" The oldest public document in which the Waldenses are mentioned who came into the district of Pinerolo, is contained in the book of the Statutes of that town of the year 1220. There is set a fine of ten soldi upon any person who should give shelter or harbour to any of those innovators. Observe that according to the opinion of antiquarians, ten soldi of the money of that time are equal to about 280 francs or lire of the present French and Italian coins, a very heavy fine indeed. The said book of Statutes was published in Turin in the year 1602, with this title: 'Statutes and Orders given by the most illustrious Count, and by the Wisemen of Pinerolo during the year twelve hundred and twenty.' Statuta et ordinamenta facta per illustrissimum Dominum Comitem et Savientes Pinerolii currente millesimo ducentesimo vigesimo. 'Again it is ordained that if any man or woman shall knowingly give harbour to any Waldensis man or woman within the district of Pinerolo, he or she shall pay the fine of ten soldi every time he or she shall so harbour them.' Item statutum est quod siquis vel si qua hospitaretur aliquem vel aliquam Valdensem vel Valdensam, se sciente, in posse Pinerolii, dabit bannum solidorum decem quotiescumque hospitabitur."

From the said document it is plain that in the year 1220 the Waldenses were not resident or established in the district of Pinerolo, and that they brought with themselves the name of Waldenses, with which they were already called before entering there. This is a proof against those partial writers, who, being forced by the historical evidence to admit that Peter Waldensis is the author of the Waldensian sect; nevertheless, without any foundation, state and endeavour to make us to believe that the followers of Peter, coming into Piemont, united themselves with the Vaudois already from time immemorial supposed to exist there.30 Idle tale of story tellers!

&quot; It was the twelfth General Council and the fourth of Lateran held in the year 1215,

The same MS. continues: " From the said year 1220 the Waldenses are not mentioned in any way in the Piemontese documents till the year 1334 in which the Prince William of Acaja gave an order to Belangerus of Rorengo, and to Uretto his nephew, who were the masters of Della Torre, and to the other feudatories of the valleys of Pellice and Chisone. The order directed them to put a stop to the preachers of those new doctrines already excommunicated in the year 1332 by Pope John XXII.; because the said preachers would not cease nor desist from preaching. After this order, there is a long silence about the Waldenses in the State Memorials for nearly a century and a half. Then comes a Rescript of Duchess Iolunta, dated the 23rd January, 1476, and an order of Duke Charles I. issued in the year 1484 for the purpose of repressing the Waldenses, who would not desist from spreading their new principles. And it was necessary that the Prince should send a good number of soldiers to subdue them. At that time the Waldenses would have been scattered altogether, if the clement Sovereign had not, upon their humiliation and begging pardon, been moved to compassion. He was satisfied with only levying a fine to defray the expenses of the war. From this year 1484 there is no public act in the Piemontese Annals having relation to the Waldenses, till the year 1535."

<sup>**</sup> See Morland's "Illistory of the Exan-gelical Church;" William Jones's "History of the Waldener," London, 1812, page 343; W. H. Gilly, M.A., "A Nurrative, &c.,

SECTION XIV.

OTHER AUTHORITIES NOT LIABLE TO SUSPICION, PRINCIPALLY THAT OF THE WALDENSIAN MANUSCRIPTS.

T may be objected against most of the documents already quoted, that nearly all the authors, contemporary or near to the time of Peter Waldensis, are Catholics by profession, and some of them very bitter enemies of the Waldenses: and of course it may be supposed that they have not published what they knew about the antiquity of the Origin of the sect, at least from the time of the Great Constantine, or at the very latest at the time of that famous Claudius of Turin in the beginning of the ninth century. I answer, first. By those who make this objection no proof is alleged of the existence of this sect, either at the time of Constantine or of Claudius of Turin: their statements are not confirmed by any document or historical fact; they are mcrely gratuitous suppositions. In consequence we may here apply that old sentence of the schools: what is asserted without proof, we have the right to deny without bringing forth any proof: Quod gratis asseritur, gratis negatur.

I answer, secondly, that Father Moneta at Section ii., Reincrius Sacco at Sect. v., Pilichdorff at Sect. vi., and Archbishop Seyssell, quoted at Sect. vii., have already dispelled the first supposition that the Waldenses are the successors of that holy man called Leo, who separated from Pope Silvester at the time of Constantine. It is not proved that this good holy man existed at all, and if he had been in existence then, he had no reason for separating himself from Pope Silvester on account of the prodigality of Constantine towards him: because it is a clear falsehood that Constantine had given to the Pope the Italian States, or even the crown of the Western Empire. This is as great a lie in history as would be the assertion that the Great Constantine was one of the Popes of Rome. About the Spaniard Claudius, who in the first part of the ninth century was Bishop, not Archbishop, of Turin under Louis, son and successor of Charles the Great, I only say that he had no followers in his hatred against the Cross and the holy Images. Louis the Pious, who caused him to be made a Bishop, not knowing that Claudius was an Iconoclast; when he afterwards learned of his destroying the sacred pictures and figures, directed Jonas, Bishop of Orleans, Agobert, Bishop of Lyons, and Wilfridus, called Strabon, to write against and to condemn the error and the doings of Claudius. Dungalius also, an eloquent Deacon of the time, confuted his false opinions. I cannot refrain from quoting a few lines of the last-mentioned writer. (See Bibl. Patr. tom. xiv. p. 197, et seq.): "Qualis et quanta est insana elatio et vana temeritas, ut quod a primavo tempore Christianitatis per annos ferme DCCCXX. et eo amplius a sanctis et beatissimis Patribus et religiosissimis postea Principibus . . . in Ecclesiis et in quibusdam Christianorum domibus fieri concessum, constitutum et jussum est; unus homo blasphemare, reprehendere, conculcare, projicere ac sufflare præsumat." . . . Mark the words unus homo, hinting at his not having imitators in his diocese. Claudius himself in his letters admits that his people were against him, when he relates their saving to him that they did not believe that there was any divine thing in the Images, and that they venerated and honoured them in relation to the originals represented by them. The fact is, that his subjects were so badly disposed towards him for his destroying the holy Figures, that, when he died, the people of Turin were so furious against him that they gave no rest even to his mortal remains, and Crosses and holy Images were immediately restored with applause by the Bishop his successor.

I answer, thirdly, that there are authors in no way favourable to Catholics who confess the historical truth that the Waldenses were founded by Peter Valdo. It would be too long to quote them all here, but I refer the reader to the "Encyclopedic Metodique-Histoire," tom. 5th, p. 431, Paris, 1791; the "Cabinet Cyclopedia," History, vol. 11. p. 247, London, 1834; the "English Cyclopedia," by Ch. Knight, Biography, vol. v. p. 479, London, 1857; the "Popular Encyclopedia," vol. vi. p. 861, London and Glasgow, 1862. Mr. Schmidt, the author of the "History of the Catharites;" and Mr. Gieseler, of Gottingen, in his letters quoted by Alexis Muston, D.D., in the introduction to his "Israel of the Alps," Glasgow, 1857. The reader will be satisfied if I quote here only four authors. First, Mr. Perrin, amongst a great many mis-statements inserted in his "Histoire des Vaudois," Geneve, 1619, in order to please his Calvinists; (p. 1, ch. ix.) admits that "Valdo commenca a enseigner les peuples les quals de son nome furent appelle Vaudois en l'année de notre Seigneur J. C. Mille cent soizante." Second. Alexander Ross, in his "ΠΑΝΣΕΒΕΙΑ," London, 1653, in the eatalogue of the twelfth century, says (p. 219), "The Waldenses so ealled from Waldo of Lyons, who having distributed his wealth professed poverty." Third, Mosheim, "Histoire Ecclesiastique, traduit en François sur la second edition Anglois," Yverdon, 1776, tome IIL part ii., eh. v. § xi.; "Origine et Histoire des Vaudois," elearly says, That the sect of the Vaudois is so called from the name of its author Peter, surnamed Waldensis or Valdisius, of Vaux or Valdum, in the Marquisat of Lyons, who employed a Priest to translate the Gospels, &c. into his vernacular language in the year 1160; and that in the year 1180 he stood out as a doctor teaching publiely the doetrine of Christianity in the way in which he understood it," &e. To this passage there is a note saying, "The Vaudois, according to the historians, came from Lyons, and received their name from Peter Waldus, their founder." No one who reads the documents I have here collected concerning the historical Origin of the Waldenses will give any weight to the opposite opinion of the English translator, who in another note, with some unauthorized quotations of Beza, Leger, and others, blames Mosheim for his having written the historical truth against their unfounded assertion. Fourth, Dr. Augustus Neander, in his "General History of the Christian Religion and Church," written in German, and translated by Joseph Terry, London, 1852, vol. vni., pp. 352, 353, writes: "It was quite a mistake to think of deriving this sect (of the Waldenses) from a nottward connection with the reforming spirit consequent to the time of Chaudius of Turin. . . . All the accounts which go back to the Origin of the sect agree in this, that it started with a rich citizen of Lyons by the name of Peter Waldus (Pierre de Vaux.)," &c.

I answer, fourthly and lastly, that the very oldest Waldensian manuscripts, when read in their genuine originals, and when sifted from some unwarranted accounts (which are mere legends), confirm the fact that Peter Waldensis is the true author of the sect which began and took his name in the latter part of the twelfth century. Gentle reader, be slow in condemning this my absolute proposition, but read first the following document, which is not published by Morland or by Leger, and in the next chapter my remarks upon the Waldensian documents, particularly "The Noble Leysson," translated and published by them under false dates: and I am convinced that this point of history, called by Bergier ("Dictionnaire de Theologie, Vaudois) one of the most debated;" will then be settled indisputably and for ever.

(Waldensian Manuscripts in the library of the University of Cambridge, Vol. A, fols. 36, 37, 38.)

"Now this holy Church, also at the time of the Apostles, grew to many thousands, and in a saintly order, through thevastness of the earth, and remained for a long time in the verdure of holy Religion; and the rulers of the Church perse-ii Il n'est peut-etre aucune secte dont l'origine nit été plus contestée . . . que la secte Vandeine.

vered in poverty and humility, according to the old histories, for about three hundred years, namely, to the time of the Emperor Constantine Cæsar. But reigning Constantine leprous there was a ruler in the Church, who was called Silvester, a Roman. He was living on the Mount Soratte, near Rome, as we read, on account of the persecution, and was living the life of a poor man with his own people. As Constantine received an answer in a dream, as it is related. he went to Silvester, and was baptized by him in the name of Jesus Christ, and he was cured from his leprosy. 30 Then, Constantine, seeing that he, in the name of Jesus Christ, was cured from so miserable an illness, thought to honour him who had cleansed him, and left to him the crown and the dignity of the empire; and Silvester accepted it." But his companion, as I have it related, parted from him, and gave not his consent to those things, and kept the way of poverty.24 Now Constantine went with a multitude of Romans into the countries beyond the sea, and then built Constantinople, as it is called from his name. Then from that time the heresiarch rose up in honour and dignity, and

Fol. 256, 588as a queeza manten áreque et al term por 11 apparent corpe en most militérat en aus ante por la cababache les terms e primas per unit crump o Prima bet e sence refugias y 11 rejuber les la giren premateran en parten e en jumilier. Es les diseas en la capacita de la giren premateran en parten e en la giren en la capacita en la c

&quot; The two facts are denied by the most it was invented for the first time in the accurate historians.

This statement is so gross a falsehood that we are relieved from writing against it;

tous man ere existed.

evils were multiplied upon the earth. We do not believe after all that the Church of God, on the whole, went out of the path of truth. But a part failed, and the greater part, as it commonly happens, was hurled into evil. But the part which remained, persisted a long time in the truth which they had received. Thus, by little and little, the sanctity of the Church failed. Yet, about eight hundred years after Constantine, to rose one, whose proper name was Peter, as I have heard, and he was of a country called Vaudia. He, however, was rich and wise and very good, as our predecessors say. Then, either by reading it himself or hearing it from others, he received the word of the Gospel, and sold the possessions he had, and distributed them to the poor, and took the path of poverty, and preached, and gathered disciples. . . . He entered then into the city of Rome,™ and disputed in the presence of the heresiarch on faith and religion. There was there at that time a Cardinal of Puglia, who was his friend, and praised his manner of living and his words, and loved him. Yet at the end hc (Peter de Vaudia) received the answer at the court, that the Roman Church eould not endure his words, and would not abandon the path she was engaged with. And thus, the sentence being aftern de les on departed mensement de la sile betriell de la ste, mon una parie equicie maist parie, require en camante, reductive en mis. Affine la part personas permane per most trop en squella betriel la cet tilp dont erropse. Gange la essenita ve l'egière monge per a par. Affine respor è erre non a l'experient de les nomine de les nomine de les nomines de la cetta de la companie de la cetta de la cetta de la companie de la cetta del la cetta de la cetta de la cetta de la cetta del la cet been in Rome, and found a Cardinal friend, and disputed there personally, is not confirmed by the contemporaries. Some Waldenses went to Rome to obtain the Pope's susction in the year 1179 as we have mentioned, Sect. Xi.

&lt;sup>26</sup> The Emperor Constantine the Great died the year of our Lord 337, which added to 800, makes 1137, the appreximative time of the birth or youth of Peter Waldensis or de Yandia, perfectly in accordance with the authors given above.

M All this part, of Peter Waldensis having given, he was east out of the Synagogue. Nevertheless, he himself preaching in the town made many disciples; and going through the Italian provinces, gathered a multitude of people, so that, in different places, many adhered to their conversation-I mean of him and his successors. And they greatly multiplied, because the people heard them willingly, on account of the word of truth being in their mouths, and of their pointing out the path of salvation. And they so multiplied that there were joined to their teaching sometimes eight hundred, sometimes a thousand, sometimes very few. God worked wonders through them, as we are told hy many who readily speak the truth. However, these fruitful works lasted for the space of two hundred years, " as we are assured by the elders. At last the envy of Satan and the malignity of wieked men rising up, not a little persecution took place amongst the servants of God, and they were chased from one country to another; and their eruelty against us endures to the present hour." #8

nen baise habstrapant in his erstements. Chanas a sin extenticà de farf fent la minagena, Finta hi ment di morarrip prispatame en la depit de Plaquese kriptica. Ci faziret camin per las rezigina la Prilla fin disastement respeci que en planeas parte finen demante multiplica; cuit le pelle e disastement respeci que en planeas parte botica fazire en la botta la tiene e transparate de la constante de la constante que la passable se botica fazire en la botta la tiene e transparate ha bita de la constante que la passable se botica fazire en la botta la tiene e transparate ha bita de la constante que la passable botica fazire en la botta la tiene de la constante de la constante de la constante de se adestinación solicita la constante de la constante de la constante de final parlam bolicatic bottas. "Ellas superanse abusta firmaciones horizon por ficação bet a acessar e la maligarez ha el fortira, persupertire non pera con ten carer il a certifica de test a acessar e la ministra de la fortira, persupertire non pera con ten carer il a certifica e persona en la constante de la militar de la fortira, persupertire non pera con ten carer il acert the contrato non.

&lt;sup>30</sup> If this 200 is added to the 1137 we have the year 1337 pointed out by the writer of the present passage. Consequently this piece was written after the year 1337, and perhaps much later. Mr. Henry Bradshaw says that the manuscript was written at the beginning of the fifteenth century, at the earliest. (Astin. Soc., March 10, p. 212, Cambridge, 1862.)

<sup>28</sup> See the Article XIII. towards the end.

&quot;See the Article AllL fowards the end.

SECTION XV.

THE DATES WHICH LEGER AND MORLAND HAVE ASSIGNED TO THE WALDENSIAN MANUSCRIPTS ARE COUNTERFEIT.

GAINST the proofs already quoted for the fact that the Waldensian seet did not exist before the time of Peter of Valdum, and that he is its real father and founder, there might be produced the dates assigned by Morhand and Leger to the most ancient Waldensian manuscripts; which dates, if correct, would prove that the sect existed before the time of the said reformer. And in truth John Leger has printed the following dates, fixing

La Nobla Leyçon	At the	year	A.D.	1100	Page	25
The Catechism	33	"	11	1100	99	38
The Antichrist	"	12	79	1120	,,	71
The Purgatory	22	12	22	1126	11	83
The Invocation of Sain	nts "	22	22	1120		87
And, in his Chapter	xviii.	he f	irst

Waldensian Confession at the year 1120.

Now, if we clearly prove that the recited dates of Leger have not any ground of truth, and indeed are against the best evidence derived from the same manuscripts, which themselves tell the tale that they were written some centuries after the existence of Peter Waldensis, the last stronghold in support of the fabulous antiquity of the Waldensian seet will be destroyed; and at the same time the impudence of John Leger will be manifested, who so shamefully imposed upon the public, and misled nearly all who wrote on the subject after him. I have said, the impudence of John Leger, because my opinion is that Six Samuel Morland was also misled by the same Leger, both in what concerns the history of the Waldensian troubles in Piemont, and in what relates to the dates of their manuscripts, given by the same

Leger to Morland, and by Morland deposited in the Cambridge Library, and partly published by him, with an English translation, in his "History of the Evangelical Churches," &c., some twenty-two years before the time in which Leger published, in French, his work bearing the same title, which may be called an enlarged second edition of Morland's. I am persuaded of this, because I cannot be induced to believe that Samuel Morland, an English public man, would wilfully deceive his readers with false and unwarranted statements. had he not been led by Leger to think that they were undeniable facts. And what I have said of Morland, I say also of those many fair and learned English writers, who, not having the means which, after the new discoveries, we now have to sift the wheat from the chaff, have been induced, through the same false statement of Leger, to copy and repeat his assertion again and again. About the public character of John Leger, I shall produce in the next part some historical facts which will show that this my opinion of him is too well grounded.

After this short digression, let us see the true dates of the Waldensian manuscripts, principally of those in the Cambridge Library, because they are the oldest of all, and because they are solely quoted by Morland and Leger. On this argument I follow Professor J. H. Todd ("The Waldensian Manuscripts," Dublin, 1865) and Mr. H. Bradshaw ("Recovery of the Long-lost Waldensian Mannscripts," Antiquarian Society, May 10, 1862, Cambridge), two authors of unexceptionable authority on the matter. "Besides the Dublin collection" (H. Bradshaw, p. 217), "all of which seem to have been written in the sixteenth century (from 1520 to 1530), we have two miscellaneous volumes at Geneva and four at Cambridge-A, B, C, D, as well as more than one copy of the New Testament, all assignable to the fifteenth century; and in addition to these, at Cambridge and at Grenoble, one incomplete and one complete copy of the New Testament, which may be ascribed to the close of the fourteenth century." With regard to the volume existing at Geneva, Mr. Bradshaw observes (L. c. p. 204) that it was "attributed by the librarian there to the twelfth century; but from the writing of Dr. Todd and other judges, it is assigned, without hesitation, to the middle or latter half of the fifteenth."

Let us see now more particularly the dates of the Cambridge manuscripts, in accordance with the order of age, under the guidance of the same Mr. Bradshaw (L. C. p. 206, et seq.). Volume F, containing the greater part of the New Testament and certain chapters of Proverbs and Wisdom, is assigned to probably the first half of the fifteenth eentury. Volume B, containing a good many various pieces, and "La Nobla Levcon," with its date partly seratched out, is assigned to probably the same first half of the fifteenth century. Volume C, containing some sermons and translations from the Vulgate, and in addition, the beginning of another copy of "La Nobla Leycon," with its date in full, is assigned to the middle of the fifteenth century. Volume A, containing translations, sermons, instructions and the historical passage partly stated in our last preceding article. is assigned to the latter half of the fifteenth century. Volume D containing sermons, discourses and instructions, is also assigned to the latter half of the fifteenth century. In volume E there are different pieces in Latin, and some moral metrical compositions, and in one place there is marked the year of O. L. 1521, and in another, 1519. The handwriting is perfectly in accordance with the sixteenth century. About the date given by Leger to the first Waldensian Confession of Faith, we shall have a better opportunity of speaking in our Third Part. Besides the criticism of antiquaries on the style, language and handwriting, by which the true dates of the manuscripts, as here stated, are fixed against those imagined by Leger, we may here touch upon some other internal evidence. First, In the treatise of the "Invocation of Saints," there is quoted the "Milleloquium," which is not of St. Agostin, but of Fra Bartholomews of Urbino, and was written about the middle of the fourteenth century; and Loger assigned to it the beginning of the twelfth. Second. The Catechism contains quotations from the Bible as divided into chapters; and it is commonly admitted that the division of the Bible into chapters was introduced more than two centuries after the date assigned to it by Leger. For these first observations I am indebted to the Rev. P. Allix, D.D. ("Some Remarks," &c., London, 1690), who, having given the above reported reasons, concludes thus (p. 169): "So that it seems these gentlemen (Morland and Leger) founded their judgments of the antiquity of these pieces on too weak grounds." Third, In the volume A, there is mentioned Doctor Evangelicus, the title given to the English John Wickliff, who flourished in the fifteenth century. And in the same volume there is also mentioned Peter de Vaudia, who appeared (as it is there said) about eight hundred years after the Great Constantine; and facts also are hinted which happened two hundred years after P. Waldensis (sec Article XIV.) Fourth, The sixth verse of "La Nobla Leycon," published by Morland and Leger, as saving: "Ben ha mil e cent anz compli entierament"-" There are a thousand and a hundred years fully completed "-in fact, has an erasure and an empty space, in the manuscript Volume B, between e and cent, and with a magnifying glass Mr. Bradshaw and others saw there the number 4 in great part cancelled. If, therefore, this number be inserted in the proper place, the reading will run thus: "Ben ha mil e 4 cent anz compli entierament"-"There are a thousand and four hundred years fully completed." And in this case the stronghold of the miraculous Waldensian antiquity is dismantled. Fifth, If the said reading should be uncertain, yet the famous verse of "La Nobla Leyçon" could not give any ground for placing the existence of the Waldensian sect before the time of its true founder. And here praise is due to the Rev. Th. Sims, M.A., who in his appendices to "Peyran" (London, 1826, p. 147), speaking of the supposed 1100 years found in "La Nobla Levcon." according to the printing of Morland and Leger, very wisely observes that, even on the supposition that 1100 be the true reading of the manuscript, it cannot be taken as the real date of the composition. This date, he ingeniously says, is the time in which the words "ara sen al derier temps"-"now we are at the last time"-were uttered. And this is plain, if the whole sentence is joined together: "Ben ha mil e cent anz compli entierament que fu scrita lora : ara sen al derier temps"-" There are eleven hundred years fully completed since the hour was written; now we are at the last time." The meaning, then, of the composition is this: that eleven hundred years are fully passed away from the time in which the sentence was written: "Now we are at the last time." Let us ask, then, at what time the words alluded to were written? The answer is: that the words "We are at the last time," or "the last hour come,"-"Ultima hora venit"-were written by St. John in his 1st Ep. chap. ii. v. 18. St. John wrote the said Epistle in his old age, and at least about seventy years after our Lord's birth. In consequence, these seventy years are to be added to the supposed eleven hundred years written in the composition, which will give the real date of the manuscript, namely, the year eleven hundred and seventy; which shows that the composition was not written before the time of Peter de Vaudia. I have endeavoured to place Rev. Th. Sims' reasoning in the clearest possible light, because it gives him credit for his ingenious explanation.30 Yet we calidi, from whose work I have quoted in Section IV.), assures his readers that Abbot Bernard dedicated his work to Foge Lucion the Third, and that that Foge, who condemend the Waldenses, mentioned by the Abbot as dead (fefter recordationis), was Lucius the Second, who died in the year 1144; and hence concludes that the condo not want this interpretation, as it is now well proved that the number 1100 is not the true reading of the manuscript: there is no doubt now that it is a composition of the fifteenth century. Sixth, This appears also by the best possible evidence from the last page of the manuscript, Vol. C, in which there are the first fourteen lines of another copy of "La Nobla Leycon," and the fifth verse is fully written thus: "Ben ha mil e cccc anz compli entierament"-" There are a thousand and four hundred years completed fully." "There can be no doubt," says Mr. Bradshaw (L. C. p. 211), "that the Geneve and Dublin copies are both later than our two; and, however we may explain the omission from them, it is at least the evidence of two earlier against two later copies; and this . . . seems enough to satisfy the most strenuous advocates of the antiquity of the poem."

&lt;sup>26</sup> Antony Monastier, in his screeth chapter, "Origin of the name Vaudeia," in order to maintain that the Waldennee existed before Peter Valdo, amongst other gratuitous suppositions, after having quoted the name of Waldenser, given to them by Ebernard of Bethaue, and that of Waldenser, given to them by Abon San Carlon and that of Waldenser.

After the alleged evidences in confirmation of my present argument, it would be a waste of time to add any further words. Let us then repeat with emphasis the fact that Peter Waldensis is the true author of the sect which arose and was called by his name, in the latter part of the neelfth contrary.

demantion of the Walderstein berray much however, the bear teach pinker before the last teamington, and its memory-more that the berray of Pere Walds. Now Mounted nature history to the state of the last teacher than the ation of the Waldensian herery must in clearly proved that the Waldensea, under packer before the last mentioned the name of Propuese de Lugdanou, were and in consequence that the herery of really condemned by the name Locius the Valdensea extented before the time of Thrief, at a Consell held in Verson in 1184 Walden. Norm Monunter shaws him(see above, Section III. p. 18, and Saur., 19, and 1

The documents I am publishing spack for themselven, and dispress most subsolutely the unfounded assertion that the Makissian sect and the name of Waldeness, or Walissane, was known before the time of Paricultary and the Company of the Company of the three is no need to residue all the paricular sacretions pat ferward by many, although element, pet projudice wirters. I have meficioned here this ministratement of Monusters, or to order to shive the larrard reader what in order to shive the larrard reader what by those who impose upon the public through party spirits. The above-mentioned passages of the two copies of "La Nobla Leyçon" are exhibited at the first page of this book, both for the fuller satisfaction of the learned reader and for a visible evidence of what has been said.

PART THE SECOND.

ON THE PERSECUTIONS OF THE ### SECTION I.

ET us begin this Second Part by endeavouring

CHARACTER OF JOHN LEGER.

to give the real character of John Leger, the famous historian of the Vaudois, in order to put the reader on his guard about his reports. Samuel Guishernon, a writer much respected for his accuracy, and a contemporary of Leger, in his History ("Histoire Genealogique de la Royal Maison de Savoie, justifiè par titres, manuscripts, ancients monuments et autres prouves autentiques." Lyon, 1660), at pp. 1013 and 1014 writes thus: "The minister Leger (John), the nephew of that (Antony) who was condemned to death and retired to Geneve, is a man of malicious and tumultuous spirit, full of spite and rancour. He, through his secret agents in Geneve, Switzerland, France, Holland, England, Germany and the Northern provinces, spread the report that his Royal Highness, the Sovereign of Piemont, attempted to destroy their Jerusalem (he calls thus the valleys of Lucerna, Angrogna, &c.). He exaggerated the origin of those poor despised descendants from the Vaudois, or Poor of Lyons, . . . and endeavoured to engage in their behalf all the new religions in any way connected with them. He forged tales of cruelties so unheard of and extraordinary, that they would hardly be perpetrated by barbarians; asserting that it is as true as the Gospel, that they have been practised in their valleys by the soldiers of H.R.H. to such an extremity, that by order of the Marquis de Pianezza, the executioner cut so many throats that the blood of the murdered people ran through the streets of La Torre. . . . While the truth is this, that, during the war, two persons only were executed by the sentence of Senator Parrachin. This trumpet of sedition published besides, that new kinds of torments were then invented; that little infants were devoured, and the brains of the murdered eaten, that the persecution of Diocletianus against the Christians was milder than that practised against the inhabitants of the valleys. And though the author of all these calumnies had a very bad repute amongst his own people, yet they created so strong an impression upon the spirits of the people abroad, that a great sympathy towards the inhabitants of the valleys was excited, and a great indignation against the Sovereign of Piemont roused. Collections were made in their behalf: and in England alone more than a million of francs were gathered; out of which the Minister Leger and his agents received the principal benefit; from whence a dissension afterwards grew amongst them. Thence it followed that Cromwell sent Morland to the Sovereign of Piemont," &c.

Let us see now what is said about John Leger, by the author of the manuscript ("Histoire veriable"). He thus speaks of him (p. 762): "John Leger has filled his large volume with calumnies and falsehoods and fables cunningly invented. There is no doubt that his uncle Antony was condemned to death for his crime of rebellion, as it is said in the sentence which I have read. Whilst the Governor-

Samuel Morland (Thurlos State Papers, vol. iv. p. 280, London, 1742) speaks of seven thousand pounds given in England on that occasion for the Waldenses; and in general of H.R. H. was the chief Magiatrate of the valleys, and the Counts also represented there the Sovereign, Antony Leger, by his own authority, made himself the master and supreme ruler over all the people, and kept the valleys in an open rebellion against the orders of Amadeus I. and of Mary Christina the Regent in the year 1637. (Pp. 783, 784, 785.) And yet John Leger at page 70 of his volume assures his readers, with impudence, that his uncle Antony was condemned to death after his having been faithful to his Prince in the time of revolution."

"The Regent Mary Christina on the 16 April 1642 issued this order: 'That when any inhabitant of the valley should become a Catholic, the royal treasurers and receivers of the revenues should pay to the Waldensian commons all the same sums which the convert was used to pay to them.'"

The following are the very words of the order (p. 815): *
"In order that this conversion may remain within the limits of a mere and simple favour, so that nobody be damaged, we command that the treasurers and the revenue officers who are now and shall be for the time being, and that all others to whom shall befit, should accept and make a return of money to the tax gatherers of the (Waldenian) communities, to the amount of all the impositions and charges due by each one of the converts, as if they by themselves should pay the amount in eash."

Now John Leger has printed (L. c.) the falsehood that Christina obliged the Waldenses, who remained heretics, to pay to her treasures all the charges from which the new converts to Catholicity were exonerated. Which falsehood was also printed before by Morland (p. 274); in accordance (I believe) with the deceifful instructions of the same Leger, or of his uncle Antony; in these words: "Although the mystery of all this is . . . that those burdens which are taken off the shoulders of the revolters, should be laid upon the backs of those who persevere in the true religion, the better to break and destroy them."

• Affinché questa conversione resti ne suoi termini di pura e mera grazia, di modo che nessuo ne senta prepisitatio p ordinismo che i teorieri e rice-vitori presenti e d'avecnire, a a chi sard appaliente, thi accetture e rimettere gali scattori della comunità, come se le poguesero in contante, le somme a che accenderanno gl'imposti e carichi suddetti di cadaumo di essi (conventiti).

The reader will remember all the misstatements of J. Leger, which have been pointed out in the first part, in relation to the authorities of Reinerius Sacco, Pilichdorft, Champion, Arch. Seyssell, Rorengo, Belvedere, &c., distorted by him, and made to say the very contrary to their plain and natural meaning; and also his having given fiale dates to the old Waldensian manuscripts, &c.; and judge that it is right to apply to him that saying of Luther, reported by Rorengo ("Esame," &c. p. 37]: "Qui semel mentitur ex Doe non est, et in ommbus suspectus habetur."

I will conclude this paragraph with another very striking document bearing on John Leger's character. Amongst the Miscellanea Patria of the King's library of Turin I have read a darkened printed paper of the year 1662, of which I here subjoin the extract, and a literal translation of the principal part. "The delegates of H. R. H. in criminal causes in the valleys of Lucerna, St. Martino and Perosa, against John Leger, Minister, born in the Valley of St. Martino, declare: That the third summons has been sent to the Minister John Legero to appear, in order to make his defence in relation to the many atrocious crimes, not concerning Religious matters, but of high treason against men, imputed to him. Namely, for many murders committed by his order or with his consent; comprising the murder of his servant, to conceal his having got her with child, and so not to lose his ministry; and for his having enrolled, and paid with money usurped from the commons, brigands, authors of misdeeds both against those of his own religion and creed, and against the representatives of the King, &c.,

&c. "That, as he did not appear under the security offered to him, to make his defences, a trial has been instituted, and he has been judged guilty of high treason against men for crimes committed by him from the beginning of the year sixteen hundred and fifty-six and since; crimes which do not relate to matters of Religion: and being guilty, he deserves to be condemned, as now he is condemned to be exiled for ever, and to have his goods confiscated; and if he should come into the hands of justice, to be publicly hung till his soul be separated from his body: then his body to be left hanging by one foot for twenty-four hours; after which it is ordered that his head be separated from his body, and exposed in the square of St. John, in the valley of Lucerna, upon the infamous column." The sentence was confirmed by the Senate with the following words: " By public decree of this Senate to be engraved on stone tables, we determine that the sentence now recited, and justly pronounced against the abominable John Legero, guilty of high treason of the first order relating men, be put into execution. The year sixteen hundred and sixty-two."

This will be enough for the present to show what reliance is to be placed on the assertions of the celebrated historian of the Waldensian churches of Piemont.

SECTION II.

THE CONDUCT OF THE WALDENSES IN PIEMONT.

HE true history of the conduct of the Waldenses in Piemont will show that the reason of their having been often punished was not precisely their religion; it was their breaking the laws of the country.

Sententiam mos recitatam et in nefandum Joannem Legerum, tanquam Lenen Adjestatis humann in primo capile reum, juste prolatam, executioni demandandam esse, publico Senatus Consulto lapideis tabulis consignando, decernimus, 1662.

We repeatedly read of the poor Waldenses being persecuted as well by the rigorous Inquisition, between the years 1206 and 1228, as by the Piemontese Sovereigns; as, for example, in 1400, when, in the depth of winter, they were forced to fly to the mountains, and four score of them were frozen to death; and also by the sentence of the justices condemning them to be burnt to death, as was particularly done in December 1475 in Susa, and in Turin, &c. Without denying similar facts, which, however, have been often much exaggerated, I think we may trace the reason of this hard treatment by examining old documents. I begin with a letter of Pope Innocent VIII. dated May 1487, and printed by Morland himself (p. 199); by which the Pontiff authorized the Archdeacon of Cremona, Albert de Capitaneis, to proceed against the heretics, and to invoke also, if necessary, the assistance of the armed hands of the civil power. "The heretics," the Pope says, "have endeavoured to draw the faithful into their errors, have despised the censures of the Church, robbed the goods, and destroyed the house of the Inquisitor, killed his servant, made war against their temporal Masters, and committed a great many other like abominations." No wonder, then, if the Waldenses, being so guilty, were punished with such exemplary rigour.

I continue with the MS. of Vegezzi, founded upon the Piemontese annals: "In the year 1535, Francis I. King of France, occupied with his army the state of Piemont. The Waldenses, on this occasion, springing out of the limits prescribed to them, sword in hand, invaded the neighbouring places, pillaging the castles and wounding the people of the feudatories. At this time Francis was using all means to destroy the Huguenots in his kingdom; and he issued an order that the Parliament of Turin should also persecute the Waldenses. And on this occasion more than one of them was hurnt, according to the harbarous laws of the time, in the public squares. After the death of King Francis and the peace of Camhresis (3 April 1559), Emmanuel Filihertus was restored to his states. He intended to clear his dominion from the herctics, and expelled the Waldenses from the places occupied by them out of their limits: and perhaps he might have cast them out of the valleys altogether, had they not been strengthened by a body of French sectarians. Though now left unmolested the Waldenses rose again after a short time, and, guided hy their herctic minister, and helped by four hundred armed Frenchmen, fought against the castles of Filibertus. After many hattles, the Count of Trinity conquered them. And also on this occasion many executions took place,"

Alios Christi fideles in cosdem errores protrahere, Censuras vilipendere, domum habitationis ejusdem (Inquisitoris) subcertere, et que in ca erant bona diripere et derribare; ejusdem Inquisitoris famulem interficers; ertamen hastili modo inive, illorum Dominis temporalibus resistere, . . . infinita avone alia destabilità ao abhorrenda faciona perpetura ventris non fuerria.

Now we shall read the author of the "Veritable Histoire" (p. 614): "About 1575 the Waldenses again offended against the laws of their Sovereign. The Parish Priest of La Torre, named Braide, was murdered by them in his own house. They had already denied him the necessaries of life in order to compel him to go away, which he, faithful to his ohligations, had refused to do." (P. 615.) "The Parish Priest of Dublon, who, by his good example and zeal, intended to keep his Catholic flock in their faith, was also murdered hy them while exercising his pastoral duties in a poor house. The same Waldenses plotted to kill other zealous Priests attending to the spiritual welfare of their Catholics. A layman, named Vincent Buriasco, a fervent Catholic, who was with the Priests, informed them of the plot in good time, and the Priests were saved. The sectarians, finding that their project was haffled through him, took their vengeance and killed poor Buriasco instead. The heretics, heing unsuccessful in their design of killing Andrew Toscani, a notary who lodged the Duke's soldiers in his own house, after the departure of the soldiers, entered into his house, plundered it, and killed the women found there. As it was then time of war, no punishment was inflicted on the murderers, and, in consequence, they grew every day more and more daring in their misdeeds. They robbed the altars. burnt on them the most Holy Sacrament and the images of the Saints, and (except in Lucerna) hindered the performance and celebration of the Holy Mysteries throughout the valleys in which they were simply tolerated," (P. 617.) "All these bad actions, and a great many more crimes, too long to be enumerated, had been perpetrated by the Waldenses during the space of thirty years, till 1600, without being duly punished, on account of the continual wars of the time. We can state with certainty that, in the said period, through the treachery and restless violence of the herctic ministers. and of their Waldenses, who already had become Calvinists, several hundred persons perished in the valleys by violent deaths." (P. 618.) "After this, it cannot be surprising if an order was published by the Duke obliging the Protestants to retire within five days into the limits already assigned to them, or to abjure their errors in case that they chose to remain out of their limits amongst Catholics." (Pp. 619, 620.) "As the order was not obeyed in any way, and the Calvinist ministers continued their persecutions against the Catholic Priests who were sent to them, the Duke then issued another order, not unjust, but yet more rigorous and more strictly binding." (P. 755.) "Victorius Amedeus I. died of a violent illness, and Princess Mary Christina, his wife, obtained the Regency of the State. She published a new decree (the 19th October 1637) against the ever-disobedient Waldenses, requiring them to retire within their limits in the valleys, according to decrees already published: the order to be executed within three days' time, under the threatened penalties. The 9th of November following, the order was renewed. Nevertheless, the people of the valleys continued in their disobedience, nay, sword in hand, stood against the Princess. Antony Leger, the uncle of John Leger, the false historian of the valleys, was their leader."

(P. 797.) "It is to be remarked that there were, from the ancient times, Catholic Churches in the valleys, and John Leger himself allows it in some parts of his volume, though . in other places he denies it, in accordance with his fashion of contradicting himself. In our time also (at the latter part of the seventeenth century) the miserable ruins of those old buildings may be seen. They were consecrated to our Lord with the names of the Saints, after whom they were named, as to our powerful intercessors with God and with His only Mediator Jesus Christ. It is also to be remarked that the sectarians demolished them, for the most part, after the year 1550, as up to that time the said Churches were still standing. And this act of impicty was executed with the help of foreign armies in time of war, when parish Priests, Priors, Religious men, and Clergy were cast out of them. Besides, it is not to be forgotten that the Waldenses, in order to obtain pardon for having so destroyed the Churches, entered into an obligation with their Sovereign to rebuild them at their own expense."

I conclude this section by observing that more than once the Waldenses confessed that they had been guilty of grievous crimes. Among the documents, by which this observation may be proved, I choose the following petition, signed by twenty-four Waldensian deputies, with the rescript of their Prince.

(P. 516.)* "Our most Serene Lord and Prince. Your poor and most humble subjects of the Valleys della Perosa, Lucerna, Angrogna, Roccapiatta, San Bartolomeo, and Prà Rustino, approach with very deep respect to humble ourselves at the feet of your most Serene Highness, and to beg pardon with halters on our necks, supplicating that you be pleased to show your usual benignity and mercy towards us, and that you would not keep before your eyes our great faults and our great misdeeds, because tee have not kept that loyally which was due to you from us, who are your most humble subjects and servants," &c.

• Serenissimo Signore e Principe Nortro. Li suoi poere el umilissimi sudditi delle valli della Perosa, Lucerna, Angrogna, Roccapiatta, San Bartolomeo e Prà Rustino, vengono con ogni riverenza ad umiliarsi si piedi di V. A. Serenissima tutti a chiederii perdono

(P. 538.) The rescript, dated 21st November 1594, contains the following expressions:

*" Both for having taken arms against His Highness, and for having caused many damages, many destructions, and conflagrations, both in particular and in general, both against His Highness and against His Ministers and other particular persons of the State," &c.

SECTION III.

SKETCH OF EVENTS CONNECTED WITH THE SUPPOSED WALDENSIAN MASSACRE OF 1655.

EFORE entering into the particular accounts relating the catalogue of the supposed barbarous murders described by John Leger, I think it advisable to recall to the reader's mind the substance of the general facts connected with the said particular details. Finding these facts faithfully reported by Lingard ("History of England," vol. xz. chap. i.), I will endeavour to give here his narrative, as shortly as possible, in his own words.

"The Duke of Savoy often confirmed to the native Wal-col laccio al collo; supplicandola di volere usare della solita benignità a clementa sua verso noi, e non risquardare ai gran falli e mancamenti nostri in non avere osservata quella fedeltà che gli devecamo, conse umilissimi sudditi e servitori sooi, etc. etc.

* Si per aver tolto le armi contro sua Altenza, quonto per aver commessi molti danni, molte ruine e incemiti si in porticolare quanto in generale, e tanto contro Sua Altenza quanto suoi Signori Ministri e altri particolari dello Stato. 21 Novembre, 1594.

denses the free exercise of their Religion, on condition that they should confine themselves within their ancient limits. Complaints were made that several of them had formed settlements and established their worship without their borders. The Court of Turin referred the decision of the dispute to the civilian Andrea Gastaldo. After a long and patient hearing, he pronounced a definitive judgment, that Lucerna and some other places lay without the original boundaries, and that the intruders should withdraw, under the penalties of forfeiture and death. Permission, however, was given to them to sell for their own profit the lands which they had planted. At first they submitted sullenly and sent deputies to Turin to remonstrate. But a few days afterwards a fast was proclaimed; their ministers excommunicated every individual who should sell his lands in the disputed territory. The natives of the French valleys united with the natives of those belonging to the Duke of Savoy, bound themselves by an oath to stand by each other in their common defence: and messages were despatched to solicit aid from Geneva and the other Protestant cantons of Switzerland. The Marquis Pianezze, the chief minister of the Duke, alarmed by the intelligence, marched from Turin with an armed force to suppress the nascent confederacy: reduced La Torre, where the insurgents had a garrison of six hundred men, offered pardon to all who should submit, and fixed his quarters in Bobbio, Villar, and lower Angrogna. The insurgents promised that the soldiers should be peaceably received. But the Dnke's soldiers found the bare walls, the inhabitants having already retired to the mountains with their cattle and provisions. Quarrels ensued between the parties, and the desire of vengeance provoked a war of extermination. But the military were in general successful.

"Accounts teeming with exaggerations and improbabilities were transmitted to the different Protestant states. The Duke of Savoy was represented as a bigoted and intolerant prince, the Vaudois as an innocent race, whose only crime was their attachment to the reformed faith. The Protestant powers were implored to assume their defence; pecuniary contributions were called for to save from destruction by famine the remnant which had escaped the edge of the sword. In England the cause was advocated in print and from the pulpit; a solemn fast was kept, and the passions of the people were roused to enthusiasm. The ministers in a body waited on Cromwell to recommend the Vaudois to his protection. And he first, through Stouppe, the minister of the French Church in London, offered them his support, and to transplant them to Ireland.41 The first was accepted, the other declined. Next, he solicited the King of France to join with him in mediating for them, and received in answer that Louis had already interposed his good offices, and expected a favourable result: and, lastly, he sent Morland as ambassador to Turin, where he was honourably received and entertained at the Duke's expense. It was in August in the year 1655 when Morland was authorized to announce that the Duke, at the request of the King of France, had granted an amnesty to the Vaudois, and confirmed their ancient privileges; that the boon had been gratefully received by the insurgents; and the natives of the valleys, Protestant and Catholic, had met, embraced each other with tears, and sworn to live in perpetual amity together."

I conclude this true sketch of facts related by Lingard, by transcribing a document from the papers of Thurloe, the secretary of Crowwell, given by the same author in a foot-note. It relates to the supposition that a regiment of Irish Papists, commanded by Prince Thomas of Savoy, was with Pianeza: a and to them were attributed. of course, the most horrible

&quot; Amongst the State Papers of Thurloc quotred above, there are (vol. iii. pp. 459-459, extracts of letters written to Stongpe by Mr. Leger (Antony, the uncle of John, see the first section of this party): in which the fact is confirmed that his highness, the Lord Protector, had revily offered to give in Ireland some lands to the poor exiled; and that the Waldensian Ministers did not accept the officing on the ground that they ought not to fornake those churches, which can prove their succession from the time of the Apostles, dic. We have shown the faisehood of this hast assertion in the first part.

barbarities. On inquiry, it was discovered that these supposed Irishmen were English (Thurloe, paper iii. 50): "The Irish regiment, asid to be there, was the Earl of Bristol's regiment, a small and weak one, most of them being English. I hear not such complaints of them as you set forth."

SECTION IV.

THE PARTICULAR MURDERS OF THE YEAR 1655 DESCRIBED BY LEGER, CONFRONTED WITH THE LEGAL STATEMENTS OF THE SAME FACTS.

N accordance with the statement of the oftenquoted manuscript, "Histoire Veritable des Vaudois," I will now relate the true details of the supposed cruel Waldonsian massacre of the year 1655, described by John Leger (iiv. n. chap. ix.), and shamefully misrepresented by him, with indecent engraved figures: the very identical engravings and descriptions published more than twenty years before in Morland's history, which, as we have before said, there is every reason to think, is almost entirely an inspiration of the same Leger, and may be reckoned to be his first edition.

Leger says, first (L. c.), that "the particulars of the massacre have been confirmed through the evidence of more than 150 persons of irreproachable honesty and credibility, who made their depositions at the office of two notaries, Bianchi and Mondonis" (MS. pp. 182-184). "We may forgive John Leger for not mentioning the names of these 150 respectable persons; it would have made his volume too thick. Nevertheless, we are entitled to know that their evidences were given at the office of persons to be trusted. Unhappily for Leger, this is not the case. The notary Bianchi was his right hand in every bad enterprise, and a criminal on account of his misdeeds, and therefore condemned to death by public sentence the 23rd May, 1635. Mondone was not a notary in the year 1635, when it is supposed that the depositions were made. Mondone obtained the office of notary four years afterwards, in 1653; and, besides, in 1663 and 1664, he declared that he had received no depositions of the kind. This fact of the two notaries of Leger is enough by itself to prove in general that the massacres detailed by him are not authentic." (See Art. I. of this part.)

As Leger says that he gave the original of the depositions, signed by the notaries Bianchi and Mondone, to Samuel Morland, the Commissary of Cromwell in Italy, and that he (Leger) published the same depositions, translated from an Italian copy kept by himself; whe intelligent reader will understand that the narrative of these facts, published by Morland more than twenty years previously to the publication of Leger's, is really the fictitious narrative of Leger himself; and that the manuscript of the depositions, placed by Sir Samuel Morland in the Cambridge Library, is the original manuscript of the fictitions narrative given by Leger to Morland.

We will now examine the particular stories. To avoid confusion, the matter will be divided into two columns. That at the left of the reader containing the assertions of Leger, that at the right giving the true statement of the facts which Leger has distorted.

« (Histoire, Part II, pp. 116, 117.) "L'en oy remis l'éviginal signé de Notaires Bisachi et Mondonis extra les mains de Moneus Morloud, commissaire extraordinaire du Mon Lord Tretecteur de la Grande Bretagne, comme ûl te onfosea ou 6 Chapitre du second livre de ton histoire; me contentaut d'en avoir conservé la fidele copie. Voici donc le contenu des sus-dist depositions fidelement tradait de l'Italian."

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

Sara Rostagnol is described as tormented, having her belly cut open, because she refused to invoke the Virgin Mary; at last beheaded by a soldier. The true legal Statements.
(MS. p. 1085.)

Sara Rostagnol was stabbed twice and wounded griorously in the head, while she was handing weapons to the rebels. No other injury. And she died afterwards in a place called La Maddalena dello Vigne, as is deposed by six persons of her own religion:—

religion:—
David Allieta, David Graimer, James Chiarer, Joseph Creepin, Daniel Pavarin, James Bergor, the 16th February, 18th and 19th March, 1674, at the office of Boudina, a notary of known respectability, and esteemed also by the Vandois.

Martha Costantins, wife of James Barrel, had her belly ripped open; her private parts and breasts cut out, which the Duke's soldiers cooked, made a stew of them, and then eat them. Martha Costantina, wife of Barrel, died before the year 1655, as is proved at the office of Baudino by six of her own religion:

David Allieta, David Graimer, John Rossel, John H. Allier, Antony Prascint, Daniel Massen, the 15th February, and 3rd, 6th, 28th March, 1674.

James Micholin, of Bobbin, a Gentheman, stabbed in his feet, hand, and ears; his private parts cut off, and a lighted candle put to the wound; the nails extracted with pincers, and his head bound with cords to tightly as to force his eyes out of their sockets, and his brains out of his head; and all these torments were inflicted on him in order to oblige him to abjure his religion. (MS. p. 1086.)
James Micholin, of Bobbio, a Valet, not a Oscultuma, born in Frassinier, was simply womade in one of the combate of 1655, and then carried to Duaphir; he seven years afterwards was seen in good bealth in the valley of Leorem, as is confirmed at the office of Bandino, the 2924 Documber, 1762, by John Michelin, a Vardois of Bobbio, having hai dwelling-house at Villar, and also by John Martinet, of Bobios, a catholic, at the office of Simonic
s, a catholic, at the office of Simonic detti, a notary, the 10th March the same year. John Loger's Assertions and Representations.

The true Legal Statements.

An old man precipitated from a very high rock,

(MS. p. 1086.)

About the supposed eld man so precipitated, as Leger tells us that he himself is the only witness of this incredible fact, there is no need of any proof to contradict it.

Isaias Grand of Angrogna, ninety years of age, beheaded, and then cut into pieces; his bowels spread ou the streets, and his limbs hung on trees.

(MS. p. 1087.)

No man named Isaias Grand existed in Angrogna at that time, or long before that time. This is proved by the depositions of Jovenal Jacoma, of La Torre, of John Ytalliet and Antony Presciut, of Angrogua, made on the 1st February, and 3rd and 6th March, 1674, at the Baudino's office: and of Michael Gonin, of St. Giovanni, made on the 28th March, 1674, at the office of Simoudetti.

The wife of Daniel Armand also cruelly termented.

The wife of Daniel Armand was simply killed through a stab, in a place called Cogno, while she was handing arms to the rebels fighting against the Duke's soldiers.

Movses Yisimor, Antony Simond. James Chabriel, and Peter Nicollet, of La Torre, confirmed this fact at the office of Baudino the 1st February and the 5th, 6th March; and the same was done by David Dalmezzo, of Villar, at the office of Simondetti, the 10th March, 1674.

(The names of all the witnesses are always given in the MS., but I intend to omit them on the following depositions, both for brevity and not to weary the reader.)

John Leger's Assertions and Representations,

Two women, at a place called La Sarsena had their bellies ripped open, and their bewels thrown ont, by Paul de Pencalier, a captain, the 22nd April, 1655.

Maria Raymond, the widow of James Coin, was found in a cave, her bones on one side and her flesh picked off on the other side.

The true Legal Statements.

(MS. p. 1087.)

There are depositions of few witnesses, all Vaudois, made at the Bandino's office, dated the 9th and 20th February, and the 5th and 6th March, 1674, stating that no woman was killed at that time at the Sarsena; and that Captain Paul de Pencalier was not seen in the mentioned place during the whole of the Year 1655.

There is besides one deposition at the same office, dated the 6th March, 1674, saying that some woman fell into a precipice near La Sarsena, and that she was not injared by any body.

(MS. p. 1088.)

Unhappily for the calumnistor, Maria Raymond died many years before 1655. Witnesses, three Waldenses and two Catholics. The depositions at the office of Baudino are on the 7th of January, and 2nd, 6th, and 25th March, 1674.

"This wicked author" (says the author of the MS. L. c.)
"thus imposes upon the credulity of the Protestant people; and believes that they will be amused with this kind of execrable stories. He supposes them to be wild beasts, and black souls longing to be nourished with the poison of shander."

• &quot;C'est ainsi que cet escrivant scelerat abuse impudemmant de la oredulité des peuples Protestans qu'il crois prendre plaisir a ce sort des fables execrables; les prenans pour bestes et pour des ames noires qui aiment a se nurrir du venin de la medisance."

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

Magdalen, worn out with age, the widow of Peter Pilon, of Villar, was found cut into pieces in a cave. The true Legal Statements.

(MS. p. 1088.)

About this Magdalen, widow of Peter Pilon, it has boen legally proved by seven witnesses, all Waldenses, in the presence of two natures, Simondetti and Baudino, that neither such a widow nor such a hashafter such a widow nor such a hashafter and present the dates of 26th December, 1673, 28rd February, and 2nd, 5th, 9th, 10th March, 1674.

(MS. p. 1089.)

Anna, daughter of John Carbonier, was violated, a pike driven through her private parts, and then impaled, and raised np and carried by the soldiers through the principal streets as a sort of cross-standard, in order to inspire terror into the passengers. This daughter of Carbonier, asturally crippled and stupid, wassimply found dead in a place called La Grand Rul, without any wound or mark of outrage on her body. Thus says the deposition of five Waldenses at the office of Baudino, the 2nd, 5th, 6th, and 9th of March, 1674.

The author of the manuscript here reproaches John Leger for his shameless indecency and scandalous falsehoods.

John Leger's Assertions and Bepresentations.

Many little children tormented, lacerated whilst alive, and precipitated from the top of the rocks. The true Legal Statements. (MS. p. 1092.)

It is proved by fire Waldenses and by two Catholics, who made their depositions the 6th and 9th March, 1673, and the 7th Pebraary, 1674, hat out of the children of John Andrew Michelin, of La Torre, supposed to be so killed, one died in the year 1656, and the other two, a male and a female, were still alive in 1674. The same is confirmed of the other children.

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

James Prin and Jehn Gonnet were cruelly tormented in different manners, and thus killed.

The true Legal Statement,

(MS, p. 1092)

Prin and Gonnet were made prisouers of war, and died natural deaths in the prisons of Lucerna without suffering any torment. The evidence at the effice of Simondetti and Bandine bears the name of three Waldenses, the 24th February, the 10th and 16th March, 1674. The same is confirmed by the Marquis of Angrogna, who procured for them charitable assistance in the prison.

(MS. p. 1093.)

Jehn Pellanehen tied to the tail of a mule, and dragged along, and indecently and cruelly tormented.

About John Pellanchen, at the effice of Simondetti, there are the depositions of Prier Vallero and of David Dalmazzo, a Waldensis, whe had been present at the fact, and ascertained that it is true that an insolent soldier had really tied the poor Pellanchen to the tail of a mule, intending that he be thus drawn to Lucerna; but Matollee the Commander of the Duke's soldiers, having caused Pellanchon to be immediately untied, punished the soldier with imprisonment.

Magdalene Fentaine, suly ten years eld, killed while the brutal soldiers attempted to violate her.

It has been legally proved by the evidence of twe Waldenses, the 2nd and 16th March, 1674, that Magdalene Fontaine was still alive in the said year, 1674.

A mether, flying from the pursners with her baby on her head, left the baby in the snew. Mercier Telosane saw this. The Duke's soldiers cut the poor baby into four quarters.

Through the deposition of two Waldenses, 20th Pebruary, 1674, it is proved that the soldiers had the baby carried to the nearest village. and she was fed and taken care of fer many years, till she died by natural illness in the valley of St. Martino.

by them.

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

Another girl, also only ten years old, was impaled with a pike by the soldiers and then reasted and eaten The true Logal Statements.

(MS, p. 1094.)

Three Waldenses of Bobbio juridically affirmed, 26th December, 1673, and 20th February and 10th March, 1674, that the said girl, being foolish, concealed herself in a heap of bushes, to which the soldiers, unaware of it, set fire, and thus she was hurnt accidentally.

James Michelin, the father of the late Minister of Angrogus, and two countrymen shamefully bound in their private parts, and thus cruelly tormented. (MS. p. 1095.)

James Michelin, the father of the late Minister, did not suffer any hot but but matters. He was made a prisoner of war in a combat, and died by natural illness in the prison of Tu-rin. About the two contrymen, there is nobody who aw or heard anything of them. These are the legal depositions of five Waldenses at the two notatives "offices," only becomier, 1678, and 6th, 9th, 10th March, 1674, bettlete other five de-positions made by Catholics of Bobbies and 6th 2000 and Jane Rostagnol, eighty years old, murdered by cutting ont her nose, ears, and all extremities of her body. Jane Rostagnol, who was not as old as it is said, simply died by a gun-shot during a combat near the Alp of Crosenna, as was legally stated by four Waldenses and by two Catholics, the 26th December, 1673, and the 10th March, 1674.

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

Many persous, as Daniel Salvajet, Louis Terne, Barthelemy Durand, were dreadfully killed by having gunpowder put into their ears and mouths, which, on being set fire to, blew cut their brains through their split heads.

The true Legal Statements.

(MS. p. 1096.)

All these are forgeries. Desiri Schriptive as littled by a grass-thet during the war in a place salled Le Roche de Paccio. Losis Turro was also killed by a gra-shot and a stab received in an attack at a place called Canss de Roras; and the same was the facte Bartholoury Darand, at Baumes. Noue died having received any of the forged injuries. Three Waldenses of Le Vigun, near Roras, affirmed this joridicalty, the 20th February, and the 18th and 19th March, 1074.

Daniel Revel was barbarously murdered as the above-named. Daniel Revel was dead leng before the year 1655. Daniel Paradiso and James Bergier proved this fact in a legal deposition the same year, 1674.

Paul Reinaud was also killed in the same cruel manuer. Four Waldensee legally proved at the effices of the often-mentioned notarise, the 6th December, 1673, and the 6th and 20th February, 1674, that Paul Reimaul was found dead after a confingration, probably sufficasted by the smoke. His body was feund withent any injury on his ears or mouth, and only with his beard and shirt a little burnt.

(MS. p. 1097.)

Jehn Rone, a schoolmaster, had his nails pulled out with pincers; hands, feet and ears perforated in many parts; was asked several times All these cruel details of torments are ferged by Leger, as is his custom, to make the Invocation of Saints and the Mass edious to the Protestants, John Leger's Assertions and

The true Legal Statements. Representations.

(MS. p. 1097.)

to invoke the Virgin Mary, and to go to Mass, and at each of his refusals, a piece of his flesh was cut off with a knife.

and to insert false motives of Roligion into the invented cruelties. The fact is simply this, that Rono was made prisoner of war, and ordered to be transported to Lucerna. But he resisted the soldiers with all his might, and one of them shot him dead with a pistol. This has been juridically confirmed by the Prior, Michael Augel Gallina, and by the Signori Benettine and Vocero, all mon of honour, and as such respected by the Waldenses of Lucerna themselves.

Paul Garnier, of Roras, had his eyes forced out of his head, his private parts cut off and put into his mouth; then he was skinned alive, and left so to die; while his skin, cut into pieces, was hung at four windows of the best houses of Lucerns.

There is a juridical statement of eight Waldenses, named in the MS. bearing the dates of 25th, 26th, 28th February, and 6th, 18th, 19th, 28th March, 1674, asserting unanimously that Paul Garnier was killed by a gun-shot while he was assaulting the town of Lucerna with his companions; and that, after the brigands were driven back, Joseph Baptist Bianco, a Catholic, attended to the burial of his body.

Daniel Cardon, of Roccapiatta, was beheaded, his brains thrown out of the skull and eaten by the soldiers, and his heart dovoured by them.

(MS. p. 1098.) The only truth about Daniel Cardon, of Roccapiatta, is that the soldiors of the Duke shot him dead whilst he was fighting with rebels against them, near the temple of Roccapiatta. Hohad no other injury, and was buried by his own people after the combat. This is the legal deposition made by five of his own companions, the 9th and 28th Februsry, and 6th, 10th, 28th March, John Leger's Assertions and Representations, Margaret Revel, called La Cartars was burnt by the Duke's soldiers at Le Vigne, and so they also served Mary Praviglielmo. The wife of Mathew Giordano is quoted as the eye witness of the fact.

The widow of John Hugon, infirm and bedridden for three years, was carried to La Torre on a cart, wounded with the sharp end of halberds, stoned and drowned in the river Angrogna.

P. Gilles, of La Torre, wounded by a gun-shot, had his nose cut off and his face scarified, and left thus to die. The true Legal Statements. (MS. p. 1099.)

Margaret Revel was hurnt to death, not by the soldiers, but accidentally; not at Le Vigne, but at a place called Li Ronchi, near the farm of Antony Prascinto, where she had concealed herself, without it being known hy anybody. Mary Praviglielmo died a natural death in a place called Rocca Corders. The wife of Mathew Giordano, quoted as an eye witness, was dead and buried long before the year 1655. Thus it is stated by three Waldenses in their depositions at the two notaries', 30th December, 1673, and 28th February and 28th March,

Four Waldenses, the 6th and 10th March, 1674, made their legal statement to this effect: that the widow of John Hagou, who was not, in fact, infirm, was killed through being stabbed twice by the soldiers, while she was helping the rebels during an attack on a place called "La Gran Rah."

(MS, p. 1100.)

It is not stated by Leger whether this P. Gilles was named Peter or Paul. However, the falsehood of the assertion is proved by the legal evidence of three Waldenses, of La Torres, and of others, as it appears from the registers of the 9th, 24th, and 26th Petrusy, and 6th and 16th May, 1674. The statements any, flast norm samed Paul Gilles was over known at La Torre, and the same over known at La Torre, and the lefter the three three paul for the paul follows and Paul Februs the condition of the paul follows and Paul Februs the non-discharge died some years dief the said doct.

John Leger's Assertions and Representations.

The true Legal Statements. (MS. p. 1100). The whole of the account about

At Gracillane, a place at the bottom of the valley of Lucerna, a great many poor Waldenses were violently cast into an oven already made hot. and ready to bake bread. They were all forced into the oven and roasted mossog the furnace of Gracillane, both in its substance and in its circumstances, is another solemn falsehood of a man of unblushing effrontery, as is proved at the office of the two notaalive. Some Catholics were wit- ries, by the deposition of eleven persons of the same place.

"It would be too long and tedious to continue relating all the legal evidences registered against the forged accounts of John Leger. It will be enough to say, that we are ready to show them to any person who should be doubtful of their genuineness.* Yet, before concluding this argument, we shall touch cursorily some of the other facts misrepresented by J. Leger.

"John Baptist André dicd before the year 1655 (Deposition, Febr. and March the 7th, 1674), and it is said that he was cut in pieces in the said year 1655.

"(MS. p. 1102.) Michael Belia, said to have had his head rooted out from his shoulders in 1655, was still alive in 1656. (Deposition of five Waldenses, Febr. and March, 1674.)

"Daniel Pellene, said to have been ignominiously carried to Angrogna by the Catholics; he was really so carried, not by the Catholic soldiers, but by his own Waldenses, in order to get his money. (Deposition, Febr. and March, 1674, ten witnesses.)

"About Michael Perisa, said to have been beheaded at Cavour the same year, 1655, it is proved that there were two men of this name, one died before the said year, the other was still alive in 1674. (Depos. 1674.)

"John Donna, Leger said to have been burnt alive. Seven witnesses stated legally that there were three persons of this name. The first, wounded in a combat at San John, died of the wound at Angrogna. The second died in 1661, after having been stabled twice in his belly by another Waldensis, and the third died in 1663 in the mountain of Rubbian.

. (MS. p. 1101.) "Je ne laisse pas de conserver les pièces originales qui justifiant incontestablement la fausseté des massacres particuliers, qu'il décrit si au long dans ces rôlles. Elles satisferont ceux a qui il prendroit envie de s'en éclarcir.

"It is said that the wife of Paul Chevet was beheaded in the year 1655, and it is proved that she was dead some years previous to that time. (Depos. 1674, four witnesses.)

"Joseph Claret, who while with the brigands trying to take Lucerna by assault, died of a gun-shot, without suffering any other injury, as is confirmed by eight witnesses; is yet described by Leger as having his belly ripped open, in order to take off his fat before his death.

"Mary Paul also, it is said, was killed the same year, 1655; and Mathew Thurin is described as dreadfully tormented, and his body given to the dogs; and yet, by the deposition of three witnesses, it is proved that both were already dead previous to the said year."

SECTION V.

OTHER AUTHORITATIVE STATEMENTS ON THE SAME ARGUMENT.

ET us conclude this second part by simply re-

1st. That the principal reason for which the Waldenses were punished in Piemont was not precisely their religious belief, but their having been rebellious against the orders of the Sovereign and the laws of the country in which they lived: which is proved, not only by the many facts herein recorded, and sometimes admitted and confessed by the Waldenses themselves, as we have already seen, but also confirmed by the written records of several public men of the time. We are now going to quote them. Monsieur Servien, the Ambassador of the King of France in Turin writes thus to the Governor and Consul of Fragela: "Turin, April 14, 1655. I write to you these lines to let you know that his Royal Highness, being dissatisfied with some inhabitants of the valley of Lucerne, not only for opposing his orders, but also for making others directly contrary unto them, by an attempt full of insolence, hath resolved to have that obedience that is due unto him." (State Papers of John Thurloe, vol. III. p. 413. London, 1742.) Let us see also (L. C. p. 578) what De Lionne, the French Ambassador at Rome, wrote to Bordeaux, the French Ambassador in England. "Rome, July 3, 1655: I hope that the pretence which the Protector (Cromwell) takes to defer the signing of your treaty upon the business of the valleys of Savoy, will suddenly cease; since Monsieur Servien, Ambassador for the King at Turin, hath writ me word, that he hoped to accommodate the same in a short time, according to the orders which he had received from the Court: although it is not a War for their Religion, but a pure revolt against the Prince." Count Brienne besides may be heard in his letter written to Bordeaux, the French Ambassador in England (L. C. p. 817): "Soisson, July 16, 1655. As for the business of Savoy, . . . you may assure the Protector that we have done all what he could desire of us. But we can but entreat and not command the Prince of Savoy. Certain it is that his subjects had very much forgotten their duty." It is then to overthrow the historical evidence to say that the Waldenses were persecuted for their religious opinions.

Second, That, speaking in particular of the famous year 1655, if, on the one hand, we must admit that many Waldenses were killed during the combats at the places which were attacked or held by the soldiers of the Sovereign; on the other, it is equally certain, in accordance with the depositions quoted above, that the catalogue of murders, tedious for their length, and abominable for their indecent and cruel details, is nothing else than a malicious dream of the excited imagination of a deceiver. Sir Samuel Morland himself, in a letter to Thurloe, the Secretary of Cromwell, has the following striking expressions on the subject (State Papers, vol. III. p. 417): "Geneve, January 15, 1656." As to the History. . . . I have not neglected to use my utmost diligence, since the verie first time you mentioned the same. . . The greatest difficulty I meet with is in relation to the matter of fact in the beginning of these troubles and during the time of warr. For I find, upon diligent search, that many papers and bookes which have been put out in print on this subject, even by some Ministers of the valleys, are lame in many particulars and in manie things not conformable to truth." Notable expression not to be forgotten!

Third, That in the said year 1655, the number of the Waldenses in the valleys of Piemont amounted to about 16,000, as is also admitted by John Leger, and the killed, both by sword and by fire, and also in their flight, did not exceed altogether 200 in number, as is stated in the report published at that time by the Sardinian Government in Italian, French, and Latin; which was printed also in Morland's History (p. 398). Too many, if the preciousness of human life is considered; but very few indeed, if compared with the ordinary history of unsuccessful revolutions, and with the many thousands of human beings sacrificed on like occasions, not to speak of other places and times, especially here in England and Ireland, in the same unhappy seventeenth century.

&lt;sup>47</sup> I have assigned 1656, because the year 1655, printed in the State Papers, L. C., is a mistake. The facts alloded to in this letter dowing May.

I have notigned 1666, because the year fs, printed in the State Papers, L. c., is a state. The fact alloaded to in this letter Lead Co. Hardwicks, High Chanceller of cosed not in January, 1656, but in the wine Ver.

PART THE THIRD.

THE RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES OF THE WALDENSES.

SECTION I.

A SKETCH OF THE CHANGES IN THE WALDENSIAN DOCTRINES, FROM THE EARLIEST PERIOD TO THE TIME OF THE NEW REFORMERS.

> EFORE speaking particularly of the religious opinions of the Waldenses, it is advisable to touch upon some general points of history on this subject:—

First. That it was a mistake of some writers to accuse the old Waldenses of holding errors which they, as a body, had in abomination. For instance, that they admitted two gods and two principles, the good and the bad, as the Manicheans did; that they denied Baptism and he other Sacraments; that they rejected the Apostles' Creed, and permitted promiseuous sexual intercourse, &c. These and many other tenets, sometimes attributed to the old Waldenses, cannot be said with truth to have been their errors, as there is no trace of them in any of the Waldensian manuscripts. I am of opinion that this mistake was caused, either by this, that some of the followers of Peter of Vaudia had belonged at first to other sects of the time, and previously held errors like those, or, that it was the effect of confounding the Waldensian seet with that of the Catharites, or of the Apostolicals, or of the Albigenses. At any rate, we must repeat that the Waldenses, as a particular body of sectarians, were quite free from those abominable and destructive errors.

Second. That they in their outset held nothing at variance with the common doctrines of the Catholic Church, within which they were at first educated, except their preaching and expounding publicly the Holy Scriptures, in spite of the prohibition of the Bishops of the same Church. "The Waldenses" (I quote the words of Neander, in his "History of the Christian Religion and Church," vol. VIII, ) "laboured with great zeal, and certainly without any thought at first of separating themselves from the Church; but simply aiming at a spiritual society like many others in the service of the Church." And this is pretty clear to every one who considers the fact that an embassy of their body went to Rome in the year 1179, at the time of the Third Council of Lateran, in order that Pope Alexander the Third would sanction their society, and approve of their book. This point of history is confirmed by the English Franciscan, Walter Mapes, who in that very year was in Rome, and had a conversation with two of the Waldensian embassy, as he relates in his work "De Nugis Curialium," existing among the manuscripts of the Bodleian Library (851) at Oxford. I will quote a few words only of this contemporary : "" We saw Waldensian men in the Roman Council held by Pope Alexander the Third. They were simple and unlearned, and were thus called from the name of their founder, Valdo, who was a citizen of Lyons on the Rhone. They presented to the Pope a book written in the old Provençal language, in which there were texts and comments of the Psalms, and of many books of the Old and New Testament," &c. It is true that they were sent back without obtaining what they asked, and were forbidden to explain the Scriptures, and to preach publicly in their own way; yet they were not condemned at that time as guilty of any error in doctrine. Besides, when John a Bellismanibus, Arehbishop of Lyons, about the year 1182 or 1183, also forbade them both to preach and expound the Scriptures, and finding them disobedient, expelled them from his diocese: no mention was made of their holding any doctrine at variance with the teaching of the Church: they were simply expelled because, being laymen and illiterate, and, of course, frequently using erroneous expressions, presumed, against the prohibition of their superiors, to preach, and exercise an office which was confided to the Apostles and to their successors only. And, in fact, two of the original followers of the Waldensian seet, the one named Durandus of Huesca, who had also been a master of Waldism in a school at Milan; and the other, Bernard Primo, and a great number of their Waldensian companions, having shown their desire to be reunited with the Church, their petition was readily granted by Pope Innocent the Third; and they besides received from him letters and diplomas authorizing them to establish religious orders. The letters to Durandus are of the 18th December, 1208, those to Bernard are dated 14th June, 1210. The two societies, in the year 1256, were united to, and embodied with, the Hermits of St. Augustin (Helvot, "Histoire des Ordres Monastiques." Guingamp, 1839, vol. 11. p. 283 et sea.).

• Vidinuu in Concilio Romano mb Alexandro Papa III. celebrato Valdesios homines glidoses illiteratos, a primate ipoorum Valdo dictos, qui fuerat cisis Lugdunis super Redamum; qui librum domino Papa praesentarerum limpua concerpieme Galikos, in quo teetus et glossa Peatlerii, plurimorumque Legis Utriusque librorum contendentur. (Rec note 25).

Third. Notwithstanding what we have said, it eaunot be denied that the Waldenses in after times admitted and professed many articles of doctrine, against the teaching and practices of the Roman Cburch, as we shall see in separate articles. Yet a very broad distinction is to be drawn between many articles of their religious doctrine in the old time, and those adopted by the new Waldeness after the appearance of the reformers Luther and Calvin. The latter are very different from the former in many substantial points; so that, if the Waldenses who existed in the thirteenth and fourteenth century, had risen from their graves and mingled with those of the seventeenth and eighteenth, they would have judged the latter very unfaithful to their old religion. Let us read the often quoted MS. ("Veritable Histoire," p. 2): "The Waldenses became Lutheran on the appearance of Luther, and a little afterwards from being Lutheran they became Calvinist. John Leger, who took upon himself the task of being the historian of the valleys of Piemont, presumed to revive in our days the name of Waldenses, whose heresy died away about two centuries ago." (Idem, MS. p. 294): "The first public Waldensian assembly, called together in the valleys, was held at Angrogna the 12th September, 1532; at which there was proposed some kind of religious union between the Waldenses and the Lutherans. The two barbas, George Morel and Peter Masson, objected strongly to this proposal, on the ground principally that the Lutheran articles were more in number than the Waldensian. New letters, however, having been received from Germany, some kind of union between the two seets was made, in spite of the two barbas: and this was done at another assembly held in the valley of San Martin, the 15th August, 1533. Nevertheless, through the cunning of Calvin, who, both personally and by means of his partizans-principally William Farel-repeatedly addressed the Waldenses, they a few years afterwards gave way, and, in 1536, became Calvinists. totally so, however, at first; because, being obliged by the Senate of Turin to declare their religious belief, they made a confession of faith neither in accordance with Luther. whom they had already abandoned, nor in accordance with Calvin, whom they did not yet profess to follow entirely. The profession of their faith presented to the Senate was a mixture of the two sects. They declared, 1st. That the religion of their ancestors and their own was that which God has revealed in the Old and New Testament; 3nd. That it was summarily contained in the twelve articles of the Creed; 3rd. That they held the Sacraments, not, however, to the number of seven; 4th. That they received the Four First General Councils of Nice, Ephesus, Constantinople and Calcedon, the Athanasian Creed and the Commandments of Our Lord, as they are written in the books of Exodus and Deuteronomy; 5th. That they acknowledged the Princes of the earth; 6th. That after all, they did not consider themselves under any obligation to obey the Roman Church, nor of observing her decrees.

M. A. Rorengo ("Esame intorno alla nuova Confessione di Fede, ecc. Torino, 1658," p. 33) confirms the same Waldensian changes by addressing them thus: "You allow your confession of faith to run like the fashion of our clothes, now long, now large, now narrow. Up to the present time you hold the rule of the First Councils and of the First Doctors of the Church. Now you cast them saide, and then place instead the confession of Flanders, Holland, &c. so that under such rules we are unable to dispute and to discover what your faith is. Observe (t. c. p. 43) that St. Augustin acknowledges for a true Church that which has the succession of Pontifis and Priests. And you pre-tend that the new confession lasted from the Apostes, from St. Peter to barba Martini. How can you exhibit successors both in the hierarchical chair, and in the doctrine?"

What has been noted here will show generally that the Waldenses have undergone some great changes in relation Yei, fatt covere la soutra confession di fute on la socia dei sessisi se lungli co el negli en servici. Peredate gione in expela de princi (condicii duttivi della Chiena. Ora gli leuste surrognoda la confession di Frandro, Oltondo co;, afficabi con tali regole non in conocce a posso disputare qui di al o sutro fute. Derestro del Social Agustico trocca per serve sucrea della Chiena la mecanione del Pradefei. Secretal: E vi estate de la confessione seuco adici demonstra degli Agustico. Secretal: E vi estate de la confessione seuco adici demonstra degli Agustico. del Sur Pietro a barba Martini. Cone produrrete successori nella cuttedra e solla destrius I to their religious opinions at different epochs, principally after Luther and Calvin. Let us now descend to the particulars.

SECTION II.

THE RELIGIOUS DOCTRINES OF THE OLD WALDENSES WHICH AGREED WITH THOSE OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND DIFFERED FROM THE TENETS OF THE NEW REFORMERS.

OHN LEGER has printed several confessions of the Waldensian faith, and assigns the first to the wrongly says) before Valdo of Lyons (1st Part, p. 92 and following). This confession contains fourteen articles. In the third a distinction is made between the Canonical and the Apocryphal books, and the Waldenses are made to say that they read the Apocryphal for the instruction of the people, not, however, for proving by them Ecclesiastical Doctrines; and in the thirteenth article it is stardle plainly, that they have not known of any other Sacrament, except Baptism and the Eucharist: "20s inn abut norugu auttr sacrament que 10 suprisma et la rutplatfatia".

Not to say anything now ahout the other four confessions given by this writer, I call the reader's attention to the two recited articles of the first, and remark—First. That no Waldensian confession of faith can be older than the Waldenses themselves. Now there is no doubt that this sect did not arise before the second half of the twelfth century, as has been fully proved in our first part. Second. That, in accordance with Professor James Henthorn Todd (The book of the Vaudois, p. 8 and following), his confession, printed by Leger with the false date of 1120, is in substance and in many parts verbally the same as that which Morel and Masson showed to Occolampadius and to Bucer in 1530, when the two Arabas went to consult them on the particulars.

of their religion, in order to come to some agreement between themselves. Third. That the division of the books of the Scriptures into Canonical and Apocryphal, there stated to have been made by the old Waldenses, and the admission of two Sacraments only, are points contradiced by the same old Waldenses in their manuscripts. We have only to open them and read some passages.

In relation to the different books of the Bible, there is not to be found in any of the old Waldensian texts either the word or the signification of the word Apocryphal. They admitted the whole of the Bible as it was admitted by the Catholics, without excluding from the number of its books those which by the new reformers are excluded as not Canonical. In volume C of the Waldensian manuscripts, in the Cambridge Library, there is a translation of part of the second of the Maccabees, chapter vii. from the Vulgate, and a translation of some chapters of Job, and the whole book of Tobit also from the Vulgate, comprising that famous passage of the Angel: "Prayer is good with fasting and alms, more than to lay up treasures of gold; for alms delivereth from death, and the same is that which purged away sins, and maketh to find mercy and life everlasting ". (Tob. chap. xii. 8 and 9). In volume E there are extracts from Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Ecclesiasticus. In volume F, amongst translations of parts of the New Testament, there are two chapters of the Book of Wisdom; and in volume B there is a treatise on the Commandments. They are not divided in accordance with the new reformers, but in accordance with the Catholic Catechism: namely, the first and second commandment, according to the division adopted by the reformers, are united and called the first commandment, as the Catholics do. And the commandment called the tenth by the same reformers, is divided into two. also in accordance with the division adopted by the Catholic Church. Therefore the Waldenses, in their manuscript, put as the second commandment: Not to take the name of vour Lord God in vain-Le gegent comandament non prenberag le nome del le Segner Die enban; and put as the ninth, Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife; and as the tenth. Not to covet thy neighbour's goods-It noben no cubitare la molber del too pome-Le decen es no cubitar las cogas del too pyme. What I have stated concerning the Cambridge manuscripts as to the distinction of the Apocryphal books not being found there, but, on the contrary, everything in accordance with the Catholic Bible, is also to be observed of the Waldensian manuscripts in Trinity College, Dublin, of a more recent date; yet previous to the new reformers, in which, according to the positive assertion of Dr. Todd (L. c. p. 4), no distinction is to be found between the Canonical books of the Bible and those called Apocryphal by the reformers: and every Scriptural book or passage is always quoted there in accordance with the Catholic Bible, comprising the controverted passage of St. John (1 Ep. v. 7), which is also written there: "There are three that give testimony in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost; and these three are One-Trei son ii qual bonan testimoni al cel lo Baire e lo filb e lo Banct Sperit, e a quisti trei son un." This will be enough to show that the Waldenses, before Luther and Calvin, had their Bible as the Catholics have it now : without excluding the books or the passages excluded by the same Waldenses, after having become Calvinists. It will also demonstrate the falsehood of the date of 1120 given by Leger as that of the first confession of the Waldensian faith.

* Bona est lauration e lo briun e lalmosina maior be q erscondre ressor dor, tar laimosina dellebra de mort car all mesma purga li peces e lay a trober bita eterna.

In relation now to the Sacraments, of which, in that confession of faith attributed by Leger to the beginning of the twclfth century, it is said that the old Waldenses admitted two only, Baptism and the Eucharist; it will be enough to read a few lines of the Cambridge Waldensian MS. In volume D, under the title, "Exposition of Christian Doctrine," at chapter ii. there are the following words: "Seven are the Sacraments of the Holy Church. The first is Baptism given to us in remission of sins. The second is Penance. The third is the Communion of the Body and the Blood of Christ. The fourth is Matrimony ordered by God. The fifth is Holy Oil (Extreme Unction). The sixth is the Imposition of Hands (Confirmation). The seventh is the Ordination of Priests and Deacons."

In the "Rerum Bohemicarum Antiqui Scriptores ex Bibliotheca Freheri," &c. (Hanoviæ, 1602), at p. 238, et seq. there is printed that Waldensian Confession of Faith which was sent to Uladislaus, king of Hungary, in the year 1508. We find there the following words: "We equally admit that the Sacraments, which are seven in number, are useful to the Church of Christ: Similiter, Sacramenta, Septenario numero inclusa, Ecclesias Christi utilia esse pandimus." And in the next pages, namely, from 241 to 252 (which are evidently cut out in the copy existing in the library of the British Museum, but are to be seen in the copy of the Cambridge library), there is an enumeration and explanation of each sacrament. About Baptism, after saving, that "All grown persons are obliged to be baptized in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost," they profess besides, that also infants must be baptized, according to a decree of the Apostles, as Dionysius writes: "Professio nostra etiam in pueros extenditur, qui decreto Apostolorum, ut Dionysius scribit, baptizari debent." About the Sacrament of Orders they mention the Major and the Minor Orders: " De Sacerdotali Ordine . . . Majores et Minores Ordines." Express mention is made besides of Extreme Unction of the Sick-" Unctio Extrema Infirmorum." and of the other Sacraments of "Confirmation, of * Gept son is excument be in sancta gierein. Le prumier es la herisme, is qual es dons a nos en ternesion de petcs. Lo 2 es la penitercia. Es 3 es la commism del core e del sanc de  $X_n^{(2)}$ . Es 4 es la matrianoli ordena de Dis. Lo 3 es lafí sant. Lo 6 es fempusament de fas mans. Lo 7 es ordenament de preyer e de haques.

Matrimony, of Penance in the Remission of Sina, and of The Eucharist: —De Conformation, De Matrimonio, De Paulienia lapsorum in Remissionem Peccatorum, De Eucharistin." In explaining the last mentioned Sacrament there are the following striking expressions: "Wheresoever a worthy Priest, with faithful people, according to his intention and that of Christ, and according to the ordination of the Church, will in his prayers testify with such words, namely: 'This is my body,'This is my body,' This is my body,' This is my body,' This is my body,' This is my body, This is the present bread is the body of Christ, which was offered to death for us; and in like manner the present where is His blody, shed for the remission of sins. This profession of our faith is founded on the words of Christ, related by the Evangelists and by Saint Paul. . . This body and blood of Christ, under the socies of bread and wine. outht to be received."

It will not be altogether out of place to note here with Dr. Todd (L. c. p. 216), that in the Dublin Waldensian manuscripts there is an instruction to the clergy, headed thus: "Sequint De Impactione Ponientair," which imposition of Penance, according to the Catholic doctrine, is an integral part of the Searment of like name; and that some of the passages published by Perrin, Morland, and Leger from the Waldensian manuscripts, rare not translated faithfully by them. To say nothing about Leger, Perrin, in his book of the Vaudois, has published the Commandments not in accordance with the manuscripts from which he states he copied them; and has divided into two the first, and out of the two last Commandments has made one. And, as Dr. Todd says (L. c. p. 116), we are not to consider Perrin's history of the Yaudois the offspring of a single and solitary posterer

• Ubecausque disputa Sacerdos com fido pepulo, juetra mant al Christi intentiones Caclairague criticationes, cardinami forcina, hajumondi crieta, inditalect i Hoo est corpus meum, Ilie est sanguia mena, testificatus fuerit; confenim present est corpus Certifica in sortem prodes olderatus resum similiter present est sanguia (au figura in prodessor resultantemen. Her field sostem profusios certificatus des algunda production resultantemen. Her field sostem profusios certification est des algunda de la confesio de la compacta del la compacta de la compacta del la compacta de la compacta del la compacta del

of Dauphiny, but as the work of the Freuch Protestant Church; and a very curious work too; as it was examined a great many times in many protestant provinces and in Geneve, during the space of more than ten years before it was published in 1619. About Morland we may say that he, besides publishing his history, in accordance with the false views and suggestions of Leger, against his own first conviction (see his letter in our Part II. Sect. v.), and besides omitting the publication of passages contained in the manuscripts; which would have been more than sufficient to cast light on the true epoch of the Waldensian sect and doctrines; has taken the liberty of altering a passage, in which the manuscript, commenting upon a text of St. Augustin, says: " Vain fear is it to fear losing the company of father and mother, and not to fear the loss of the company of God and of the Virgin Mary-La compagnia be Dio e de la Clergena 99aría," Now Morland (p. 129) translated it thus: " And not to fear losing the blessed presence of God the Father, and of Jesus Christ." (Todd, L. C. p. 99.)

I may be allowed to observe here that the old Waldenses, though they denied the intercession of Saints and of the Virgin Mary (as we shall see afterwards), yet they admitted that honour and praise is due to them. Hear them in the above quoted confession of faith (* Rerum Bohcmienr. Fre-heri," p. 254, 255);** 'God is to be praised in his Saints, as David said, 'Praise the Lord in his Saints,' and we are doing so, and praise God in this Virgin, and in the other Saints. Because God in his goodness gave to them like grace and like benefits, and through them to us. And not only we praise God in this Blessed Virgin, but besides we confess her blessed and holy; and we love and imitate her confess her blessed and holy; and we love and imitate her as we can. . . . No woman is as holy as this Yirgin is. None indeed is full of grasee, except her; none should be called blessed amongst all generations, except her alone. Nor is it true that we despise as profane the holy days of the commemoration of the glorious Virgin Mary; on the contrary we respect them, and sing many eanticles concerning her to the honour of God."

• In Smetis Dous landari dobet, nicut dirit David—Landats Dominum in Sanetis ejus—Et. nos hoc ogimus quod is hoc Virgine et aliu Sanetis Domi laudamus, qui tolem gratima et talia honfeia ez mu bouinte ei adeilt et nobis per ipsot. Et nechem in hoc benedicis Virgine Doum landamus, sed et eun ongleuwe benedichen et betouts, et diiginum et orgainum per passe notre . . . . Nulla ex-

It is therefore beyond doubt that, before the time of tuther and Calvin, the Waldenses admitted all the books of the Bible and all the Seven Saeraments as the Catholic Church did and does now, and that they did not deny the Real Presence of our Lord after the consecration of the brend and wine, and paid honour to the Yirgin and to the Saints: and besides (see Dr. Todd, L. c. p. 19), from the doubts proposed in Germany by Morel and Masson, it seems clear that they approved of Religious Celibacy, Auricular Confession, Yows of Poverty, &c.

I conclude this article, relating the doctrines of the old Waldism as distinguished from Calvinism, by quoting three passages of "La Nobla Leyçon," bearing on the subject.

In the first passage, the Waldensian writer praises the sincere Confession of sins, and the works of Penance, fasting, alms-giving, fervent praying, as means to obtain salvation:

"To make our Confession sincerely without any defect: And to do penance during the present life;

To fast, to give alms, and to pray with forvent heart; Indeed, through these things the soul finds salvation."

In the second, he commends the Evangelical Counsel to * Furament se confessat senza alcun mantament, E qu'il farzan penitentia en la bita present, Defunar, fas almonas et aurar au cer bufbent, Car per a quiretas cooss trabs farma golomente, keep Virginity; and Mary and Joseph are quoted as an example of this;

"The Old Law cursed the womb which remained barren, But the New Law counselleth to keep Virginity.

Our Lady was pure and Joseph also," • 43

In the third passage is boldly proclaimed that a lawfully contracted marriage is indissoluble under the Gospel.

"The Old Law gave power to dissolve Marriage,
And the bill of repndiation was then to be given:
But the New Law says: Do not marry one that is put away;
And what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder."

La ley bellia maubi le ventre qui feue non a porra, gita la nobella concllia gardar bergenera. Pura era nootra bona e Jooeph aterai.

† La ley antenia di partir lo matrimoni : E carta de refu se dequesan donar : La la nobella di non penge la faysa : E neaguen non departa co que Die du nissea.

4 The Waldenses held sise here the old Catholic deetrine, not only about the virginity of Mary, but also about the chastity of St. Joseph. The opinion of the reen-dians, who professed that Mary, after Jesus Christ, had other some by St. Joseph, was St. Aug de Herresib, cap. 84; see also Jerome contra Helvidium.) But, as in the Gospels are mentioned the brothers of Jesus Christ called sons of Mary; many old writers were misled into erroneously asserting that the so-called brothers of our Lord, if not children of the Virgin Mary, at least were children of Joseph, born to him previously by another wife. I have said errencessly, because, besides the known custom of the Jews, often mentioned in the Bible, to call their cousins or other near relations by the name of brethren; that assertion is evidently shown to be false by reading the different Evangelists, Read, first, St. Matthew (c, xiv, v. 55); " Is not this the corpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary, and his brethren James and Joseph, and Simon and Jude 1" Read now Matthew (c. xxvii. v. 56); " Was Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Joreph." And see Mark (c. xv. v. 40): "Amonyet whom was Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James the less and of Joseph," Let tes turn now to St. John (c. xix, v. 25): "Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister Mary the wife of Cleophus, and Mary Magdalone." Now, if the differ-ent passages are considered together, it will appear by the best cridence that Mary, sixter of the Mother of Jenus, wife of Cleonhas is the mother of James (the less) and of Joseph, who, with Simon and Jude, are called brethren of our Lord; but, being the soms of the sister of his mother and of Cleophus (not of St. Joseph), they were not his brethren in fact; they were his cousins only In support of the present point I will add the authority of St. Jerome (Comm. in e. xii, St. Matthew); " As is contained" (be says) in the book which we have written against Helvidius, we understand that the expression brethren of our Lord, means not the sons of Joseph, but the cousins of our Saviour, son of Mary, nunt of our Lord, who is styled the mother of James and Joseph and Jude," Nos. sicut in libro, ovem cantra Helvidium scripsimus, continetur, fratres Domini, non filico Joseph sed consobrinos Sulvatorio, Maria liberos intelligious matertera Domini; qua esse dicitur mater Jacobi et Joseph et Juda.

SECTION III.

THE RELIGIOUS TENETS OF THE OLD WALDENSES AGREEING WITH THOSE OF THE NEW REFORMERS, AND AT VARIANCE WITH THE CATHOLIC DOCTRINES.

O one will, I think, expect that I should treat here of those religious opinions of the Waldenses which they adopted after they became Calvinists. It would take me out of my subject, and oblige me to enter into too wide a field. Nevertheless, in fulfilment of the task I have undertaken, it is requisite that I should speak here of those tenets which the Waldenses held as a particular body of scetarians, before they united and made a common profession with the new reformers. It will appear from the following particulars, that the new reformers had a good reason to regard the old Waldenses as their ancestors, because nearly all the points, in which the Waldenses during three centuries disagreed from the Roman Church, were likewise assumed and kept by the new reformers, although with a good many additions of their own.

To proceed on safe ground in this rather perplexing investigation, I will take for my guide the Waldensian manuscripts, and those old authors who wrote on this subject, from the end of the twelfth to the beginning of the sixteenth century, that is to say, from the first spreading of the Waldensian sect to nearly the time in which they united with Calvin. These authors, in order of time, are Bernard, Abbot of Chaude Fontaine, the Venerable F. Moneta, Reinerius Sacco, Peter Plijchdorff, Eneas Sylvius, afterwards Pius II., Seyssell, Archishop of Turin, and Rerum Bohemicarum Scriptores. In the first part of this book they have been quoted, with the dates and places in which they were published, or where those in MS. are preserved. Thus, without any interruption, I shall be able to recapitulate here the principal Waldensian tenets as they are expressed by the Waldenses themselves, or by the abovenamed authors; and I will subjoin immediately in a few words, the Catholic doctrine on the same point, in order to show that the Waldensian tenets are contrary to the Catholic doctrine, as well as consonant to that of the new reformers.

§ 1.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Church of God has failed.

"The Waldenses say that the Church of God failed at the time of Pope Silvester, and that it was restored in their time, and that the first restorer was Waldesius." (Moneta, lib. v. ch. iii.)*

"You quote the words of our Lord (Matth. xx. 16),
'Many are called but few are chosen,' where you say that the many called express the Catholics, and the few chosen express your associates." (Pilichdorff, chap. xiv.)†

2 "That part of the Church, which remained faithful" (at the time of Constantine), "persevered for a long time in the received truth. Thus little by little, the holiness of the Church failed . . . . And thus we believe, that from the time at which the Church was founded, to the end of the world.

 <sup>1</sup>sti harretici dicunt Ecclesiam Dei tempore Beuti Silvestri defeciase: in temporibus autem istis restitutam eam asserunt per ipsos, quorum primus fuit Valdeius. (Moneta.)

† Sed objicis verbum Domini (Matth. xx. 16): Multi sunt vocati, pauci vero electi; ubi per econtos et multos intelligis Catholicos, et per penucos electos intelligis completes tuos. (Pilichdorff.)

she shall not so fail that some holy man be not left on earth, or in some country of the earth. . . . O beloved, consider that the Moon, though nearly losing her fulness, yet she always is substantially the same Moon. And if she is obscured through some darkness, and does not appear to the eyes of men, yet she continues to be the Moon in her substance, as we believe; otherwise God every month should create a Moon. And the Moon often is a figure of the Church." (The Waldensian MSS. of Cambridge, vol. A, fol. 237, 239, 240.

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE ON THIS POINT.

The Church of the New Testament cannot fail, either by disappearing, or by remaining concealed with a few followers, or by teaching errors against the revealed doctrine in relation to faith and morals."

hell stall not prevail regime it;" and Itis saying to the Apostice (to Axviii, 20); "I am with you always, even to the end of two world," and the authority of St. Paul (to Itinathy III, 10); "I have of Gad, to Itinathy III, 10 and The House of Gad, to Itinathy III, 10 and the strength of these and other authorities, conclude that the Church (I do on the tennet flat either by disappearing and evanishing conceiled with a few or more in the contract of the cont

&lt;sup>44</sup> The Catables support this destrine by that agring in Jaic (ch ix. v. 22, 33); <sup>44</sup> The Lord God shall give to him (to our lademer) the throne of David his father, and be shall vign in the house of Jacob for ever, and of his highest here shall be no end.<sup>4</sup> And by that revelation mode to David at set up a Singdom that all never be shall are up a Singdom that has ever be shall be finded by the shall be shall be shall be shall be for the shall be shall be shall be shall be shall be for the shall be shall be shall be shall be shall be for the shall be shall be shall be shall be shall be shall be full badd my Catreb, and the gates of

§ 2.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

No other prayer is to be said except the Lord's Prayer, &c.

"The Waldenses say, that no other prayer is to be said except the 'Our Father,' and that all other prayers, which are said or read in the Mass, are not of Divine institution, but of men, the words of Consecration and the 'Our Father' alone excepted." (Pilichdorff, ch. xxxx).

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

If the Waldenses mean to say that we are not allowed to utter any other prayer in supplicating God, except the identical prayer of the "Our Father" and the words of the Consecration at the Mass, they are mistaken."

Dicunt Valdenses nihil aliud orundum esse quam Pater Noster; et quod omnia alia que dicuntur et legantur in Mison non sint Institutionis Divine sed humanz, solis verbis Consecrationis et Pater Noster exceptis, (Flichofurff.).

&lt;sup>6</sup> The Cathedre admit that the words of concernation and the Lord's Prayer are undeabledly of Drines institution, yet they maintain that thence it does not follow that all other prayers are of so use; and say that there are many other prayers besides to be very much respected and used, principally those contained in the Liturgies and Rituals of the Church, part of which are transmitted.

to us from the very time of the Apostles, or their first Disciples: as is the case with the three famous Liturgies called of St. Peter or Mina Romans, of St. Mark or Alexandrins, and of St. James the cousin of our Lord, called of Jerusalem: which last Liturgy is quoted (Catech. of Mystagogy) by St. Cyril of Jerusalem: who Bourished the year 350.

§ 3.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Holy Scriptures alone are sufficient to guide men to Salvation.

"We shall first briefly say that the Law of the true God is by itself sufficient for the salvation of all the human generation, and it is a Law of perfect liberty, which it is not right to add any thing to, or to take away any thing from, and that there is not any kind of good which is not sufficiently comprised in the same His Law." (Waldensian MSS. Cambridge, vol. D. Prol. of Chn. Doct.)*

The Waldenses despise all those approved practices of the Church, which they do not see written in the Gospel. Omnes consuctudines Ecclesiae approbatas, quas in Evangelio non legunt, contemnunt. (Reinerius Sacco).

the commandment of God for the sake of year traditions;" and (Colost, ii. 8): "Beware, test any man cheat you by philosophy and rain deceit, according to the tradition of men."

Donns punnierement nas hiere brement cans la lag bet brige Dis reper bour 30 li pret se date a soulièren te se dat be real a generacian bumman, et as plus bres relux enumas e plus ingéres a complir, et se fre perfects liberts, a le qual non besonn ségaren in merma sécure cas, e non se sécure cose bet ên la qual non sás sufficientment entiuse en segurifs mesegum sea try. (Waldonsion MSS.)

&quot; The Waldensee, as well as the old Maximin and the Pelagines, grounded this tenet on the following passages (Dect. ir. 2): "Yes shall not add to the word that I speak to you, neither shall you take away from it;" (Matth, zv. 6): "And you have made roid

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE ON THIS SUBJECT.

Besides the Holy Scriptures, the Traditions of the Church are to be admitted, without which both the existence and the meaning of the Holy Scriptures would be uncertain, and many things necessary to salvation would be defective."

could not be certain that the Holy Scriptures contain the unshallerated Word of God, nor of their real meaning, neither of the articles of the Creed, and of many dogman and practices of our Christian belief, which are either explained or deflaced aimly through Tradition.

In relation to the passages quoted above (note 45), the Catholies observe that the first passage has relation simply to the legal and ecromosals observances of the Jews: that the second tells against the decertiful traditions of the elders opposed to the law of God; and that the third candemas the assertions of the Gentiles in opposition to the Christian religiou.

&lt;sup>6</sup> The Cataloine quote the authority of SE Peul, commanding (2 Thom, it. 14) to keep the Traditions received either by wend SE Peul, which was been been about the comtained of the Traditions received either by wend or hard the Tradition which yes have learned, attached by word or by our Pipitide. And with SE Bood (4 on Bourshah et hyer 200), was half and presched in the Carrels are derived partly from the eviters. Bective and purily from the Apostelleud Tradition are partly from the Apostelleud Tradition are partly from the Apostelleud Tradition are the same claim on our pions respect. Year trappes cannot not pionat respect. Year trappes cannot not pionat respect, and the contribution of the Carrel, we would be the pionate of the Carrel, we would be the contribution of the Carrel, we

8.4

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Blessings and Consecrations practised in the Church do not confer any particular sanctity upon the things or persons blessed or consecrated.

"The Waldenses equally condemn the consecration of the vessents of the Priests, of water, salt, ashes, candles, palms, food; and also the consecration of Bishops, Priests, churches, altars, cemetories, baptismal water, unctions with chrism and oil, &c.; saying that the objects thus consecrated do not receive any particular sancitiy from those words, though the words by themselves are holy and good." (Pilichdorff, ch. XXX.)" ale Reprodunt Vuldense heretici consecrationes ventium Succredutium, aque, assertante consideram, pointeram, colorum et etiam consecrationes Episoporum, Succredium, Ecclesterma, distrum, Consecration, aque Engistennis, Christopher, Michael Editor consecratis talle consistentia uncidatia se illa cerbis percipiere, ficie verba in a marcia saia et hous. (Pilitadostri).

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE

To say that the blessings and consecrations used in the Church do not confer any particular sanctity, is to deny the most clear authority both of Scripture and of Tradition."

"The Caboline mediem sheric descripwish the authority," Let of Ecolon (Laxia, 21); "And when then (Univer) last of the caboline," and when the (Univer) last of the University, the same and their manners of the University, the same and their manners are consecuted." And (same, it, it, or any), "Those shall take the old of section that they may be smoothing." It is also that they may be smoothing. ... Thus which the concentrate all with the old of section, that with the party bearing in the Age of the Age of the University of the University of the Age of the University of the University of the Age of the University of the University Age of the University Age of the University of the University Age of the University Age of the Otto Canada age of the University of the University Age of the Otto Canada age of the University Age of the University Age of the Otto Canada age of the University of the University Age of approxima of St. Paul (2 Timuthy i, 6); "1 adminish flees that thus oft up the price may be a second of the second of the second proposed of the second of the second of the Eucli (1 Timuthy is 4, 6); "Bong centers at the second of the Fester of the Chards, and let then pray of the Lord, and the prayer of fish has been prayed of the Lord, and the prayer of the second second of the Lord, and the lateray Partlers of the fort control of Lordshott, St. Cyclin, Catech, in; 50, Cyprins, Sp. si, St. Cyclin, Catech, in; 50, Cyprins, Sp. si, St. Bull do Sp. Sp. cyrits, Jan. 19

§ 5.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Catholic Priests, being all bad, have no authority; and the Pope of Rome is the chief of all heresiarchs.

"The Waldenses are against the Church of Rome and the Sovereign Pontiff, and against all Prelates. (Reinerius Sacco).*

"They say that the Pope is the chief of the heresiarchs."
(Pilichdorff, ch. xvi).†

"They state openly that no subjection is due to Priests, nor to the same Sovereign Pontiff, because, being wicked and not imitating the life of the Apostles, they do not possess any Divine authority, and that in consequence they have no power to absolve from sins." (Arch. Seyssell, sheet vii.)?

Valdenses eint contra Ecclesiam Romanam et Summum Pontificem et omnes Prælates. (Sacco.)

† Dicunt Papam esse caput horresiarcharum. (Pilieh.)

<sup>1</sup> Saccrediothus minime parendum esse predionat, ne Summo Pontifici quidem 5 quippe qui, eo quod mali suat nec Apostolorum vitam imitantur, nullam habent a Des auctoritatem. Dimittendorum peccutorum nullam Sacerdotes nostros potestatem habere. (Seyuell.)

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

The authority of the consecrated Ministers of religion depends upon their ordination and the institution of our Lord, and not upon their behaviour as men: and the Pope of Rome is the successor of St. Peter, and the visible chief and ruler of the Universal Church.<sup>9</sup> were large, the iii mg. 1 at 3); the Collading series the energy and accordance with the General Consol of Phreners, both of the the convenience of the Baster of the Collection of the Collection of the Collection of Parties of the Collection of Parties of the Collection of Parties of the Collection of Collection of Collection of Parties of the Collection of Collection of Parties of the Collection of Collection of Parties of the Collection of Coll

§ 6.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Everybody has the right to preach publicly the word of God.

"The Waldenses say that the preaching of the Word of God is freely allowed to everybody." (Eneas Sylvius.)*

"They all preach indiscriminately, and without any distinction of condition, age or sex." (Bernard Abbot Fontis Calidi.)†

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

The public preaching of the Word of God is not allowed to persons not duly authorized by the Church; and it is forbidden to women by St. Paul.10 to The Catholics, with Bernard, Abbot of your Prelates and be subject to them, And the same Apostle speaks of the women thus (1 Cor. xiv.): "Let women keep silence in the Churches . . . for it is a shame for a woman to speak in the Church." They ob-serve besides with St. Peter (Eph. ch. i.), that "No prophecy of Scripture is made by private interpretation, for the holy men of God spoke inspired by the Holy Ghost."

Dicunt Valdenses liberam cuiose pradicationem verbi Dei patere. (Æneas Sylvius.)

† Pradicant omnes passim et sine delectu conditionis, atatis et sexus. (Abbas Fontis Calidi.)

Chaude Fountain, a contemporary of Peter Waldensis, observe, that the Apostles did waidensis, observe, that the aposities did not preach of their own authority, but they were sent by our Lord; and that St. Paul (Rom. x.) clearly said, that as body is allowed to preach unless he be sent by the legitimate Prelates of the Church; respecting whom he mys (ad Hebr. xiii.), "Obey

§ 7.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Every person living, according to the precepts of the Apostles, has authority to hear Confessions.

"The Waldenses say that all Christians, without any distinction, have authority to hear Confessions, provided that they live in accordance with the precepts of the Apostles." (Arch. Seyssell.)•"

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

Nobody has authority to hear Sacramental Confessions or give Absolution of Sins, except Priests who possess lawful jurisdiction.<sup>53</sup>

Dicunt Valdenses, Confessionum audiendarum auctoritatem Christianis passim omibus, qui secundum Apostolorum pracepta ambulant, esse concessam, (Serssell.)

&lt;sup>35</sup> This Waldensian trent was probably founded on that passage of St. James (v. 14, 15): "Confess therefore your sins one to another, and pray for one another," all the Anotheries and the Anotheries and The Catholics say, that if the abovementioned passage of St. James applies to the Sacramental Confession, it is to be understood.

stood as relating only to the Priests of the Church mentioned a little before by the same Apostle; and they add, that the power of forgiring size was given by our Lord, not to all his disciples, but to the Apostles, and in their persons to their legitimate successors

§ 8.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Every Oath is a mortal sin.

"The Waldenses also say that every oath, although taken in a court of justice and with truth, is a sin, and to be condemned." (Pilichdorff.)*

"It is another error that they say that every oath is a mortal sin." (Seyssell.)†**

Catholic Doctrine.

Oaths taken with due deliberation and in the interest of truth and justice, are praiseworthy, in accordance with Jeremiah (ch. iv.): "Thou shalt swear, as the Lord liveth, in truth and in judgment and in justice."

Item dicunt Valdenses quod omne juramentum, quantumcumque judicialiter et veridice factum, sit peccatum et reprobatum. (Pilichdorff.)

† Alius error quo dicunt omne juramentum esse peccatum mortale. (Arch. Seymell.)

&lt;sup>33</sup> This opinion of the Waldenses is founded on that saying of our Lord (Matth, v<sub>1</sub>): "But I say to you, Swear met at all let your speech be yea, yea, nay, nay, and whatsover is more than this, conseth of crit."

With The Catholics understand this expression of our Lord in this seems only, bat we are not allowed to swear ready and impredently; and that our taking outles by the mame of Ued is also blameable, when it is to a fisheshood, or without due consideration, or for nu might cause. But at the same time, the Catholics maintain that it is e mistake to any that every oath in absolutely and accessificated profession. Because $1.7 text (Hoh. vi.), that "An oath for confirmation is the cod of all, construerer," And the same Apostle severe uning (al Ren. ). And not only the same (in the Aposslypue (in Cod.), "Severe ly lim took truth for every and the same apostle severe uning the same (in the Aposslypue (in Cod.), "Severe ly lim took truth for every and the same apostle in the Aposslypue (in the A ### § 9.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Every lie is a mortal sin.

"Another error of the Waldenses is their saying that every lie is a mortal sin." (Arch. Seyssell).***

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

Though every lie is a fault, yet there are lies which do not make men guilty of a mortal sin.<sup>36</sup>

it would follow that every man is an enemy of God, deserving everluting perdition; as of God, deserving everluting perdition; as predition all those who speak lies. And they quote untrue assertions made by Joseph the Patriach, by the Josein funderiers, by Jodith, Sec. Sec. And on the consideration that these presents are set consideration that these presents are set condensed by which the second of the contract of the wave of the contract of the contract of the wave contracts of the contract of the contract of the Waldersian opinion is ustensible.

Alius error quo Valdenses asserunt, owne mendacism esse peccatum mortale. (Arch. Seyssell.)

&lt;sup>34</sup> The source of this opinion may be traced to the following passages understood by them in an absolute some: "The mouth that lieth killeth the seel" (Wisdom i, 11); and, "Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord" (Fror. xii. 22).

&quot;In Catholics understand the Scriptural passages above quoted with some limitation, out to follow into an absurdity if they be taken enconditionally. For instance, it being written: "Every man is linar," on the appointion that every lin is a mertal sie,

§ 10.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Purgatory is a dream, an invention of the sixth century.

"Therefore the Scripture says, and we must believe it,

That all the men of the world will go through two reads:

The good will go into glory, the wicked to torments."

(La Nobla Leven.)*

"As there is not any express mention of such place as Purgatory in any passage of the Law, nor have the Apostles left to us any express instruction about it, nor has the primitive Church, acting in accordance with the Gospel, left to us any order or command about the same; and only after the year of our Lord five hundred and fifty-eight Pope Pelagins gave an order that a commemoration for the dead should be made in the Mass; it remains that there is not any obligation to believe as a article of faith that after this life there is such a place as Purgatory." (Es Purgator soima. The dream of the Purgatory. Waldensian Trastise).†

"In this article of Purgatory the Barbas of the Waldenses go astray very much, because they say that the departed souls are immediately either brought to eternal joy or

(La Nobla Leyçon.)

of Com en atom tour en la tre non fine atoms appress occument which fine; be Bengarten, it if logorand melians a non action sperie consequence, it is gland primitive contreases accome it Ghangeli . . . non mel in ou (reliberty) a non altuma, consequence and pre-transmissioners in me Delaig bigger en aprecia line of Georgea cling cross or incompanie bails, or logis for price others, our en in means or agreements and incompanies of the contraction of the contraction of the first contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the tree for contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the first contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the first contraction of first contraction of the first contraction of first contraction of the first contraction of first contraction of plunged into everlasting torments; and stata Purgatory is a fiction invented by the avarice of the Clergy." (Arch. Seyssell).

. Min l'excriptura bi e nos eceper la beben Que tuit il bome bel mont per bui chamin tenera, Li bon pren en gloria, li fellon in comeng.

CATROLIC DOCTRINE.

The existence of Purgatory has been always believed in the Church of God, and it is an article of Christian faith.<sup>66</sup>

<sup>30</sup> While beligning with the Church that there are only two eternal places, the one prepared for the friends, the other for the centuries of God, heaven and hell; the Catholica hold with the same Church that there is a third place in the next world, called Pargatary, where all persons, who dis in the grave of God, but not having yet made sufficient penance for their paids, are sent to be in relation to their guild, are sent to be punished, till they, having perfectly satisfied the justice of God, are admitted to heaven.

Me As to the assertions, that "No such place as Porgatory has been known in the primitive Church," the Catholica, besides mentioning some passages of St. Matth. (chap. xii.), and of St. Paul (1 Cor. chap. iii. &c.), quote the twelith chapter of the second book of the Maccabeen. The first and the second book of this name are acknowledged as Canonical by the Catholic Church, though they are not in the Canon of the Jows, as it was written under Esdras, namely, long before the existence of the Maccabees, Now wo read there that "Judas making a gathering, scottwelva. thousand drachmon of silver to Jorusalem for sacrifices to be offered for the sins of the dead." And that, "It is therefore a boly and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from sine." Upon which passage St. Augustin thus remarks ("De cura pro Mortuis," cap. i.): "We read in the books of the Maccabees, that a sacri-fice was offered for the dead. Yet though eothing of the kind could be read in the old Scriptures, not light is the authority of the Universal Church, which is openly famous for this practice; where the commemoration for the dead has its place amongst the prayers of the Pricets, which are offered to our Lord at his altar," In Maccabaseum libris legimus oblatum pro mortnia sucrificium. Sed, etm numquan in Scripturia reteribus omnine legeretur, non panca est Universa Ecclesia, ower in hoe consusteding claret ouetoritas; uhi in precibus Sacredotis, que Domino Den ad eine alture fundantur, locum habet etiam commendatia mortnorum. The Catholies quote besides the old Liturgies and a great number of Pathers of the Church, some of whom flourished in the very first centuries of Christianity, and all previous to the time of the Popes Pelagius and Gregory the Great, They are all speaking of the suffrages for the souls of the dead, they mention the purging fire, and some of tham expressly say that this belief has been taught by the Apostles (see Tertull, "De corona Militis," esp. iii.; Origen, "Hom. 12 in Hierem; St. Cyrill of Jerus". "Catech. 8 Mystag, auto mediom;" St. Cyprian, Ep. lavi., and very often St. Augustin. I will only quote St. Chryscetom (Hom. ii. in Epm. ad Philip.). "It is not without reason, that by the Apostles it has been prescribed that, during the celehration of the venerable mysteries, a commemoration be made of those who departed from us. The Apostles knew that thence they should obtain a great emolument, a great advantage . . . How should we not appeare God by praying for them." frustra ab Apastolis sancitum, ut in celebratione renerandorum Mysteriorum memoria fiat corum qui hinc dormierunt. Novernat, sllis multum kinc emolumentum fieri, multum utilitatie . . . . Quemudo Deum non placaresons pro istis orantes?

§ 11.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Indulgences of the Church are an invention of covetous Priests.

"The Waldenses equally condemn the Indulgences of the Prelates of the Church." (Pilichdorff).

"They affirm that Indulgences are an invention of bad Priests, in order to extort money from the ignorant." (Arch. Scyssell).†*

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

The power of granting Indulgences is not derived from any invention of man, but from the authority given by our Lord to the Church.**

" The Waldenses enjoy the reputation of having medo the first ettack upon Indul-gences. Wickliff, Huss, Luther, Mclanethon, and principally Calvin, distinguished them-selves by dwelling on the same doctrine; but we do not know of any body of reformers who had taken their stand sgainst Indulgences before the Waldenses. Pilichdorff (cb. xxx.) admits that the Waldenses and many Cathelies of his time doubted about the value of Indulgences by reason of the indiscreet premises of the collectors of alms: Hoe facit indiscreta pronunciatio quastwosorum Sacerdotum, qui indefferenter caunibus hominibus hoc et illud facientibus Indulgentiar promittent. However, the same author adds that those assertions and proprises were made against the intention of the Pope and of the Prelates of the Church. who do not grant Indulgences to every body, but only to those who are truly penitent, who confess and are contrite: Et hoc son est in mente Domini Papa et aliarum Pralatorum, qui non dant ene nin vere panitenreflect or complexite or controlle.

"The Cachadre devices about Indelegeous." The Cachadre devices about Indelegeous." The Cachadre devices about Indelegeous. Apostole (Matth., 2016.). "Whatenever you shall ... however you have been controlled to the presistent man, washer even conditions, the presistent man, washer even conditions, but he presistent man, washer even conditions, but he presistent man, washer even conditions, but he presistent and the presistent man, washer and the presistent man, washer and the presistent man, and the presistent man, and the report and through the interestions of these who had affected the manner of the took the who had affected the interestions of these who had affected the manner of the took who had affected to the controlled the presistant manner and the took who had affected to the controlled the presistant manner of the took who had affect to the who had affect to the section of the presistant manner of the took who had affect to the section of the presistant manner of the took who had affect to the section of the presistant manner of the took who had affect to the section of the presistant man affect the section of the controlled the presistant manner of the presistant man affect the section of the presistant manner.

Item reprobant Valdenses Indulgentias Pratatorum Ecclesia. (Pilichdorff.)

† Ipsi affirmant . . . Indulgentias esse inventas a pseudoracerdotibus ad extorquendas ab imperitis pecunias. (Arch. Seyssell.)

§ 12.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

There is no obligation to fast, nor to keep holy any day, Sunday excepted.

"Another error of the Waldenses is to reprove religious abstinence." (Arch. Seyssell, sheet LXXIII.).*

"No day is to be kept holy, except Sunday." (Eneas Sylvius, "Hist. Bohcm.")†

Remarks: To fast and to keep hely some particular days in the week are laws of the Church. Therefore the united assertions of the Waldenses may be considered as corollaries to that tenet, in which they maintained that the Prelates of the Church, being all wicked, have no authority, and that in consequence their precepts are not binding. Yet the Waldenses did not condemn voluntary mortifications, &c. as we have seen before.

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

All Christians are obliged to keep holy, not only the Sundays, but also all other particular days appointed by the authority of the Church; and to fast and abstain on some other days, according to the ordinances of the same Church, if there is no good reason to be exempted. There may be quoted here St. Augustin, ("Ad Jamarium," Epis 18. 2), saying, that St. Ambrose told him thus: "When I go to Rome I fast on the Sabbath day, when I am here (in Milan) I do not fast. You do the same. Keep the custom of the Church of that place which you will be compared to the Church of that place." Cum Brama veroi joyino Subbato, quam his sum non jojuno. Sie cliam tu, ad quana forte Ecclesiam vereris, qiu morne serva.

* Alius error Valdeusium quo improbant jejunia. (Arch. Seyssell.)

† Nulla die ab opere cessandum, niei Dominica. (Encas Sylvius).

§ 13.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

The Invocation of Saints cannot be admitted.

- "Now, it is to be said of the Invocation of Saints, which the Catholics) publish as it were an article of faith, saying that the Saints existing in heaven are to be prayed to by us who live. . . . And this does not appear worthy of belief." (Waldensian Treatise.)-8
- "They hold that the blessed Virgin Mary and the Saints of heaven are not to be invoked by us, because they cannot pray for us. . . . They do not say the 'Hail Mary.'" (Pilichdorff).†
- "They say that mortals are not in need of their intercession, Christ alone being more than sufficient to do everything for us all; and the Saints absorbed in the delights of their felicity do not know what is passing here below" (Arch. Seyssell).<sup>2</sup>

Bea es a bire de l'indocation de li canet, la quel publican coma per article de le bioent que il canet episetent en la partia celestial con d'escre prepa da noc bient... En sico non ne bior escre de ceterte. (Waldension Tecatice.)

† Tenet Reature Verjacus et Sunctos in patria una esse insocundos a nolis, qui nom pousant orare pro nobis ... Non dienst 'Are Muria,' (Pilichdorft.)

† Decut Sondorum ... sufrayio mortales usa indigere, Claristo amissima ad aussia admuste sufficients. .. El Sondos en que in soculo funt ignorare, tenta felicitatis illus momistote capit. (Arch, Sevasell.)

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

It is good and useful to have recourse to the intercession of Saints, and all persons who condemn this practice are out of the pale of the Church.<sup>41</sup>

<sup>48</sup> The Catholic tracking on the inversion of Saintia is not provisely that expressed by the quoted Waldennian tents. The definition of the Charden does not say that the Saintia fireaven are to be prayed to by us; as though any Christian, who does not pray through the Sainti, were a trougance against the precreption of the Charden. She only any that the inversion of Sainti is good any that the inversion of Sainti is good and the written declines of the Old and New Tastament. The condensation, therefore, of the Cathalic Charden is only against those the Cathalic Charden is only against these the Cathalic Charden is only against these who say that the Saints are not to be included; that they do not gray for us, that their inscention is no idolatey against the Ward of Gol, and against our only Nedistor Jeans Christ, &c. (see Council of Treat, sea. 52, Der. dr. inscendione, remeatisme, &c. Sancters.) The Catholice, while invoking the Angels and Saints, and Mary the mather af Christ, do not mean any thing clase than to have them as intercessors with our Lord, from whom alone every good gift and grace concess upon mer.

6 14.

WALDENSIAN TENET.

Every honour given in the Church to the holy images or paintings, and to the relics of Saints is to be abolished.

"The Antichrist makes the people idolaters: he deceitfully causes them to serve the idols of all the world under the name of Saints and of relics. . . . He causes the worship of Latria, due only to God, to be given to men, male and female Saints parted from this world, and to their images, noisome corpses, relics." (Waldensian Treatise on the Antichrist, ) * *2

"The Waldenses say that the Images and Pictures are to be abolished." (Reinerius Sacco.)†

"They say that Christians are idolaters by reason of Images and the Cross." (Pilichdorff.);

† Imagines et Picturas dicunt esse abolendas. (Reinerius Sacco.) 2 Dicunt Christianos esse idololatros propter Imagines et Signum Crucifizi. (Pilichdorff.)

above, or that are in the earth beneath, or that abide in the water under the earth, Thou shalt not adore them, and thou shalt the likeness of any things that are in heaven God, a jealous God."

&quot; Lo antichriet la ibolocer lo poble, serbir fraubolentement a los ibolos be tot to mond not li sant et a las reliquies. . . . Da fatria a li bome sante a sanctas trapassa d'aquest mond, as a las imagenas de for, galas, reliquias. (Waldensian Trentise " de Antichrist.")

<sup>41</sup> Some ground for this Waldensian tenet is to be found in Denteropomy (ch. v.), and in Exedus (ch. xx ), where it is said; " Thou

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

The religious honour given in the Church to holy images and paintings, and to the relics of Saints, is in accordance with the revelation of the Bible and ancient Tradition, and has nothing to do with idolatry.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>10</sup> The Catholius inderestand the quoted prosage eat as firsthilding us to make any figures or paintings, or giving may kied of producing the control of the control of

Forther, explaining the Greek work arranges are restricted to spream highest religious housear due to God alone, periosphally the offerings of merifices; and stating that the state of the ### § 15.

On two tenets relating to Lay Magistrates, and to the precept, Not to Kill.

Eneas Sylvius (L. c.) assures us that the Waldenses held, that "A lay magistrate, if wicked and guilty of a mortal sin, does not possess any authority, and that he then is not to be obeyed." S. And Archbishop Seyssell sates, that "They affirmed generally that to kill a man is a mortal sin." † Nevertheless, it does not seem that these two tenets can be put in the roll of their unchanged religious opinions. Because they at any rate retracted the former before the middle of the sixteenth ensurue, when they professed "To acknowledge the Princes of the earth." And in relation to the latter, the same Archbishop Seyssell remarks, that "The Waldenses of his time did not hold it unconditionally, but made some exception, for instance, when a man is executed in accordance with the laws of justice, for public vengeance."

Qui mortalis culpae reus sit, eum neque Sacculari neque Ecclesiastica dignita pollere, neque parendum ei. (Eneas Sylvium.)
 † Onne homicidium nortale peccutum esse allirmant. (Sevssell.)

CATHOLIC DOCTRING.

Every legitimate magistrate is to be obeyed as far as concerns his lawful authority, as St. Paul says (Rom. xiii. 2), that "He that resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God; and they that resist purchase to themselves damnation." And with St. Peter (1 Eph. ii.) they repeat: "Fear God. Honour the King. Servants be subject to your masters with all fear, not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward."

In relation to the precept, Not to kill, the Catholics, whilst maintaining that every wilful murder and suicide is a mortal sin; at the same time admit that there are instances in which the destruction of man's life is not to be accounted to be a sin: as when a criminal deserving eapltal punishment is condemned and put to death; when soldiers are fighting and killing in time of lawful war; and also when it happens that a man occasionally kills another in self-defence, or through some innocent mistake, &c. Therefore, if the Waldeness admitted alike exceptions, there could not have been any disagreement on this point between them and the Catholics.

SECTION IV.

RELIGIOUS TENETS ADOPTED AT A LATER PERIOD BY THE BOHEMIAN WALDENSES BEFORE THE TIME OF LUTHER AND CALVIN.

FTER having related the principal tentes of faith, which their Bohemian brethren sent to Vladishers, King of Hungary, in the year 1508 (* Pierum Bohem. Antiqui Scriptores,* by Freher. Hanovin, 1602). As I undertook to mention the religious doctrines held by the Waldenses before the time of Luther and Calvin, I feel myself obliged to asy something on the said confession of faith, on account of its having been written before the time of the said reformers.

In the fourteenth century John Wickliff rose in England, and in the following century John Huss in Bohemia. These two followed the Waldenses in nearly all their tenets enumerated in our last section, and on this ground Wickliff and Huss might be styled Waldensian disciples, though they added many more articles of their own, at variance with the universal Church. Thence it naturally happened that the Bohemian Waldenses, though in some way their masters, in other points followed the novelties of their disciples.

§ 1.

THE TENET OF THE BOHEMIAN WALDENSES ON AURICULAR CONFESSION.

"The Bohemian Waldenses held that Auricular Confession is useless, and that it is enough to confess our sins to God." (Eneas Sylvius, "Bohem. Hist." 2"

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

There is an obligation imposed by our Lord upon Christians to confess their grievous sins to the authorized priests.<sup>66</sup>

Auricularem Confessionem nogarem esse; sufficere sua quenque Deo confiteri peccata. (Eneas Sylvius, L. c.)

<sup>6</sup> The reason groundy alleged against Arrivalro Gradesium is chelly shich that God shore knows need's hearts, and litt alone a reason of the state of the state of the state of the state of the Gradesium knows that the discussion of the Gradesium contention is necession with the old Tradition of the Charte, half that Gradesium of the Gradesi dignat" ), St. Band (n. *Ber Bor. * 181). St. Auspein (Hom. & et al. & Blomat). St. Lee the Great (Fe. 91), at "Theol. St. Lee the Great (Fe. 91), at "Theol. Spin-"), & et al. and in relation to the Decree of the General Consol of Laterna, and the Consol of the Consol of Laterna, which is the Consol of the Consol of the Conloging every adult (Consol to medical his sint to the heridal Priest at 1 near size, a paryer the Carboline remark that it was not are the Consol of the Consol of the Consol of the Consol of the Conton of th

6 2.

DEFINITION OF THE CHURCH OF GOD GIVEN BY THE BOHEMIAN WALDENSES.

Another change in the Waldensian doctrine, and a very substantial one, is the definition of the Church. They say (L. C. p. 240), "That the holy Catholic Church, which they believe is the whole of the clect from the beginning of the world to its end." But that in relation to the ministries, "They believe that the holy Catholic Church is the congregation of all Ministers and people obeying the Divine will, and by obedience united under the same subjection from the beginning till the consummation of all times." Which is in substance the definition printed by Morland in the Catechism, in shape of dialogue, between the Barba and the Infant. "The Church of God" (it is said there) "compriscs in her substance the whole of the elect of God; but, in what relates to her ministry, the Church of God comprises the Ministers with the people subject to them, and participating in the same ministries through faith, hope, and charity."

CATHOLIC DEFINITION OF THE CHURCH OF GOD ON EARTH.

The Catholics, regarding the quoted definitions as confused as well as very gratuitous in what relates to the Church of God on this earth, which ought to be Visible, One, Holy, Catholic, or Universal and Apostolic; reject them, and thus define the Church of God on earth:

"The Church is the society of all those who profess the faith and the doctrine of Christ; which Church Christ, the Prince of Shepherds, confided to the Apostle Peter and his Successors to be ruled and governed."

should unite to the Charch of Rome for the sake of her powerful primacy, and for hor having kept the Tradition of the Apostles." Ad hone Ecclesion propter potentieren (aliki potieren) principalitaten necesse set ommen concenire Ecclesion, hee est, cos qui sunt malique fideles; in qua emerge adis qui sunt undique fideles; in qua emerge adis qui sunt undique fideles; in qua emerge adis qui sunt la proposition de la proposition de la proteiles Tradition.

Ecclesia est omnium Christi fidem atque doctrinam profitentium universitas, quam princeps postorum Christus tum Petro Apostolo tum hujus Successoribus pascendam tradidit atque gubernandam. (Peter Canisius, "Christian Doctrine," Colonius, 1577, p. 1311.

&quot;The writer of this definition of the Church illustrates and explains its last part with many authorities; and concludes with that well known passage of one of the oldest fathers of the Church, qooted and praised also by Tertullian, St. Irenerus ("Adversus Herres," lib. 11; cap. iii), who says that "It is necessary that all Churches, namely, all believers existing in every part of the world,

§ 3.

THE TENET OF THE BOHEMIAN WALDENSES ON THE HOLY COMMUNION.

"It is necessary to receive the Holy Eucharist under the two kinds of bread and wine." ("Rerum. Bohem. Script." L. c. p. 250)."

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE.

It is not commanded, nor necessary, that laymen should receive the Holy Communion under the two kinds of bread and wine.** finish and drighling the blood of the Lord, we shall not have life in set. the beginning with the shall not be relief in set.

With the admitting that with beginning the control of the shall not be the shall not be shall not be the shall not be shall not commonious mader the two kinds of bread and wine, when they assisted at the celebration claim of the Holy most relief with the shall not be shall not be our human nature, soul oud hody, in unity of His Divine Person, and as His bring body is endivided from His Divine blood; to receive the communion under our kind (my of <sup>47</sup> The Bohemian Waldenses supported their assertion by that passage of the Gospel in which it is said, that without eating the bready about in to receive at the same time like blood. Seed, That, in consequence, as III and the seed of the see

§ 4.

THE TENET OF THE BOHEMIAN WALDENSES ON TRANSUBSTANTIATION.

"The Bohemian Waldenses rejected admittance to the word 'Transubstantiation' in reference to the Mystery of Eucharisty." ("Rerum Bohem. Script." L. c. p. 264).®

CATHOLIC STATEMENT ON THE SAME.

The doctrine expressed by the word "Transubstantiation" is founded on the written and the traditional Word of God, and has been always believed in the Church.<sup>35</sup>

The word Transabstantiation, adopted by that General Council of Lateran, under condemned in 1215-was rejected by the Bohemian Waldensee, after having adopted with Wickliff the tenet that the substance of bread and wine remains in the Eucharist after the words of consecration, as the Lutherans also did afterwards. Yet the same Bohemian Waldenses, in this confession of faith still admit in some degree the real presence of the body of Christ in the Eucharist, as appears from the following words (L. C. pag. 261): " Dicinus autem et simpliciter confitemer quod nobis est unus Dens et unus Dominus Jesus Christus, et guod est in Sucramento cum suo naturali corpore talis sed per aliam existentiam quam in dextris Dei, et adhue dicimus quod est etiam cum carne spiritali.

<sup>39</sup> The dectrine of the Catholic Church expressed by the word Transubstantiation, as this, that when a duly consecrated Privation on the broad and wine, then, by the power of the Annighty, the substance of the bread and of the wine is changed into the bread and of the wine is changed into the bread and of the wine is changed into the bread and of the wine in changed. And that dortrine is derived both from the Ernagedites, and from the aprings in the aprile.

of St. Pasi (ad Cor. Ep. 1), and is ex-plained by the old Fathers of the Church. I will quote here, as an instance, the expressions of St. Cyrill of Jerusalem ("Cat. 4 Mystag."): "Whon Christ himself thus affirms and says of the bread, 'This is my body,' who is there afterwards who should dare to be doubtful? Once be changed the water into wine by his hely will, and in it not right to believe him, that he had changed the wine into blood? Therefore, let us re-ceive the body and blood of Christ with all certainty. Because, under the species of bread, is given his body to you, and under the species of wine, is given to you his blood. Keep it as most certain that the bread which we see is not bread, though to our taste it seems bread, but it is the body of Christ; and the wine which we see, though to the taste oppours to be wine, it is not wine, but it is the blood of Christ." Quare cum omni eertitudine corpus et eanquinem Christi sumanus. Nam evà specie panis datur tibi corpus, et sub specia vini datur sanguis . . . Pro certissimo habeas punem hune qui videtur a nobis non esse panem, etiamei quetus penem esse sentiat, sed esse corpus Christi, et vinum quod a nobis conspicitur, tametsi sensui gustus vinum esse rideutur, non tumen rinum, sed sanguinem esse Christi.

CONCLUSION. Thas been clearly proved, by means of undeniable authorities, that the Waldenses had their first origin in the second half of the twelfth century, and that Peter of Vaud, the rich merchant of Lyons, was their founder; that the persecutions endured by the Waldenses in Pienout were chiefly caused by their transgressing the laws of the country and the orders of their civil rulers; that the barbarise described by an unfaitful historian, and on his authority published by other writers, as perpetrated against them in the year 1655, are all mere inventions of a deceiver; and that the religious opinions adopted by the same Waldenses, after separating from the Universal Church, are not the doctrines taught by our Lord or his Apostles.

The gentle reader, who has seen and perused this little volume, not commendable indeed for its elecution and style. but yet entitled to some consideration on account of the authorities and documents herein contained, will, I hope, take now the trouble to east his eyes again on my preface, and compare the established historical facts with the unwarranted assertions related there to have been made at a meeting held last year at the London residence of a noble Duke. In making this comparison, he will be surprised at seeing the old saying confirmed, that "There is nothing so clear and certain that may not be easily distorted by false assertions and sophistries." In fact, none of those bold assertions there made, can stand when brought face to face with the real facts. Every proposition stated there is not only incorrect, but has not any foundation of truth. It is not true that the "Waldenses had guarded the primitive Christianity of the Apostles for at least sixteen hundred years." They appeared the first time only six hundred years ago. It is not true, that "The beginning of their belief is unknown." By a great number of contemporaries it is proved that they separated from the Universal Church, of whom they were children, in the second half of the twelfth century. And, setting aside the other assertions respecting their doctrines and sufferings, so fully contradicted in the second and third parts, it is not true that Irenæus, the glorious Bishop and Martyr of Lyons, "Had founded in the second century a Church for the Waldenses." They did not exist until ten centuries after his time. That St. Irenæus, the champion of the Apostolical succession of the Roman Pontiffs, the assertor of the Traditions of the Church, the conqueror of all heresies, can be stated to have founded a Church for those who resisted the Roman Church, rejected the Traditions of the ancient Fathers, and held doctrines characterized as heretical by the same Church, is most intolerable and calumnious.

The labour I have undergone in collecting and putting in order and commenting upon the documents published, many of them for the first time, in this volume, will not be despised, I hope, by those learned men who, being free from prejudiced opinions, will be glad to see some better light shining upon the Waldensian origin and facts. These facts - have too often been distorted and misrepresented, on account of the narrative of John Leger being taken as a true historical statement. It will be a full reward to me, and will cause me to forget the tediousness of my labour, if these persons will judge that I have not lost my time, and am giving to the public a volume not altogether un-profitable.

Before ending I cannot disguise my fear in relation to another class of persons, who have the idea deeply rooted in their mind that the Waldenses are the link of the golden chain connecting the Protestants and new Reformers with the Apostles and disciples of the Primitive Church. When hearing of a book which shows clearly that the imaginary link does not exist, and that the Apostolical origin, the innocent conduct, and the pure doctrine of the old Waldenses cannot be maintained; they will, perhaps, rise up against my little work. I can well imagine that some of this class will at least say that this publication is only good for mischief; that it is contrary to the persussion of all the good friends of the Vaudois; and that it would have been much better to have left matters as they stood for centuries. Such persons may be compared to that man mentioned by Horace, who, instead of being grateful to his friends for having restored him to his senses, reproached them in these words: "By Jove! you have killed and not saved me, friends, by taking thus foreibly away my pleasure and the most pleasing rambling of my mind." *

I conclude by saying to those, who are more influenced by party spirit than by a love of truth, that no objection against this poor volume will be conclusive, if the Documents brought forward here are not proved to be false.

• Pol! me occidistis, amici,
Non servastis, ait ; cui sic extorta voluptas,
Et demptus per vim mentis gratissimus error.
(Hor. Epistol. iib. ii. ep., ii. ad Julium Florum.)

INDEX.

CTS, Public of Piemont, carliest in which the Waldenses are named,

Alms sent to the Waldenses from England in 1655, to the amount of £7500, note 40, p. 60.

Barra, name given by the Waldenses to their spiritual rulers in Piemont, and why, 42.

Bellavilla (de). See Borbone.

Beles Mayus, or Belesmanis, or Bolesmanis, Archbishop of Lyons, exiles the Waldenses from his district, note 6, pp. 3, 12, 13, 14, 89.

Bernard, Abbot of Chande Fontaine, writer against the Waldenses about the year 1200; 14, 16.

- Archbishop of Narhonne, condemns the Waldenses as heretics, according to the sentence of Raymandus de Deventria, 14, 15. Primo, formerly a Waldensis, Raymnndas de Deventra, 18, 15.

— Primo, formerly a Waldensis, nuited to the Catholic Church, and chief of a religious society approved by Pope Alexander III., in 1210, Bianchi, a criminal condemned to death, quoted by J. Leger, as confirming the details of his narrative, Blessings. See Consecration.

Borbone, or de Bella Villa F. Stevan, a preacher of the Dominican order, anthor of a book on the gifts of the Holy Chost, 9.

— his interesting account of the origin of the Waldenses, 10, 14.

Bradshaw, Henry, Librarian of the radshaw, Henry, Librarian of the University of Cambridge, discoverer of the long lost Waldensian mannscripts, preface;

- his statement on the true dates of the same, 53, 54. Brethren of Onr Lord, the so-called.

his consins, note 43, p. 22.

Castara' (De) Samnel, opinions on the Waldenses, 31, 32. Champion (Rev. Edmund) view of the antiquity of the Waldenses, 32, 33. Church (The) of God, failure of, under Pone Sylvester, asserted by the Waldenses, 8, 101.

—— denied by the Catholics, note 44,
p. 102.

definition of, according to the Bohemian Waldenses, and according to the Catholics, note 68, p. 127.

ing to the Catholics, note 25, p. 127.
Clandins, Bishop of Turin, an iconoclast, had no followers—hlamed by his contemporaries, dishononred in his remains, 45, 46.
Communion under the two kinds,

Communion under the two kinds, opinion of the Waldonses and Catholics concerning, notes 67, 68, p. 128. Condemnation (the first principal) of the Waldenses, note 1, p. 2.

Confession (Auricular), denied by the Bohemian Waldenses, and confessed necessary by the Catholics, notes

64, 65, p. 125.

— (Sacramental), doctrine of, according to the Waldenses and the Catholics, notes 51, 52, p. 111.

Consecration and Blessing, opinions of the Waldenses, 106, and Catholics concerning, note 48, p. 107. Constanting the Great, did not leave the Western ompire to Pope Sylvester, note 33, p. 49.
Cromwell, the Protector, offers to transplant the Waldenses to Ireland, 70.

Dates of the carliest public acts of Piemont in which the Waldenses are named, 44.

— (false), assigned by Leger and his followers to the oldest Walden-sian manuscripts, 52.

—— the real, of the same manuscripts,

53, 54.

— proved, proofs from the contents of the Waldensian manuscripts,

54-57.
Doctraines (religions) of the Waldenses:—

 do not contain many errors attributed to them by mistake, 87.
 not at first at variance with the doctrines of the Catholic Church, 88; afterwards some of their doctrines opposed to the teaching of the Church, 89.

— did not originally profess many doctrines afterwards adopted from Calvin, 90.

the Senate of Turin, 20,21.

—reproached for their religious changes, by M. A Rorengo, 21; admitted at first, like the Catholics, the whole of the Bible, 28, 29; the Seven Sarraments, 25, 26; the honour due to the Virgin Mary, 27, 28; the confession of sins, 26; the necessity of good works:

chastity — the indissolnhility of marriage, 28, 29.
Cburch.
Communion.

Confessions and confessing sins. Consecration. Fasting.

Holy days.
Images and relics.
Indulgences.
Lay magistrates.
Lice.
Lord's Prayer, Murders.

Pope and Priests. Preaching.

Purgatory.
Saints.
Scriptures.
Transubstantiation.

Document (the oldest public) in which the Waldenses are montioned, 43. Dubravins (John, Bishop of Olmuta), his opinion of the character of Peter Waldensis, 41.

Dungalins writes against Claudins,
Bishop of Turin, 46.

Durandus of Huesca, formerly a master of Waldism, in Milan, united to the Catholic Church with many followers, 82.

--- his Society approved in 1208, hy Alexander III., 82.

Engraving representing the alleged massacres of the Waldenses. See Massacres.

Epoch (the) of the beginning of the Waldensian sect, confirmed by the Waldensian manuscripts, note 37, p. 51. See Origin and Dates.

FASTING, the Waldenses dony the necessity of, and the Catholics maintain it, 117.

Ferreri (St. Vincent), preaches in the valley of Angrogua, note 26, p. 37.

Hennits of St. Angustin, the two Societies of Bernardo Primo and of Durandus of Huesca incorporated with, in 1256, 82

Histoire veritable of the Vandols, in the King's Library of Turin; its anthor's opinion on John Leger, 75, 76, 82.

Holy days of obligation not admitted by the Waldenses, except Sundays; contrary opinion of Catholics.

Huss (John), See Wickliff.

IMAGES of Saints. See Relice.
Indulgences condemned by the Waldenses upheld by Catholics, note 59, 60, p. 116.

Innocent the Eighth; his letter con-

INDEX.

- denses, 64.
- Innocent the Third condemns the Waldenses, note 23, p. 43.
- Iroland, a part of, offered to the Waldenses of Piemont by Cromwell, note 41, p. 70.
- Irensens, St., wrongly stated to have built a church to the Waldenses. Conclusion.
- Irish regiment, none with the minister Pianessa in 1655; 70, 71.
- Jaxza, Bishop of Turin; his application to the Emperor Otho for assistance in driving away the Waldenses, note 23, p. 42. Joseph, chastity of St., asserted by
- the Waldenson, 92.

  LAY MAGISTRATES, views of the Waldenson concerning their power, &c., - 122, 123.
  Leger, Anthony, nucle of John, retires to Geneva, condemned to death, 59.
- 60, 61. Legor, John, cantion respecting, 52.
  - his character, given by Guishernon, 59.

    — by the author of the "Histeire
- Veritable," 60.

   perverts the order of Maria
- Christina, 61.

  —deceives Morland—forges dates of the Waldensian MSS.—his mis-
- statements—condemned to death for high treason, 62. —— sentence upon him, 63.
- his details of cruelties compared with the real depositions, 72 to 83.
- his erroneous interpretations of the statements of Reinerins Sacco —of Pilichdorff—of Archhisbop Soyssell — Samnel de Casinis— Ed. Champion—Prior Borengo— Rev. T. Bolvedere, £2. See also Bianchi and Mondone.
- Leo in the time of Constantine—reputed facts concerning him mere fables, 27, 28, 29, 45, 46, 42.

  Lies, view of the Waldenses concern-
- ing, and of the Catholics, note 55, 56, p. 113.

- Lingard's sketch about the facts of the year 1655; 68 to 71. Lord's Prayer, the doctrine of the
- Waldenses as to; of the Catholics, note 45, p. 163. Louis the Pions, causes many occle-
- stastics to write against Claudins, histor of Turin, 46. Lucins III., Pope, condemned the
- Monastier 16.

  Lacins III., Pope, condemned the Waldenses, in 1184, at Verona; his words, notes 7 and 8. See also Monastier 16.
- MANUSCRIPTS, the extant Waldensian, true antiquity of, note 37, p. 51. Manes or Maneus, Walter; his state-
- Mapes or Mapeus, Walter; his statoment about the Waldenses; his work, "De Nugis Carialinm," in Rome at the third Council of Lateran, note 25, pp. 24, 83. Massacres, the supposed, described
- hy Leger, first published with engravings by Morland, republished twenty-two years after by Leger, with the same ongravings, compared with the real depositions, 71
- to 83.

  Mondone, quoted by Leger as having received the depositions of the details of the supposed massacres in his quality of a public notary, not a notary then, and declared not to have received any depositions, 22.
- Monastier, Anthony; his statement about the Pope Lucius the Second proved erroneous, note 39, p. 56, 57. Moneta, Ven. Father, flourished in
  - 1230, professor of philosophy—became a Dominican—wrote "Contra Catharos et Valdenses" in 1244— Vicar of St. Dominio in Milan ovidence on the Origin of the Waldenses—his arguments against some Waldensian tenets, 4 to 2.
  - Morland, Sir Samnel, misinformed and misled by Leger in relation to the Waldensian facts, 52.

    — his "History of the Evangelical
  - Chnrch" may be regarded as the first edition of Leger — bis chanacter defended, 35; sent by Cronwell to Turin, and entertained in Turin at the Duke's expense, 20. deposits the MSS, relating to — his translation of a Waldensian passage, 97.

Moscheim, statement of, that Peter of Vand or Vaux is the founder of the Waldenses, blamed by the English translator, 47, 48.

Murders, particulars of, related by J. Leger proved inconsistent, See Massacres, — doctrines of the Waldenses, 122, and of the Catholics, concerning, 123.

NEADDER, Dr. Angustus, derives the soct of the Waldenses from Peter

Waldns, 38, Nohla Leycon, La, two MSS, of, existing in the library of the University of Cambridge do not support the or Cambridge do not support the antiquity of the Waldensian sect stated by Leger—description of, 52 to 57.

photograph and lithograph of.

Frontispiece, 58.

OATES, doctrine of the Waldenses as to, notes 53, 54, p. 112; of the Catholics, ib.

Obedience to lay magistrates not always denied by the Waldenses, 122.

Catholic teaching about the same, 123.

Opinions. See Religions Opinions. Origin of the Waldenses, note 3, pp. 2, 5, 8, 11, 12, 16, 19, 23, 26, 27, 28, 34, 35, 38, 39, 40, 41, 45, 48, 50, 57.

PAINTINGS. See Relies.
Perrin derives the Vandois from Poter Valdo, 47.

— has not translated faithfully the Waldensian MSS., 95.

— hie history the offspring of the French Protestant Church, 97.Persecution of the Waldenses in Piemont; why they were persecuted, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 84, 85, — details of facts relating to the persecution of 1655; 69, 20. Piacezza, Marquis of, fought against the Waldenses, 69.

Piccolomini's, Encas Sylvius, statement does not confirm the false antiquity of the Waldenses, 30.

Pilichdorff, Peter, S. T. P.; epoch of his writing on the Waldenses, and various MSS. of his work, 20.

traces across of the work, actrue version of a passage from, unfaithfully quoted by Leger and others, 21.

ber of years corrected, 22.

Pope (the Pope of Rome) called an heresiarch by the Waldenses; respected by the Catholics as the Primate and Chief of the Church of God, 108, 109.

Preaching, public, permitted to everybody, according to the Waldenses, not according to Catholics, note 50,

p. 110.

Priests, when wicked, have no authority, according to the Waldesses, 108; according to the Catholics, their anthority depends only npon their ordination, note 49, p.

Purgatory, the, regarded by the Waldenses as an invention of the sixth century, 114.

— by Catholics maintained to be an article of old Christian faith, notes 57, 58, p. 115.

RAYMUNDUS DE DEVENTRIA. See Bernard, Archh. of Narhonne. Records of public men proving the rehellion of the Waldenses, 84.

Reinerins Sacco, from heing history of heretics, became a Dominican.

and defender of the Catholic faith.

— notices about the MSS. of his works, note 2, p. 17.

— passage of his work misconstrued

 passage of his work misconstrued
 by Leger and others.
 derives the Waldenses from the merchant of Lyons.

date of his writing, 18, 19.

Relics, paintings and images of Saints, views of the Waldenses respecting.

note 62, p. 120; of the Catholics, note 63, p. 121. Richard of Cluny, writer of the lives of Popes Alexander III. and Innocent III., 1.

— his statement about Peter Waldns

INDEX.

as founder of the Waldensian sect in the year 1170; 2. Rorenge (Rev. Mark Aurelins, Count Sorengo (Rev. Mark Aurelins, Count of Lacerne, fisledly quoted by Leger and Morlandly, does not confirm hat destroys their assertions; disproves the boasted antiquity and ancient succession of the Waldenses, 33, 34, SACCA. See Reinerius Succo.

35, 34

Saints (the) according to the Waldenses, are not to be invoked, 118. Catholic doctrine on the same subject, note 61, p. 119.

Scriptures (the Holy) alone, according to the Waldenses, sufficient for salvation, note 45, p. 10½ by the Catholies not deemed sufficient without the Tradition of the Church, note 47, p. 165.

Sects at Milan in the middle of the thirteenth century, number of, 10. Seyssell, Archhishop of Turin, his testimony as to the antiquity of the Waldensian sect in his diocese, note 20, pp. 25, 25.

See also Leo.

Sims (the Rev. Thomas), his very ingenious and true remarks on the supposed date of La Nohla Leycon, 55, 56.

Tamprioss (the Apostolical) held by the Catholic Church, note 47, p. 105. Translation and transcription of part of the Bible in the vernscular language by two priests, by desire of Peter Waldensis, 11.

Transmistantiation, doctrine of the Waldenses as to; of the Catholics, notes 69, 70, p. 129.

Waldensis, or de Vandia, or Vaudois, or Valdo (Peter):

his birthplace and dwellinghouse, note 2, pp. 2, 27. — caused part of the Bible to be trauslated by two priests, 2, 11.

author of the Waldensian sect, notes 20, 35, pp. 2, 5, 8, 10, 16, 19, 23, 26, 27, 35, 38, 39, 40, 41, 47, 48, 50, 51.

- his riches and learning, 2, 11, 19.
his preaching, 12, 28, 29.
his change of life pote 11, pp. 2 his change of life, note 11, pp. 3, 13, 19, 41.

restrained from preaching —

exiled and excommunicated, or condemned, notes 1, 7, 8, pp. 3, 12, 16, 20, 24, 28, educated in the Catholic Church with his first followers, 40.

Vallenses, or Valdenses (the name of), given hy two old writers to the fol-given by two old writers to the followers of Peter de Vaudia, false derivation of, 15, 16. Virgin Mary, views of the Waldenses irgin Mary, views of the Waldense concerning, 29.

WALDENSES (The):

____ founded by Peter Waldensis, 2, 5, 10, 30, 41, 47.

— origin proved by the Waldensian MSS, 48, 51, 52. — not the successors of the Apostles, 6, Z.

— date when they were restrained or condemned, note 1, pp. 2, 3.

— why called Poor of Lyons, 10.

appearance of holiness, and their disguises, 13, 14, 25, did not exist in the time of Pope

Silvestor, 22.

their derivation from a certain Leo at the time of Constantine the Great, a fable, 26, 27, 28, 29.

were not in existence at the time of Claudins, Bishop of Turin, 45, 46.

spread over the mountains of Dauphiny, and, many years afterwards, into different parts of the world, 34, 35.

— not in Piemont before the end of the twelfth century, 37, 38.

approximate date of their going into Piemout, 26, 41, 43.

their conduct there at first, 42.

so named when they went into Piemont, 43.

were not in Piemont before the time of Peter Waldo, 43, 44.

— punished in Piemout for their rebellions and crimes, 63, 67.

— confess their guilt in a public petition, 67, 68.

Manuscripts. Murders.

Persecutions (of the). Religious Doctrines (of the). Records (of the).

Walter Mapes. See Mapes. War in Piemont, number of killed in, 40, 43, 85, Wickliff and Huse (John), followers of the old Waldenses, 124. Writers (the) of the Waldensian facts not blameable for their mis-statements, being deceived by Leger, 53. Writers and books (a list of) consulted by the Anthor-Preface.

CHISWICK PRESS: PRINTED BY WHITTINGHAM AND WILKINS, TOOKS COURT, CHANCERY LANE.

CORRIGENDA.

Page 33, line 17, for "taught" read "thought".

Page 33, line 10, for "Sir James Merland "read "Sir Samuel Merland."

Page 38, line 10, for "Sir James Merland "read" sir Samuel Merland."

Page 88, line 54, read "the extract of his marrative as nearly as possible in his own words."

Page 910, line 17, for "pames" read "spreas."

Page 913, line 10, for "six" "read" "averon."

Page 131, line 2, for "six" read "averon."

read " Innocent."

